At Least 18 Killed, 30 Injured As Flames Sweep S.F. Hotel

FIRE RESCUE — Firemen help an elderly man down a ladder from the burning Thomas Hotel in San Francisco early today. Several persons were trapped in the 160-room structure where at least 18 lost their lives. (AP Wirephoto)

Firemen Save Many With Ladders, Nets

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Fire swept through a low-rental four-story hotel in downtown San Francisco early today, killing at least 18 persons and injuring more than 30.

A few hours later Raymond Gorman, 62, in whose room police said the fire began, was booked for suspicion of manslaughter. Gorman suffered from smoke inhalation.

Police and witnesses said the 5 a.m. fire started in his mattress and spread from his first-floor room upstairs through an elevator shaft of the Thomas Hotel, 971 Mission Street. Fire Chief William Murray said the death list of 18 might rise.

It was the worst fire here in more than a decade and came on one of the coldest mornings in the city's history.

The four-story structure had 160 cheap rooms and all but 14 were occupied when the fire burst out.

Chief Murray said some of the victims were trapped in their rooms by the flames; others were asphyxiated.

SMELLED SMOKE

Ironically, the chief said, the fire was seen earlier and thought to be extinguished.

"The guy in Room 42 smelled smoke in Room 41," Murray said. "He found a mattress smoldering and poured water on it. Then he went back to bed."

The man in Room 41 was identified as Gorman.

Earl Blake, chief of the city's emergency hospitals, directed a steady flow of ambulances carrying dozens from the hotel.

"There were two or three dozen seriously hurt," he said.

ONE WOMAN

The dead included at least one woman.

"I'm afraid there'll be more," said Murray.

The hotel housed many pensioners and others unable to work.

Many of the older residents were drunk, police said.

The most intense portion of the fire was at the rear of the building, facing a narrow alley. Firemen had a difficult time moving equipment there and the rear wall quickly became a solid sheet of flames, visible for a long distance.

Some people jumped to safety. Others, including at least two in wheelchairs, were carried out by firemen.

SHEET ROPE

One man, Herbert Isett, tried to descend from the top floor by using a rope made of knotted sheets. The knots parted and Isett fell four stories to the pavement, breaking his back and legs.

The temperature was 36 degrees, only seven degrees higher than the lowest ever recorded here, 29 in 1888.

More than a fourth of San Francisco's fire department was called out.

Chief Murray said every emergency truck and ambulance in the city also responded. Twenty-two engine companies and nine truck companies—with more than 200 firemen—fought the fire.

Four men and a woman jumped into nets held by firemen.

"That's the first time in years that we've used nets here," the chief said, "but it's the quickest way to get 'em out."

BY NEW SUPERVISORS

Financial Probe Of County Starts

An investigation of every aspect of Marin County financial affairs was quietly started yesterday afternoon by the economy-minded two-man finance committee of the county board of supervisors.

Recommendations of certain "reform" actions are expected soon, with the data processing bureau under Auditor-Controller Leon A. deLisle scheduled for early attention.

Committee chairman J. Walter Blair and his associate George Ludy, both of whom joined the board only last Monday, visited the data processing bureau at the termination of an all-afternoon tour yesterday and were picking up the trail at that point again this afternoon. Blair already had this to say:

"We probably will be able to show that county taxpayers as a whole are not receiving any particular benefit from the machine operation."

Blair and Ludy went through only preliminary investigation on inventory and other matters yesterday, talking with Arleigh R. Sewell, data processing supervisor, and reserving more extensive exploration of the department for this afternoon. But Blair had one example of a situation of what he considered somewhat dubious efficiency:

"The schools are asking data processing to do report cards. It is said that this has saved each teacher one hour a week. But we are paying out money to have it done, while the teachers sit. Maybe there is more to it than that. We want to be fair and get full facts."

Supervisor Chairman William D. Fusselman declared, "We want to get the entire picture from the standpoint of the county taxpayer."

Blair and Ludy met at 1:30

Keating Rules Self Out In Hayden Case

Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin County Superior Court today disqualified himself from the Sterling Hayden right-to-travel case.

The judge withdrew from case after a half-hour study of a challenge presented by Chester L. Smith, Beverly Hills attorney for the Belvedere actor's former wife, Betty Ann DeNoon.

"In my 30 years as counsel and judge I've never had a disqualifying motion before," Judge Keating told the attorney.

Judlge Keating said he would try to assign the case to another judge this afternoon. He disqualified himself under a section of the Civil Code which does not require a reason to be stated.

However, the judge said that there was nothing in the affidavit presented by Smith that said anything about prejudice by the court.

Judge Keating reached his decision at 11:30 a.m. He said the disqualification matter must be decided before a hearing on Hayden's right to take his five children to Sweden and Denmark.

BLAZE DELAYS COMMUTE BUS RUNS TO MARIN

Fire that swept the Thomas Hotel on San Francisco's Mission Street caused Greyhound commute buses to run up to 25 minutes late into Marin County this morning.

Buses were held up and re-routed as streets around the burning hotel were blocked off to handle the entire equipment of the San Francisco Fire Department—the greatest concentration of fire equipment at any blaze in that city in recent years.

Weekend Rain Expected To End Cold Snap

Gale warnings flew on the Northern California coast today and the Weather Bureau promised weekend rain to break the most severe cold snap in a decade.

Temperatures may still be below normal, however, the forecaster cautioned.

Sub-freezing temperatures were again recorded in Marin—and again lingered well into the morning.

The cold caused formation of heavy ice on power wires and the icing was blamed for a seven-minute blackout of some 800 homes in the area from Black Point to Ignacio.

Leonard H. Robertson, Pacific Gas and Electric Co. electrical superintendent here, said ice caused failure of a 110,000-volt transmission line leading from near Vallejo to Ignacio.

There were other power interruptions in the Bay Area blamed to the icing also.

San Rafael recorded a minimum temperature of 33 degrees this morning atop the city hall. Noontime temperature was a chilly 38, up four degrees from yesterday.

Low reading at the county firehouse in Woodacre was 30

Novatan Dies Of Injuries In Car Crash

Walter Dills, 22-year-old Novato truck driver whose second child was born only two weeks ago, died today of injuries suffered when a car in which he was a passenger struck a train on the Black Point Cutoff yesterday.

Dills, 22-year-old truck driver was the first victim of traffic in Marin County in the new year. Last year's first victim also died on Jan. 6, victim of a crash on the Waldo Grade.

Dills was a passenger in a car driven by A/1c John Benjamin Martin, 22, of the 78th Supply Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base, which hit a slow-moving freight train near the Black Point Cutoff-Redwood Highway intersection in the foggy night early yesterday.

The California Highway Patrol disclosed today that Dills was registered owner of the car, although he was in the back seat and Martin was driving at the time of the crash.

Dills suffered head injuries which proved fatal. Martin, who suffered fracture and dislocation of the right hip, nose fracture and multiple cuts and bruises, was reported in good condition today at Letterman Army Hospital.

Dills was a truck driver for Kilpatrick Bakeries. He had remained a Marin resident since completing Air Force service at Hamilton two years ago. He resided at 55 Bridge Road in Novato. (A San Rafael address given yesterday is that of in-law relatives.)

He is survived by his wife, Carol; a 22-month-old son, David, and the two-week-old daughter, Denice; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Dills of North Carolina, and four brothers and one sister in the east.

County 'Scrooge' Tale Reaches Happy Ending

Just like in Dicken's "Christmas Carol," that "old Scrooge" drama of the Marin County data processing bureau seemed headed today for a happy ending.

A letter from Auditor-Controller L. A. deLisle was being delivered by hand to Mrs. Beryl Green at 118-A Hawthorne Avenue, Larkspur, offering to "approve the withdrawal of your resignation if you return to work as soon as possible."

This was based on a Dec. 30 letter addressed by Mrs. Green to deLisle—but never received by him, he said today—expressing willingness to work as tabulator operator on the swing shift but objecting to shortness of notice given her Dec. 27 to take night duty next day.

Mrs. Green personally delivered a carbon copy for the supervisors to County Clerk George S. Jones and she left a copy for Arleigh Sewell, data processing supervisor. Sewell showed his copy to deLisle.

"Mrs. Green's procedure was irregular," said deLisle. "Ordinarily in any case of forced resignation there is an appeal. I'd have talked with her and straightened things out if she had come to me."

Sewell said, "I don't want to be an old Scrooge and what we all want is a happy ending to this Christmas Carol."

Jones, who had experienced a little delay in inviting Mrs. Green to attend the Monday session of the supervisors because the Green phone had been disconnected, said that early today he had a phone call from her promising to be present — "but it looks as though that might not be necessary now," he commented.

Wrote deLisle: "On the basis of your recent expression of willingness to work the swing shift when necessary, I wish to advise you that we will approve the withdrawal of your resignation if you return to work as

'Fighting Finn' Aids Colonel In Poaching Trial

A reserve Air Force colonel, who would take over command of Travis Air Force Base in case of war, was defending himself today in Marin County Municipal Court against charges of poaching on the Silveira Ranch.

Col. James Bruce Morehead, 44, of Petaluma, faces a maximum sentence of three years in jail and/or a $3,000 fine if convicted.

LEGAL ADVICE

Sitting beside Morehead in Judge Harold P. Haley's court today was self-styled attorney Charles Finn, on of the "fighting Finn twins," who whispered legal advice to Morehead.

The Finn twins made news with protracted legal battles with the government over possession of an Air Force surplus plane several years ago.

Morehead said Finn was a friend of "many, many years." The pair had met at flight training school prior to World War II.

FIGHTER PILOT

The commander of the 8669th Air Reserve Unit, the reserve colonel is a real estate agent in Petaluma. He served as fighter pilot in World War II and the Korean War.

He was stationed at Hamilton Air Force Base prior to the Korean War and on one flight had to parachute from his plane when it caught fire over the base.

In the event of war, Travis Air Force Base personnel would be moved to an advance base of operation and Morehead's 1,110-man outfit would take over the base.

Morehead was arrested by

CUBAN WORKERS AT BASE — Marine guards search Cuban workers leaving the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay after their day's chores. Approximately 3,600 Cubans are employed at the base. They also are searched by Cubans before crossing into Cuban soil. The dollars they earn and take home are probably the reason why Castro allows them to go on working at the base. (AP Wirephoto)

THERE'S NO CHANCE OF 'PEARL HARBOR' IN CUBA

Guantanamo Has More Fighter Planes Than All Of Castro's

By EVERETT S. ALLEN

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) —There will be no "Pearl Harbor" at the U. S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. Fidel Castro cannot take it with the military power at his disposal. And those who are inclined to aid him, Communist China and the Soviet Union are not willing to take the risk that such an attack would involve.

These facts do not stop the American personnel there from accepting the possibility of serious trouble.

As one combat-experienced officer put it, "How do we know how many launchings pads they've got behind the ridge back of the one we can see? How do we even know he's going to be logical enough to know he can't win?"

Actually, if Castro has launching pads aimed at Guantanamo and the United States does not know it, it would be surprising indeed. Castro has accused Americans of flying U-2 planes over Cuba to spot military activity; frankly, nothing as superlative as the U-2 is required and the air thereabouts is bustling with faster-than-sound aircraft.

At Guantanamo's leeward point, on the southwest corner of the base, there are U. S. pilots with jets. These aircraft are both carrier and land-based; they are capable of nuclear assault and are designed variously to support surface craft and to attack ground targets.

At leeward point at any given moment, there are more planes than there are in the whole Cuban air force.

The Cubans have eight to 10 Soviet MIG-15 fighters that they don't know how to fly yet. But they probably are getting Soviet instruction on this. They also have a handful of B-26's, U. S. medium bombers given to Cuba in pre-Castro days.

For a navy, Castro has a half dozen frigates and patrol craft, a single ancient cruiser and a dozen wooden launches. Trusting neither the army or navy, however, he has jailed many officers from each to thwart possible insurrection so he might not even be able to get his fleet to sea.

This is not to suggest the Castro military strength is of the musical comedy variety. His 26th of July revolutionary movement numbered 8,000 men; they captured arms and equipment sufficient for a force of 25,000. His militia, a tough organization of men and women who train evenings with Czech rifles, now totals 200,000. At least 12 Soviet ships have delivered arms and ammunition to Cuba since last July.

Castro now has 93,000 late model automatic rifles, 11,000 sub-machine guns, 55 tanks, 40 of which are from the Soviet bloc; 60 armored personnel carriers, 25 field guns, 80 anti-aircraft guns, 15 Soviet model mobile radar units and 100 3.5 inch rocket launchers with 8,000 rockets to match.

Mindful of all this, the U. S. Marines—there are 400 here, although Castro has charged 10,000—guard the 24-mile fence around the base 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Cactus and brush have been bulldozed from the faces of hillsides next to the fence to cut down concealing cover for anyone trying to sneak in.

A Naval emergency ground defense force, composed of base operating personnel is charged with the internal security job in emergency. In daylight and dark they go through regular war games; the object: Learn how to round up and kill if necessary, infiltrators and saboteurs.

What happens if there is trouble in a two-phased program. The Marines, supported by tanks the number of which is secret, dig in and hold until the ground defense force rounds up the infiltrators. Air support, both offensive and defensive, immediately is available.

This doesn't begin to count the help that will come from outside: "Gitmo" has no heavy artillery but the "fleet is just over the horizon" and that's where the big guns will come from.

The important thing is that Guantanamo doesn't have to contact anybody higher up for the "big decision" policy. Now it is shaped so that when "conditions A. B and C" are met, as one officer put it, "the button is pushed."

Guantanamo then launches its defense program and the support from outside—the air and sea strength from Norfolk to Key West—including missiles, cruisers and carriers arrives "within hours."

PATROL AT GUANTANAMO—A Marine jeep and helicopter move along the fence (left) which divides the naval base at Guantanamo Bay from Cuba. The boundary is patrolled night and day by Marines and sailors. The base, of rough and hilly terrain, contains about 45 square miles. (AP Wirephoto)

VICTORY FOR U.S.

U.N. Council Rejects Cuba Invasion Charge

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council last night discarded Cuba's latest charge that she is facing imminent invasion from the United States.

A majority of members of the 11-nation body made clear in debate they did not believe there was any evidence to back up the charge made last Saturday by the Fidel Castro government that an invasion was coming within hours.

The council ended its two-day debate without a vote—a victory for the United States, which termed the charge ridiculous and asked that it not be dignified by formal action.

A resolution by Chile and Ecuador—merely calling on the United States and Cuba to settle their differences by peaceful means—was not pressed to a vote. Of the 11 council members, only the Soviet Union supported the Cuban charge. Ceylon and the United Arab Republic did not commit themselves.

The rest of the council — Britain, Chile, Nationalist China, Ecuador, France, Liberia and Turkey—agreed with the United States that the charge had not been proved.

U.A.R. Delegate Omar Loutfi, the council president for January, ended the debate with a brief statement expressing the hope "that nothing will be done which could in any way aggravate" the tension between the United States and Cuba.

It was the third U.N. defeat for Castro's regime in its efforts to pin aggression charges on the United States.

Last July Cuba failed to stop a resolution shunting charges of economic aggression to the Organization of American States, which rejected them. Last October the Cubans failed to get immediate U.N. assembly debate on charges that the United States was preparing a big-scale military invasion. The later charge still awaits action in the assembly political committee, which is in recess until March.

In a final statement, Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa insisted that the threat of invasion "still hangs over Cuba despite the U.S. denial." He declared that if American forces invade his country, "they will not meet a Cuba who is alone."

Christmas Tree Burning Tonight

Belvedere's twelfth night Christmas tree burning ceremoney will begin at 8 p.m. today when the signal to "light up" is given by recreation commission chairman E. Allen Steinau Jr.

Mayor Robert P. Watkins will conduct the program, to start at 7:30 p.m. It will include several selections by the Reed School Orchestra and a choral group, under direction of E. L. Blackmore, will sing.

The Belvedere volunteer fire department will stand by to control the blaze.

Film On Annapolis Shown To Cadets

Cadets at San Rafael Military Academy this week welcomed back an ex-cadet.

James S. Ibach, Naval Academy midshipman, addressed the local cadets in assembly and showed a colored film of life at Annapolis. After the film Ibach, 21, son of Cmdr. and Mrs. Roy A. Ibach of Mill Valley, answered questions about a midshipman's life at Annapolis.

Castro Keeps Troops Ready All Over Island

HAVANA (AP) — Troops were on the move everywhere today in this Caribbean island—once a favorite winter playground—as Fidel Castro kept his nation in a frenzy to fight off the invasion he claims is coming from the United States.

The United States termed Castro's latest invasion charge ridiculous, and a majority of the U.N. Security Council said after two days of debate the Cubans had not proved the charge. But the Cuban regime put on the most intensive military display it could muster.

MANY SEARCHES

A wave of searches of Roman Catholic organizations and the arrest of at least nine Catholic students or teachers was reported, but it was not immediately clear whether a widespread movement against the church or its affiliates was under way.

Anti-aircraft and anti-tank guns studded Malecon, Havana's picturesque seafront that in pre-Castro days was a favorite promenade for tourists at this time of year—mostly Americans.

Artillery emplacements sprouted throughout the rest of Havana and its suburbs.

ON ROOFTOPS

The capital resounded to the movement of grim-faced civilian soldiers. Militia men and women patrolled rooftops with machineguns at the ready.

Hundreds of blue-uniformed teen-agers, members of the revolutionary youth organization, carried burp guns and bazookas into the elegant Hotel Nacional overlooking the Gulf of Mexico.

Castro has charged that the Eisenhower administration is preparing to invade by Jan. 18, two days before it leaves office. If U.S. troops do not invade, Castro presumably will crow that his militant preparedness scared them off, and he will claim a victory over the hated northern neighbor.

The first bridge across the Arkansas River — the Baring Cross Bridge at Little Rock—was completed in 1873.

Navy To Start 'Water Lift' If Cuba Cuts Off Supply

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy plans to start a "water lift" to America's big base at Guantanamo Bay in Cuba if Premier Fidel Castro cuts off the present supply.

Except for water, the base is completely self-contained. At present, the water supply comes from the Yateras River five miles outside the base. If the Castro government should shut off this supply, there is enough water on hand in storage tanks to last several weeks.

A Navy spokesman said yesterday the supply on hand totals 10 million gallons — the normal consumption for three weeks. But this could be stretched, the spokesman said, to cover essential needs for several more weeks by rationing and by using ship-and-shore evaporators to distill salt water.

"We probably could get along indefinitely with evaporators but it would be more economic to organize a water lift to bring the supply by either tankers or barges from nearby islands," the spokesman said.

No Trouble At All

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) —When Chattanooga police were asked to help her find a car stolen in Nashville, they gave quick service. They found thec ar in front of the police station. The car and four teen-age occupants had been brought to police headquarters for routine questioning a few minutes before.

California Wine Drinking Is Up

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—More persons are drinking California wine this year than did last.

The California Wine Institute reports that market shipments between January and October last year show a 2.1 per cent increase over the same period in 1959, which itself was the biggest wine shipment year in the industry's history.

Market shipments between January and October totaled 104,526,296 gallons.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

14 Mystery Deaths

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — The state of New Jersey is investigating the deaths of 14 patients who died of hepatitis after receiving injections from a psychiatrist.

The attorney general's office, the State Board of Medical Examiners and the State Health Department, all were involved in the investigation of Dr. Albert L. Weiner of Erlton, a community about five miles from Philadelphia.

A health department spokesman said Weiner apparently gave injections of various drugs to calm his patients and it is possible the apparatus he used may have introduced the hepatitis virus into their blood.

Nepal Political Ban

KATMUNDA, Nepal (AP) — King Mahendra yesterday banned all political parties in Nepal. He also called for gradual development of a democracy from the bottom upward.

Prediction For '61

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Jerusalem Post today carried a number of predictions for 1961 by Ephraim Kishon, a leading humorist. One said: "The Russians send a man into space. He refuses to return."

The unusual variey of soil, climatic, and water conditions makes it possible to raise 269 different crops in California.

Crosby Trial Probe

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The district attorney's office, suspecting one or more persons may have committed perjury at the Dennis Crosby paternity trial, plans to question everyone connected with the case.

Dist. Atty. William B. McKesson said yesterday he wants to find out if there is enough evidence to warrant a perjury complaint or a grand jury investigation. Crosby, 26, son of Bing Crosby, last week was declared the father of a girl born out of wedlock three years ago to Hollywood divorcee Marilyn Miller Scott.

Illness Delays Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The third Finch murder trial, interrupted by a case of flu, may be droning through late January before a jury is even selected.

Yesterday's session was canceled when Maxwell Keith, attorney for Dr. R. Bernard Finch, phoned the court and said he was suffering from influenza. He said he expected to be able to return today.

Finch, 42, and his former mistress, Carole Tregoff, 24, are accused of murdering the doctor's wife.

Medical, School Bills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich.) has introduced in the Senate a 1.5-billion-dollar medical care plan for the aged and a 950-million-dollar program of federal aid to education.

They are part of President-elect John F. Kennedy's five-point domestic legislative program and are expected to be among the key issues of this session of Congress.

Campaign 'Don'ts'

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)—The Chinese Nationalist government today issued a list of "don'ts" for the 2,000-odd candidates seeking local office in the Jan. 15 election.

Among them: Don't seize the poll boxes; don't destroy the voting booths; don't bribe anybody in any way; don't adopt a platform contrary to national policies; don't make any groundless accusations against the government.

NEW ANTI-TANK WEAPON

A new Army XM-72 anti-tank rocket grenade, which is fired from its own disposable container, is demonstrated in this photo released in Washington. The Defense Department says it is highly effective against tanks, log emplacements and sandbag fortifications. The weapon can be carried by one man and fired from a standing, kneeling or prone position. It has a telescopic aluminum inner section that is extended before firing, then disposed of. Morton Asserts GOP Still Can Move Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican National Chairman Thruston B. Morton expressed confidence today the GOP can move ahead successfully without any change in its major principles.

The senator from Kentucky called the Nov. 8 defeat of Vice President Richard M. Nixon a temporary setback. He said it was so close it was like losing "the winning touchdown in a questionable play on the goal line."

But Morton, in a speech prepared for a meeting of the GOP National Committee, said the loss has been certified. He added the party's chagrin should not be dismissed lightly, but it also must not be reflected in the party's national conduct in the immediate future.

He said there is unbounded confidence among party leaders at all levels.

Morton called the party's 1960 platform the best in forward-looking Republican thought and said GOP leaders in Congress will press a positive program for the nation.

As the surest path to future success, Morton said the national committee must strengthen party organization in preparation for 1962 and make it even better than 1960 "when it delivered substantial congressional and state-level gains and half the presidential votes."

Morton said, "The fact is, that for a party which lost a major election we are in remarkably good shape." He added "In losing the White House against powerful and determined opposition the GOP shattered the hopes of the Democrats for a clear-cut mandate from the American electorate."

Morton claimed the Republicans demolished most of the issues in the last campaign, but did not fight hard enough in the centers of mass population where he said the Democrats did so well. And, he added, the GOP paid too little attention to the Negro vote. Eighty per cent of this group, he said, went to President-elect John F. Kennedy "despite the GOP record of achievement in the field of civil rights."

Better Radar Plane Control Is Desired

NEW YORK (AP)—A top federal aviation official says a better system of radar plane control is desirable, but at present there are insufficient airport personnel and radar scopes to do the job.

David Thomas, director of the Federal Aviation Agency's Bureau of Air Traffic Management, testified yesterday at a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing into the collision of a United Air Lines DC-8 jet and a Trans World Airlines Constellation. The Dec. 16 crash killed 134 persons, including six on the ground.

Thomas advocated a system under which planes would be kept under continuous radar surveillance from the time they neared the airport until they were on the ground.

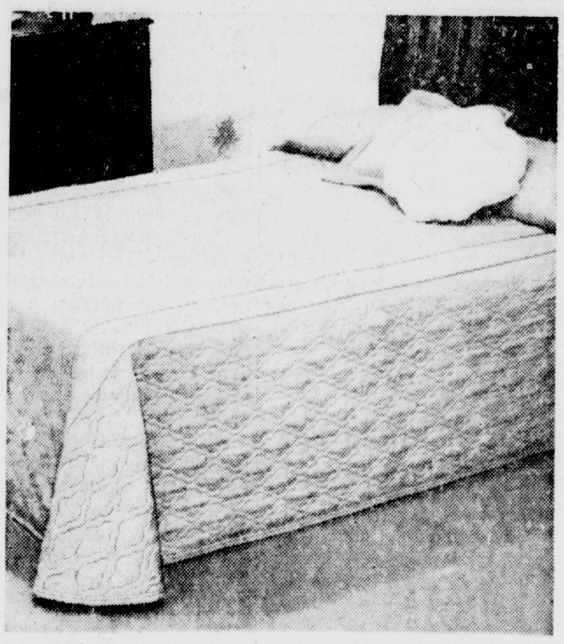

At present, Thomas said, the big drawback in radar was that it afforded no information on a plane's altitude.

Belgium Claims Strike Over In 2 Provinces

BRUSSELS (AP)—The government said today the 18-day-old strike has collapsed in two of Belgium's nine provinces. But rioting broke out in Liege in the industrial south and there were noisy demonstrations in Brussels.

Socialist leaders of the strike against the Conservative government's economy program were reported looking for a way to half the crippling walkouts. A source close to the Socialist high command said "the end is near."

Pierre Harmel, government spokesman, said the strike is over in the provinces of Limburg in the north and Luxembourg in the south.

Trouble, however, broke out in the southern industrial city of Liege where 30,000 strikers cheered Andre Renard, a union leader considered the real power behind the walkouts.

Up to 1,000 strikers attacked a railway station, a post office and a fire truck, but were hurled back by police who fired tear gas.

In Brussels, about 2,000 demonstrated in front of Forest Prison.

rancher Joseph F. Silveira and two ranch hands last Sept. 13. They said they found him dragging part of a year-old deer from the ranch to his car, parked on the west side of Highway 101 near the Sonoma County border.

He was charged with two counts of trespassing, discharging a firearm on private property, and four counts of violating the fish and game laws; possessing a loaded rifle on a public highway, failure to exhibit a deer in his possession on demand, failure to retain the skin and head of the deer and failure to have the deer tagged.

Morehead said he was trying to get to a hunting club near the ranch. Silveira said the colonel tried to escape in his car, but was cut off by Silveira's pickup truck.

The tall, slender ex-pilot successfully challenged only one juror during the hour-long jury selection today. He rejected a former San Francisco detective.

A jury of six men and six women were to hear the case this afternoon. Deputy Dist. Atty. Charles L. Convis is prosecuting.

Finn made no comment to the court during the selection of jury but frequently whispered into Morehead's ear.

"Please advise this office as to the date you will be able to fill this work schedule."

Mrs. Green was working on a new job in San Francisco today. Her husband Ronald, a deliveryman, said, "She was grabbed immediately after a half-hour interview and examination, and the work is good, but of course it means commuting. The decision will have to be made by her after she comes home and hears of this development."

p.m. yesterday at the county clerk's office, borrowed a stenographer, and drove off to the purchasing and central services office at 615 Fourth Street.

John F. Hettrich, assistant purchasing agent, showed the two around. They saw a neat and rather limited assortment of housekeeping or janitorial supplies in a narrow long building shared with the sealer of weights and measures.

"I'm rather surprised at the smallness of this," commented Ludy. "I'd expected an immense place all cluttered up with stuff."

Hettrich stressed that whenever possible he bought on a basis of annual price agreement to get the lowest price.

County Administrator Alan Bruce said materials bought for the county were charged out to departments on a basis of cost plus 10 per cent. The service charge has worked out a little low and may be boosted to 12 per cent, he said.

"I'm a regular junk dealer," Hettrich volunteered, pointing to some used office equipment and explaining that when a department can't use something, a swap-around is arranged with perhaps some preliminary refurbishing before re-issue in place of new equipment.

Blair and Ludy seemed to feel this was a pretty tight operation, but today Blair said he was "wondering if we can't use space to better effect," minimizing storage by "getting annual contract price with delivery as needed."

The committee then drove down for a quick look at sign-making and other activities at the Greenbrae corporation yard, one of six in the county, after which it returned to the courthouse and began on the data processing department.

HERMANN N. MANGELS

President Of U.S. Reserve Bank Retiring

Hermann N. Mangels of 301 Highlands Avenue, San Rafael, will retire March 1 from the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco which he has served for 44 years and of which he has been president since March 1, 1956.

Now 63, Mangels has been a Marin County resident for many years. Before moving into the former George U. Hind home in San Rafael he lived in Kentfield.

He was the seventh chief executive of the bank since its establishment in November of 1914. He succeeded Cecil E. Earhart on the latter's retirement, having at that time been first vice president since 1947. His successor in the presidency has not yet been announced.

The bank is the head institution of the 12th Federal Reserve District, comprising California, Nevada, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Utah, Arizona, Hawaii and Alaska, third largest of the 12 districts of the Federal Reserve System in volume of transactions.

Mangels is a native of San Francisco who entered banking with the old Anglo and London Paris National Bank in 1913. He joined the staff of the Federal Reserve Bank as a transit clerk in 1916 and played an important part in establishing branches in Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, Portland and Seattle.

He became assistant cashier in 1920, cashier in 1943, vice president in 1944 and first vice president in 1947, finally serving as president for the past five years.

Mail Thief Confesses

A 14-year-old Marinwood boy confessed yesterday to taking mail from a box and tearing the letters open to see what was inside. The letters were stolen from the box of Eleanor J. Mooney of 596 Miller Creek Road. The youth was seen by Mrs. Mooney's daughter, Monica.

High School Experimenting During Tests

Sir Francis Drake High School will experiment with a radically different schedule during semester examination weeks, Jan. 23-26, Principal Harold Allison announced.

On Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, each student will take only three classes instead of the usual six, but two of the classes will be two hours long instead of the regular one-hour.

The plan was formulated by a Drake faculty committee and approved by the faculty.

According to Mrs. Marcia Hagen, committee chairman, the advantages of the experiment are that it gives practice to the student planning to go to college, some foreign languages may be given orally, and a more comprehensive final test may be given.

Thursday, Jan. 26, will have a normal schedule, and Friday, Jan. 27 is a school holiday.

degrees. It was 31 at the Mill Valley sewage treatment plant. A Sausalito hillside householder reported a reading of 29.

Other lows recorded included 32 at the Sausalito Fire Department, 32 at the main Novato fire station, 34 in Tamalpais Valley, 35 in San Anselmo.

The readings were a few degrees higher than those yesterday. And the Weather Man promised that some break in the nine-day-old cold wave is in sight.

The five-day forecast through Wednesday was for rain in most of California's northern half during the weekend and probably again around Tuesday and Wednesday.

Declaration Makes Vote Official Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress today formally declared John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts elected president of the United States for a four-year term starting Jan. 20.

The Democratic candidate's losing opponent, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, made the declaration after the House and the Senate formally tallied the electoral votes from the Nov. 8 balloting.

Nixon also declared Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Democrat, elected vice president over Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, Republican.

The outgoing vice president presided over the joint session under a constitutional provision that requires Congress to canvass the electors of 50 states.

The official presidential tally was 303 votes for Kennedy, 219 for Nixon and 15 for Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.). Kennedy needed 269 to win.

Probation Given In Welfare Case

Novato housewife Helen June Winsor, 40, drew one-year probation yesterday for receiving county welfare aid under false pretenses last year.

Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Municipal Court sentenced her for petty theft.

Antoan W. Adam, investigator for the district attorney, said Mrs. Winsor received about $400 in welfare aid since last July. In her application, she said she was getting no help from her husband Earl, who lives in San Francisco, while in reality, she was getting aid from him, the investigator learned.

General Appointed To Air Reserve Unit

OBITUARIES

Former S.F. Traffic Chief Dies

William F. McLeod, former San Francisco traffic commissioner and father of Mrs. Gilbert Wheat of Kentfield, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital after a long illness.

McLeod, 83, was a native San Franciscan and a member of a pioneer San Francisco family.

At the age of 15, he took over his father's firm, the Emmons Draying Co. in San Francisco.

He had helped establish soup kitchens for survivors of the San Francisco earthquake and fire in 1906 at his stables at 11th and Bryant Streets.

McLeod, who resided at 61 Roselyn Terrace in San Francisco, was a fourth degree member of the Knights of Columbus and was a member of San Francisco Elks Lodge.

Other survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Anthony Kennedy and Mrs. Fletcher Hamilton, of Sacramento; a sister, Mrs. Caroline McAndrews of Sonoma; a brother, Robert of San Francisco; seven grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

A Requiem High Mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Old St. Mary's Church in San Francisco. The Rosary will be recited at 8 o'clock tonight at Carew and English in San Francisco.

MYRA WILLIAMS

A High Mass of Requiem for Mrs. Myra Williams will be celebrated at 8:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael. The cortege will form at the Harry William Mortuary, San Rafael, at 8 a.m.

Mrs. Williams died Wednesday in a local hospital.

The Rosary will be recited at the mortuary at 8 o'clock tonight. Interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery in San Rafael.

MRS. WOODROFFE

Funeral services for Mrs. Geraldine Woodroffe, three-year Marin County resident, will be held tomorrow in Salem, Ore., where she lived most of her life.

Mrs. Woodroffe, 56, died in a local hospital Wednesday evening after a brief illness. She had resided at 309 Laurel Place, San Rafael.

Her husband, Nathaniel, a logging contractor in Salem for many years, died in 1942. Mrs. Woodroffe was a native of Nevada.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Wayne Brooks of San Rafael and Mrs. Richard Susman of Mill Valley; a son, James of Salem, Ore.; a sister, Mrs. Genevieve Dunn of Susanville, and five grandchildren.

THOMAS HOPPER

Family funeral services for Thomas Hopper, retired claims agent for the Railway Express Co., were held today at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

Hopper, in his late 70s, died at his home, 28 Hillside Avenue, San Anselmo, after a lengthy illness. He had resided in Marin County for 38 years. He was a native Californian.

He is survived by his wife, Doris A. Hopper; a daughter, Mrs. Ramona H. Castagnino of San Anselmo, and a brother, William W. Hopper of Menlo Park.

AMELIA FELIS

Amelia Charlotte Felis, 90, a 50-year resident of San Anselmo, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Virginia City, Nev., where she grew up during the silver mining days, Mrs. Felis moved to San Francisco in 1895 where she was married to Frederick Carl Rickborn. Shortly after the 1906 earthquake and fire, the couple moved to San Anselmo into a home her husband had built at 66 Elm Avenue.

After her first husband's death in 1910, she married Thomas W. Felis. He died in 1928.

Mrs. Felis, who was known as "Mom 'Mela" to her neighbors in San Anselmo, was a past president and charter member of the Landsdale School Parent-Teacher Assn., the Ladies Guild of the Second Presbyterian Church and the Tamalpais Women's Center.

She is survived by two sons, Walter C. Rickborn of Visalia and Frederick V. Rickborn of San Anselmo.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 1 p.m. at Keaton's Mortuary, Fifth and E Streets, San Rafael. Inurnment will be private.

BIG PUNCH FOR B-52

A Gatling gun with six revolving barrels protrudes from the tail of the new B-25-H global jet bomber which is capable of carrying nuclear missiles and bombs to distant targets. The Gatling can throw up an almost solid screen of 20-mm shells, firing 4,000 times a minute. The big new plane, on the model of a B-52, was unveiled yesterday by the Boeing Airplane Co. at Wichita, Kan. (AP Wirephoto)

Boxer Pays $25 Fine In Drunk Case

Lightweight boxer Bobby Emmett Scanlon, 24, of Fairfax tossed in the towel and paid a $25 fine for drunkenness yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

He pleaded guilty to being intoxicated outside the home of Mrs. Jane Donohoe, 104 San Francisco Boulevard, San Anselmo, about 1:30 a.m. last Dec. 15.

San Anselmo police said the prizefighter created a commotion by banging on the door of the Donohoe home, then breaking glass when Mrs. Donohoe refused him admittance.

HERE'S GOOD GNUS FOR 2 ZOOS: GNU LOVE BLOSSOMS FOR GNUS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The boys at the zoo let out a cheer; they're ready to spread the gnu frontier.

Latest dispatch from Griffith Park gnusmen says that Mr. Boston, a 12-year-old gnu of the maculine gender, will soon join three gnus of the tenderer gender. Object: To make tomorrow's gnus today.

Mr. Boston arrived yesterday from Fresno. The zoological society there has no lady gnus. Until Mr. Boston arrived, the zoo here had no males.

So, after a 15-day quarantine period, Mr. B will get a chance to woo a gnu or two.

Then, in a year or two, if off-springs ensue, there'll be plenty of gnus for both of the zoos.

The average production per man of high grade iron ore from open pit mines in northern Minnesota is 5,500 tons a year.

Hub School Trustees To Discuss Tax Hike

The possibility of holding a tax rate increase election this year will be the main item for discussion at a meeting of the San Anselmo School District trustees Monday at 8 p.m. at Isabel Cook School.

Supt. Stephen Parodi said a tax rate increase is needed to cover the addition of one or two new teachers, painting of classrooms and halls, purchase of classroom equipment and improvement of playground facilities at Brookside School.

The present basic tax rate is $1.45 per $100 assessed valuation, to which are added override taxes and debt retirement. A proposed increase to $2 was turned down by the voters last year.

Also up for discussion will be whether to increase the facilities at the district schools or build a new school. "We have reached our capacity," Parodi said.

Trustees are expected to make a policy decision on charging fees for groups using the schools for extra-curricular meetings. The district now charges only those groups that charge admission to their meetings, but the district was $4,389 "out of pocket" for providing custodial service this year, according to Bernard Abraham, business manager. (A community service tax, which is not included in the basic rate, is assessed to help defray cost of school building use for non-school purposes.)

Phone Signals Fire In House

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — The ringing telephone awakened Irah P. Dollarhide. When he went to answer it, he smelled smoke, and discovered the roof of his home was ablaze.

Dollarhide, his wife and her mother fled to safety. The house was destroyed.

Muir Beach Ready To Buy Frank's Valley Well Site

Muir Beach residents, who have hauled drinking water from Mill Valley for years, have taken a giant step in the direction of getting potable water by buying a new well site.

The Muir Beach Community Services District agreed this week to buy one-fourth of an acre from cattle rancher Joe De Ponte at the upper end of Frank's Valley.

The site, about one mile from the sea, was selected so there would be no trouble with brackish water such as that which comes from the district's present two wells on Shoreline Highway near Lower Muir Beach Road.

"Everybody's happy about the new well site," said John White, secretary-manager of the district. "It comes after a two and one-half years of endeavors by the district to obtain a filter system for the present water source." The filtering plant did not prove feasible, White said, because of its high cost.

The water problem has existed since about 1930, making it necessary for many people to have their own water filters which, with the $5 charge for water, made the average cost $20 per month.

The water district was formed two and one-half years ago. It now provides water for about 150 residents.

Mrs. W. R. (Russ) Brown said today she has a water filter but that she and her husband still carry water from Mill Valley for coffee and drinking purposes because they do not like the taste of the filtered water. Others buy water at $1.25 per five-gallon bottle.

The water from the present wells, which is untreated, is high in salt, iron and manganese, White said.

Cost of the wellsite was $1,500, White reported, of which the district paid $1,000 cash. The money is paid from water revenue and new service connections.

The next step is engineering and determining cost for a pump, re-routing of the pipeline and other equipment. White said these costs are not now known.

"We will have to float a bond issue to raise the money," he said.

The present wells will be kept as standbys and for emergency in case of fire. Two tanks on a hill behind the community will continue to be used for water storage.

The site was chosen by San Francisco well driller J. G. Gratton, who said the well should be located just above a hump in the valley, since the hump signifies an underground dam which traps water.

Two From Marin Due Degrees At San Jose

Two Marin students are among 575 San Jose State College students who will receive degrees at winter commencement exersices Feb. 3 in San Jose Civic Auditorium.

Janice M. Klein of Mill Valley will receive a bachelor of science degree in business and industrial management. Rudi F. Golyn of San Rafael will receive a bachelor of arts degree in speech.

If You Use Name To Get Preference At Dinner, Don't Use 'Mr. Spinnaker'

"We are friends of Mr. Spinnaker," the couple said as they made a bid for preferred service at Sausalito's newest restaurant.

They haven't been the only ones. Whether by design or by jest this spurious representation has been given more than once to bypass a waiting line or work some magic formula in quick seating.

But we don't advise you to try it. You won't get anywhere and by now even the comedy angle has been overworked. There is no Mr. Spinnaker nor likely to be.

If you must wait your turn in line and it happens to be at the Spinnaker — and you may not have to at all — spend your time watching the seagulls that hover around, attracted by the fish that are attracted by the night lights on the water. It's quite a sight.

Waiting for service is sometimes annoying, we'll admit — not just here but at any restaurant where tables become crowded and their occupants are reluctant to leave — but there's nothing your hosts can do about it except try to make you as comfortable as possible.

Next time you may be the early ones. You could be — couldn't you?

FROM REOPENING for lunches, the Wye Club has returned to serving dinners again, and the manner thereof is somewhat unique.

Only two entrees — steaks and lobster tails are the mainstays. On the former you choose your own thickness and pay for it accordingly — by weight. There's a scale standing by to reckon the damage to your pocketbook — at $3 for the first 10 ounces and 25 cents per ounce thereafter. Included (but not weighed) are French fried onion rings, baked potato and toss salad. Open for dinner every night of the week from 5:30.

You'd be surprised, say Ken Kelly and Ray Adsit, how many 20-ounce steak eaters there are in the county.

WE UNDERSTAND that Dick Saltzman has come back to the county again — this time at Pinky's Pizza. Dick is playing a foursome of accordion, bass, drums and himself at the vibes every Friday this month starting tonight and alternating between Pinky's Larkspur and San Rafael spots.

This makes three nighteries in the Bay Area now featuring his music — or will be when he opens for Wednesday stands at Ah Sampan in San Francisco Jan. 11. His other outlet is at the Hi-Fi Room in San Francisco on Sundays.

ANOTHER BANQUET room possibility has turned up at the Nave Bowl in Ignacio where the Naves, father and sons, have utilized the nursery for special parties and dinners. I'm told it will accommodate up to 75 to 100 and a service bar can be arranged. All this, of course, to the tune of food prepared by chef Ben Fujihara's staff. Ben is an old hand at banquets and we're sure they'll stand up under testing.

PETE'S PIER 15, San Rafael, has started the new year with breakfasts from 7 a.m.—also has introduced seafoods to his mid-day and evening menu, including scallops, French fried prawns, fish 'n' chips, oysters and a mixed plate, besides his fabulous hamburgers.

Pete Lind's spare time venture is building a 40-foot paddle wheel ferry boat to be propelled by two Hicks engines and finished complete with calliope sometime this summer. He'll use it to run parties up and down the canal. There'll be a contest soon to give it a name.

Look also for work to begin soon on enclosing his patio which is definitely no place to eat this kind of weather.

IF YOU HAVEN'T visited Skipper's in Sausalito recently you may not be aware that Skip Sommers and Bill Atwood have installed a bar pursuant to acquiring a cocktail license.

Next on the agenda is a renovation of the menu which I thought to be alright in its present form but apparently it's in for an improvement.

MARSTON HECHT calls them "selfwiches" and the name is self-explanatory. The place is Marston's International — candy, gourmet and coffee shop in the Montecito Shopping Center. Selfwiches you assemble yourself from the makings in Marston's refrigerator and therefore have no one else to blame but yourself if they don't turn out right. They're becoming a hit with quick lunch crowds.

But more known to some is Marston's "conference table" which usually boasts anywhere from four to a dozen experts on world affairs, local affairs, politics or any other subject that comes to the surface. Important decisions are made here daily by San Rafael businessmen.

Don't take my word — ring their offices some morning. You'll be told they're "in conference." Or maybe "out for coffee" — same thing.

ENTERTAINER RETURNS— Dick Saltzman, popular jazz entertainer, has returned to Marin County with a four-piece orchestra appearing on alternate Fridays at Pinky's Pizza San Rafael and Larkspur spots during January.

Loss Of Clothing Being Investigated

Sheriff's deputies are investigating the loss of about $400 in clothing from the home of Mrs. Alberta Ruth Nelson, 19 Tanfield, Tiburon.

On Tuesday, she told investigators she discovered such items as cufflinks, shirts, ski outfit, and dresses missing. There was no evidence of a forced entry.

Legislative Proposals Jam Agenda

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California lawmakers found themselves today with enough legislative recommendations to keep them in session around the clock for months to come.

Interim committees turned in reports yesterday dealing with everything from blue sky laws and booze to drug prices, vagrancy laws and venereal disease.

The 31 committees spent $957,372 gathering facts to base their recommendations on.

COMMITTEE OPINION

Still to come are proposals and opinions from Senate and joint committees, who used up $1,678,071 in their efforts.

Most of the recommendations will be just that, although many will show up as bills later on in the current session.

Some recommendations and findings include:

Alcoholism is increasing through the state among adults and youths. Rehabilitation clinics should be expanded. San Francisco and Sacramento are 1-2 in the nation as having the highest rate of alcoholics.

A strong "blue sky" law should replace the present unclear statute to give better protection to investor and investment firms alike.

DISEASE FIGHT

The state should consider expanding its anti-venereal disease program in its fight against syphilis and gonorrhea.

"Widespread and undeniable evidence" shows that the state sometimes must pay more for drugs than private citizens.

State aid should be increased from $494 to $521 per student in junior colleges.

All counties should have public defenders. The vagrancy law is sometimes used by police who don't have proof of a serious crime but still want to arrest a suspect.

AMBIGUOUS LAWS

The law applying to auto sales is often ambiguous and ineffective. A small minority of dealers are dishonest, but their victims don't go to court because of the cost.

Retired state employees should get from 2 to 10 per cent cost-of-living pension increases.

Holes should be plugged in the state's lobbying law, which is not obeyed by many of the persons seeking to influence California lawmaking.

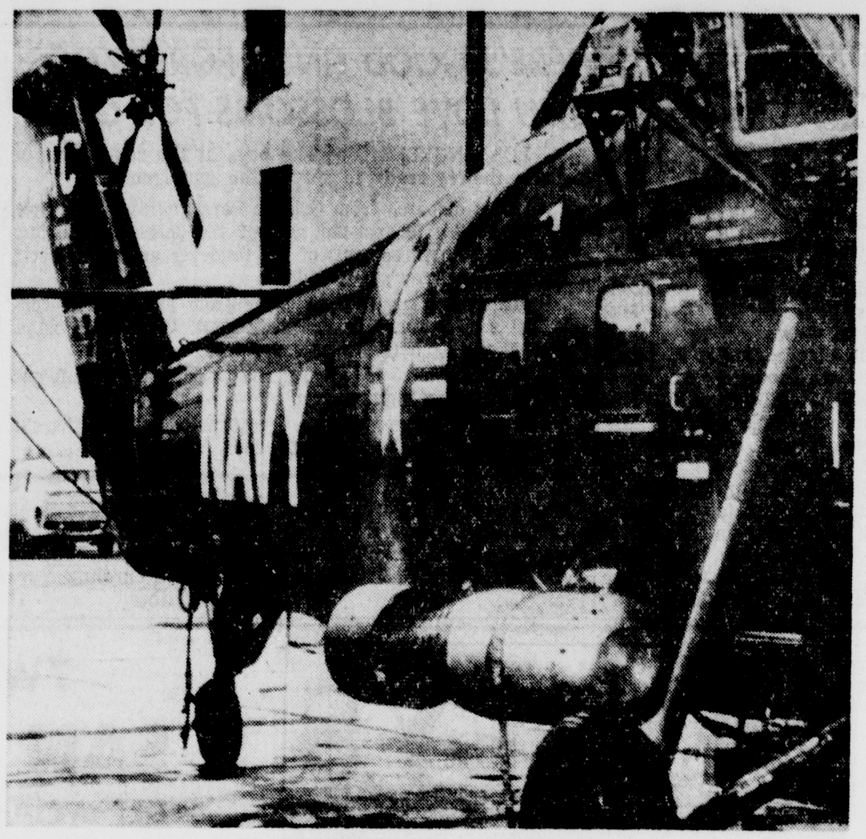

The public doesn't need protection against subconscious television advertising because it doesn't actually work too well, and subliminal communication is "considerably less effective" than the more conventional type.

Employment agencies should be made to tell their customers more about prospective jobs.

Fireman Learnns His House On Fire

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Police Sgt. Pearl Fever was on duty in the dispatcher's office at headquarters one afternoon recently when a fire alarm came in.

"My gosh," he explained, "that's my house." He was relieved to learn that it was only a grass fire.

Fee Payment To 4 Firms Is Attacked

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A legislative committee has charged that four firms received the "lion's share" of state architectural business during the past five years.

The Assembly Government Organization Committee, in a report to the legislature made public yesterday, said the firms got 77 per cent of all fees paid by the state to contract architects.

The committee, headed by Assemblyman Gordon Winton (D-Merced) said one man, Harold Guilkey of San Francisco, had been awarded more contracts than any other architect in the state during the past five years. The lawmakers said Guilkey is associated with Harold P. Norton, former legislative lobbyist for the Department of Public Works.

As a result of its study, the committee recommended that the state public works board be given responsibility of deciding on which projects private architects should be used —and given final selection responsibility.

The muskey, or bog area, of northern Canada covers an estimated half million square miles.

Laws Would Protect Health Policy Owners

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A California legislator has recommended laws to make health insurance policies non-cancelable so as to prevent companies from cutting off benefits "at the time of greatest need."

Assemblyman Ronald B. Cameron, (D-Whittier) made the recommendation yesterday in a report submitted to the Assembly Committee on Finance and Insurance.

He said that "both individual and group prepaid hospital and medical insurance policies are being canceled by some companies, and claims are being denied for unexplained or highly questionable reasons."

He said that he had received complaints from persons who held policies for many years and were suddenly taken sick. "They were quickly notified that the policy would be canceled on the next renewal date (the first of the following month)," he said.

Cameron asked for legislation that would make it illegal for a company to cancel a policy after it had been in effect for 24 months, except for nonpayment of premiums or unless the company canceled all policies of the same class at the same time.

He also suggested that the state insurance commission be required to grade policies from companies on the basis of amounts they could be expected to return to policyholders in loss benefits.

He said that while many companies paid back between 80 and 95 per cent of their premiums in benefits, others had a "loss ratio" as low as 5.3 per cent.

Cameron said that hospital and medical costs were higher in California than elsewhere in the nation and urged that the legislature continue its investigations into the entire area of medical care and health insurance.

BROWN READY TO ACT

Get-Tough Attitude On Drivers Reported

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The Brown administration was reported today to be considering three major steps in a promised new offensive against wholesale death and injury on California's highways.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown has shown deep concern over the year-by-year increase in the highway toll. Traffic accidents killed 3,700 persons in the state last year — up from 3,588 in 1959.

The traffic safety program under study, it was learned, calls for:

1. Use of radar by the Highway Patrol to catch speeders. The 1959 legislature turned this down.

2. Compulsory chemical tests to help get convictions in drunken driving cases.

3. Toughening up the point system under which drivers licenses are suspended or revoked.

At present you can lose your license temporarily for four moving violation points in a year. Under the proposed change, the total would be lowered to three.

Points are based on the seriousness of the violation. Such offenses as reckless driving and hit-and-run count as two points. Simple speeding, running a red light, changing lanes illegally, etc., are scored as one point.

The Department of Motor Vehicles has suspended, revoked or cancelled 158,000 licenses in the 23 months since its director, Robert I. McCarthy, began his crackdown.

The total includes 18,573 suspensions for drunken driving convictions. McCarthy's order for mandatory suspensions aroused widespread criticism but it was upheld by the California Supreme Court.

Brown has steadfastly backed McCarthy in the crusade against drunken drivers. It's not clear as yet, however, whether the administration will seek changes in the law.

McCarthy told a reporter that a six-month suspension may be too long and that it does prove a hardship in some cases.

Group Favors More Federal Colleges Aid

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—California's Coordinating Council for Higher Education, created by the last legislature, favors more federal aid to colleges and universities.

But its resolution presented to Gov. Edmund G. Brown yesterday carefully avoided asking for any type of aid that might "interfere with the independence and diversity" of the state's own higher education programs.

The list of recommendations which Brown is asked to forward to the new Kennedy administration includes:

1. Matching federal grants or long-term, low-interest loans to help finance college buildings for education and research.

2. The same type of aid for hospitals, clinics and other buildings for medical and dental schools.

3. Reservation of television channels for educational broadcasting.

4. Increased financial aid for college housing.

5. More money for the National Defense Education Act of 1958 which grants student loans, graduate fellowships, aid for foreign language centers and for study abroad.

6. Income tax deduction for payment of college tuitions and fees.

PRINCE ON WAY TO TAKE OATH—Laotian Premier Prince Boun Oum, in formal uniform, walks past Laotian army soldiers just before entering a temple to take oath of office yesterday in Vientiane. (AP Wirephoto)

BUT SAY THERE WAS INTERVENTION

SEATO Observers Cast Doubt On Claim Reds Invaded Laos

By ROBERT UDICK

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — SEATO military observers are inclined to doubt that Communist North Viet Nam made any large-scale invasion of Laos but there is no doubt of Communist intervention in the Laotian civil war.

The Laotian government announced Saturday that seven Vietminh battalions — upward of 5,000 men—invaded Laos but there was growing evidence that North Viet Nam actually had staged a diversionary border attack to cover up operations by leftist paratroop Capt. Kong Le.

The chances looked slim that Laos would be able to prove its invasion report. Only yesterday Information Minister Bouavong Norasing said Soviet transport planes were landing on the plain of Jars and picking up the alleged invaders he said had fought overland to the vicinity of Xieng Khouang in central Laos.

"Now they are leaving to prevent us from proving foreign intervention," he said.

The Communist North Vietnamese under Premier Ho Chi Minh have openly aided the Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas in Laos since the end of World War II and many border incursions have been reported in the past.

In recent days the Soviet Union has openly parachuted arms and supplies both to the Pathet Lao forces under "Red" Prince Souphannavong and the leftist forces of Capt. Kong. The Soviet planes have been photographed while dropping supplies.

A U.S. State Department report Wednesday, circulated in detail to representatives of the SEATO members, made it clear the arms intervention by Communist countries was of large scale. A SEATO communique also "noted with concern" the increased supply of Soviet arms.

Other evidence of intervention by North Vietnamese soldiers came when a Russian helicopter crashed in the jungles of neighboring Thailand with Vietminh soldiers aboard. The Thai government has protested that incident.

The first reports by the pro-Western Laotian government said five of the seven Communist battalions involved had hit the border town of Nong Het and that some of the troops thrust as much as 50 miles into Laos to the plain of Jars.

Later developments led military observers to believe the Communists actually had staged some sort of noisy division on the border to weaken government defenses and permit Kong Le and the Pathet Lao to carry out their own objectives.

Reports from Nong Het described heavy artillery fire and left little doubt that Vietminh units in some strength were involved. But observers raised the question of whether the Vietminh units had not slipped back home after Kong Le captured two vital airfields—one at Xieng Khouang and one at Phone Svang.

U.S. Wants Global Unit To Aid Peace

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said today the United States wants the International Control Commission to return to Laos and try to settle the fighting which has threatened world peace.

Herter stated the U. S. policy to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in a two hour and 20-minute report on world affairs which was described as "not very encouraging."

Early in the current Laotian crisis, the United States argued with its allies that the international commission—composed of India, Poland and Canada—could not be trusted to work out a settlement that would save Laos from Communist subversion and intrigue.

This position has gradually weakened, however, as the situation grew worse today. Herter said he feels the commission could be reconstituted and "go back in business."

Laotian Army Regroups For More Battle

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The royal Laotian army, gradually recovering from initial surprise of a yearend leftist offensive, has regrouped and is skirmishing with pro-Communist rebels in northeast Xieng Khouang Province.

But no major action has been reported in the last 48 hours.

From alarmed cries of North Vietnamese invasian, the government spokesman switched today to expressions of optimism.

The provisional regime of Premier Boun Oum and Gen. Phoumi Novasan took the oath of office in Buddhist rites, completing formalities to place itself on constitutional footing.

The value of United States exports rose from 12 billion dollars to more than 16 billion between 1953 and 1958.

SEATO Council Meets On Laos Situation

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — The anti-Communist Southeast Asia Treaty Organization debated today whether to reconvene the 1954 Geneva Conference on Indo-China to try to settle the crisis in Laos. It apparently reached no decision.

The SEATO council of representatives met on the Laos question for the third time this week, with the United States coming under increasing pressure to accept a political solution to the crisis. The United States has favored a strong SEATO stand in defense of the Laotian government against Communist aggression.

After an hour-long meeting, the council adjourned until next Tuesday, apparently without reaching agreement on what role SEATO should take. Alliance Secretary - General Pote Sarasin said "there have been no developments which would warrant a statement."

Several of the eight pact members questioned U.S. reports that Soviet transport planes had air-dropped Communist North Vietnamese paratroopers to aid the Communist Pathet Lao troops and forces of Leftist Capt. Kong Le.

The pro-Western Laotian government reported yesterday it had defeated Communist forces around Xieng Khouang and that Soviet transport planes were evacuating North Vietnamese troops from airfields near the city.

The Library of Congress and its annex cover more than 36 acres of floor space.

Bank Stockholders To Meet Tuesday

Annual stockholders' meeting of the First National Bank and Bank of San Rafael will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the bank's main office at Fourth and B Streets, San Rafael.

Election of directors and annual reports by president W. P. Murray and branch managers are on the agenda for the meeting.

Also proposed, however, is discussion of the Crocker-Anglo Bank merger proposal which has been referred to the stockholders by the bank's directors.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

A WEEK OF GOOD READING

PROFILE OF THE WEEK — Mabel Wosser is a member of a family which has left an indelible imprint upon the history of Sausalito. It was her father, Thomas Wosser, who was chief engineer aboard the first ferry to dock at Sausalito's shores. And who settled there with his brood which included, in addition to Mabel, her seven sisters and five brothers. Since then Wosser has been a name which has played a prominent part in Sausalito community life. And Mabel Wosser has played a major role. Sausalitans have known her for 27 years now as their dutiful, faithful, beloved public librarian. Now she is retiring to devote her time to her many other interests. Independent-Journal staff writer Patricia Zinn will tell you about this interesting Marinite in tomorrow's Marin Magazine.

ONE OF A SERIES — Each week an Independent-Journal staff writer explores the character, achievements and human side of one of Marin's outstanding personalities — some of whom are all too little known by their neighbors.

Psychiatrist Reports Dread Of Outer Space

LONDON (UPI)—Neuroses are keeping up with the times, psychiatrist Raphael Kerry reported today. People are developing a morbid dread of outer space now.

Dr. Kerry, who discovered that some persons have begun to fear they might fall off the earth, said there is no official name yet but he has settled tentatively on "space-phobia."

He said four persons who had been reading about satellite and rocket launchings or watched television programs about space had come to him for help.

One "space-phobiac" was a schoolmaster who said he found himself worrying that he might float off the earth and go into orbit.

"It's space that's getting me," he told the doctor.

"The curvature of the globe makes everything insecure. We are surrounded by a hostile envelopment."

Another patient was a married woman who complained about "this indiscriminate sending up of satellites." She said she was afraid satellite launchings increased the risks of collisions in outer space in which the earth itself might be involved.

Another patient feared the earth would be pushed off his axis because of the satellite launchings or crash into another heavenly body.

"The growing preoccupation with outer space is one of the features of our present civilization," Dr. Kerry said. "It is not surprising that it should enter into the manifestations of certain neurotic developments."

Other Taxes Source Asked Of Mill Valley

Chester A. Fisher, a director of the Marin County Taxpayers Assn., asked the Mill Valley City Council Wednesday night to try to find other sources of city income outside of property taxes.

He said "there has been one slight increase in taxes after another on homes in Marin until now the home owners are paying the equivalent of rent to live in their own homes."

(City fiscal director John Hoopingarner said today the property tax accounts for 43 per cent of Mill Valley's revenues. The city's anticipated income for the fiscal year totals $356,500, of which $152,000 is from property taxes.)

Fisher said he did not believe in the county method of reappraising property values on a sectional basis but felt it should be done county-wide.

Mayor Robert D. Huber told Fisher, "we are all concerned with the problem of taxes," and solicited Fisher's help to get reappraisals done on a county-wide basis.

Church Feting The Epiphany

Twelfth Night services in celebration of the Epiphany will be held at 7:30 p.m. today at the Holy Innocents Epsicopal Church in Corte Madera, announced Rev. Tod Ewald, rector.

The service will begin with a Nativity pageant in which Joan Mann will play St. Mary; Richard Reed, St. Joseph; and Stephen Monroe, Lawrence Wolfe and Jeffrey Doherty, shepherds.

Father Ewald said acolytes and junior choir members will take part in the Feast of Lights with George and Douglas Pollard as fire wardens.

The Marin Chorale under direction of Dr. John M. Kelly will lead the congregation in a carol sing. Organist will be Mrs. Edward Tennler. The program will be narrated by Rev. Edward B. Olander.

Audubon Society Meeting Canceled

A meeting of the Marin Audubon Society, scheduled for tonight at College of Marin, has been canceled, Dr. Martin Griffin, president, announced today.

Dr. Joel Hedgpeth, director of the College of Pacific's marine station at Dillon Beach, was to have been speaker at the meeting. However, he must attend a meeting at College of the Pacific in Stockton, during which the name of the institution is to be officially changed to University of the Pacific.

Next regular meeting of the Audubon Society will be a screen tour in Olney Hall of College of Marin on Feb. 3.

Firemen To Meet

The Belvedere Volunteer Firemen's Assn. will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the firehouse to plan the year's activities, according to president John C. Ericson.

Right Of Way Bought For Sewer Line

The San Rafael Sanitation District yesterday offered A. H. Ruoff of 836 San Pedro Road $150 for 150 feet of right of way across his property.

Ruoff told directors the district has had a 10-inch sewer line through his property for the last four years without paying him for it. The line which runs along San Pedro Road, was installed by Stegge Development Co. to serve the Glenwood subdivision.

Directors Walter Castro and John F. McInnis (Fred Jensen was absent) approved the offer of $150 for the right of way. Ruoff said he would consider it.

The two directors rejected an offer to join the California Sanitary District Assn. Dues would have been $150 a year.

Money Approved For Monthly Loans To Schools

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Assembly, quickly and without debate, yesterday adopted a resolution to boost the monthly state allocation for school building loans from 10 million to 12 million dollars.

The vote of 73-0 sends the measure by Assemblyman Vernon Kilpatrick (D-Lynwood) to the senate.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown requested the increase in his message to the legislature Tuesday.

The money, to be loaned to impoverished local districts for school construction, will come from a 300 million dollar bond issue approved by the voters at the June primary.

Daily Newspaper Circulation Up

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Daily newspaper circulation in the United States has increased 52 per cent in the last 25 years while the nation's population has grown only 40 per cent.

The figures were given today by Stanford Smith, general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

Today's total daily circulation, he said, is 58 million. In 25 years it will be 81 million, he forecast.

Sweaters Taken At Sausalito Home

Robert Blackford of San Francisco reported to Sausalito police today someone broke into the Richard Hulin home at 200 Sausalito Boulevard and stole three expensive sweaters plus a bottle of shaving lotion.

Blackford said his friend, Hulin, is in England. Blackford has been doing carpenter work around Hulin's house. He said the thief broke a basement bathroom window to gain entry.

Chamber President To Name Committees

John C. Phillips, president of the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce, will appoint committee members for the new year at a luncheon meeting on Thursday in Peg's Oven restaurant.

The names of the new committees will also be announced at the meeting. Chamber members yesterday voted their appreciation to outgoing president A. Von Rotz.

Voting Starts On De Gaulle Algeria Plan

ALGIERS (UPI) — Moslem villagers, European settlers and French front-line soldiers in the remote back country started voting today on the first step of President Charles de Gaulle's plan to end six years of war in Algeria. Scattered violence was reported.

At stake in the vote is the future of Algeria and the possible end to the war that has cost thousands of lives to the French Army and the rebel National Liberation Front.

Voting is taking place in the Algerian countryside today and tomorrow. On Sunday, the voting will take place in the big cities of Algiers and throughout France itself.

The voters are being asked to vote "yes" or "no" on de Gaulle's plans to grant more home rule to Algeria immediately. If approved, the referendum will pave the way for a later vote by the Algerians themselves—nine million Moslems and one million Europeans. This later vote includes three choices: Continued integration with France, a looser alliance as part of the French community, or complete independence.

In a nationwide radio and television address today, de Gaulle promised the Algerian Moslems that if they backed his policies in the present referendum he would seek a meeting with rebel leaders as soon as possible to seek an end to the fighting.

MARRIAGE AT AN END

Actress June Allyson, 37, wants to end her 15-year marriage to actor-director Dick Powell, 56. Attorney Jerry Geisler said yesterday in Hollywood that she will file for a divorce in a few weeks, charging, he said, "the usual mental cruelty." Once considered as having one of filmland's most durable marriages, the Powells began to have a falling out in recent months. A property settlement is being drawn up, and it was estimated Miss Allyson's share might be between one and five million dollars. The couple have two children, Pamela, 12, and Ricky, 9. No Decision Reached On School Bonds, Tax

Mill Valley School District's 43-member citizen committee last night came to no decision on whether to advocate bonds or increased taxes—or both—as means of providing $400,000 needed to build 16 more classrooms.

The committee will meet again Jan. 19. Thirty-seven members were present last night.

A progress report will be made Monday at the school board meeting at the district office at 26 Miller Avenue.

Chairman Robert H. Andresen opened the meeting by saying the committee must decide between bonds and additional taxes as means of raising money.

Two proponents of the taxation method were Harold Stockstad and Jack Lentz, who argued that the need for classrooms is a perpetual need as long as the area is growing. They suggested that, rather than a temporary emergency, it should be called a permanent emergency and be solved by a long-range plan.

Architect William Corlett, who favored bonds, suggested the tax method might take too long to accumulate money.

Dr. William Clark, a committee member, raised the question of whether additional teachers and increased operating cost should be met from the current revenue. Asst. Supt. Leo B. Edson said that, unless there were some change in program of state support, the district would have difficulty in staffing the classrooms.

Petaluma Water Aqueduct Bids Are Due Soon

SANTA ROSA (AP)—Bids for construction of the Petaluma aqueduct—to bring Mendocino-Lake Coyote Dam water from a point north of Ukiah to Petaluma—will be opened by the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors Jan. 31.

Gordon W. Miller, chief county water engineer, estimated the successful bid will be close to two million dollars.

An additional $670,000 will be spent by the county for a six-million-gallon reservoir, pumping station and metering devices.

DAILY NEWSPAPERS SELL DAIRY PRODUCTS FROM PASTURE TO PUBLIC

THE DAIRY INDUSTRY, with sales of $12 billion a year from hundreds of types of products, is a giant of the great food business.

The daily newspaper, another giant, is a dominant influence in helping dairy manufacturers and dairy associations to increase the public's demand for their products. These advertisers use the daily newspaper as a national force to keep the public aware of the innovations and nutritional value of dairy products.

The thousands of local processors and retailers of dairy products use the daily newspaper regularly to keep their products moving from store to home.

The daily newspaper is a vital force in this mass movement of dairy products from the moment they are processed to the moment they are placed on the table. With practically everyone consuming them, it is necessary to move them through the medium that reaches practically everyone. The daily newspaper reaches nationally—and reaches locally—with 58,299,723 news-filled copies every day.

HELLO, CENTRAL—Kenneth Myers works on one of the thousands of wires and connections in the new Western Telephone Co. building in Novato. Phone numbers from about 700 of the company's 5,000 customers in the Novato area will change April 8 when the new equipment goes into operation.

TW 7 INSTEAD OF TW 2

Telephone Numbers To Change In Novato

By ELLEN BRY

At 12:01 a.m. on April 8, about 700 Novato residents will get to new telephone numbers.

The new numbers will begin with TW 7, instead of the present TW 2 prefix for the 5,000 Novato subscribers. The change in numbers will be the result of a new $281,000 building and $150,000 worth of equipment being installed in it for the Western California Telephone Co.

The equipment now being wired into the building, adjacent to the present company offices on Diablo Avenue, will make available 1,000 new lines. Ultimately, 10,000 new lines may be added, reported Ross Wright, Novato manager and a company vice president.

The changeover in numbers will mean a lighter load for TW 2 lines and gradually expanding business for the new lines. All phone number changes will be on residential phones; most newly installed phones also will have the TW 7 number.

The change in numbers will coincide with distribution of new telephone directories. Subscribers will be subject to the same rates as at present, after State Public Utilities Commission approval last week of the rates which had been in effect on an interim basis.

Also coming up for subscribers by the end of 1961 is direct dialing between TWinbrook and TUcker exchanges which serve the city, and direct dialing to San Rafael.

The Western California TWinbrook exchange serves most of Novato but some phones in the Ignacio area in the southern part of the city are in the TUcker exchange of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

A call between the exchanges in the same city, means a call to the operator and a 10-cent toll. Tolls of 15 cents also are levied for calls to San Rafael from both exchanges. Calls from San Rafael to the exchanges can be dialed; calls from Novato to San Rafael mean a call to the operator.

A final report on no-toll negotiations between the companies is expected to go to the Public Utilities Commission by June 1, Wright said.

If approved by the commission, it probably would take another six months to install the equipment which would make it possible. The cost to Western California would be $63,000 for equipment to make automatic phoning possible in the Ignacio area; it would cost $160,700 in equipment to make it possible to San Rafael, Wright said. Equipment costs to Pacific Telephone were not available.

The companies still are working out payments to be made between them, based on subscriber benefit and cost of the service to each.

Bootleg Whiskey Costs Bar Owner License

Nello A. Ragghianti, Greenbrae bar owner who was caught last October with four barrels of bootleg whisky in his basement, was ordered to get out of the liquor business yesterday by the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control.

He was given until May 1 to transfer his license in the San Remo restaurant in San Francisco, which he owns with John Torre.

Malcolm E. Harris, ABC director, said Ragghianti may not be employed in any capacity with the bar at the restaurant.

The cache of whisky, estimated to be worth $3,500, was found in the basement of Ragghianti's home at 49 Bretano Way last Oct. 8 by Undersheriff Eugene Meyer, who led a raid after an anonymous tip. Four barrels of 95 to 100 proof whisky was poured down the laundry drain after samples were taken as evidence.

Ragghianti readily admitted having the whisky in his home but said he did not intend to sell it. It was for Christmas gifts for personal friends and an occasional nip for himself, he told officers.

The whisky was made by John A. Powell, a bartender who lives in Pacifica. Powell was fined $500 and placed on probation for three years. Ragghianti was given a suspended sentence of six months in jail and fined $500.

It is "possible" that Ragghianti will be able to take out another license, Harris told the Independent-Journal today.

"If he stays out of trouble for two or three years and reapplies for a license, we would consider his case," Harris said. Harris emphasized that Torres, Ragghianti's partner, was innocent of any charge and that the ABC was not moving against the license of the restaurant.

"If they had both been guilty of making the whisky, we would have revoked their license," the director said.

Ragghianti has a ferfect record as an individual for the past 15 years, Harris said. "This was a stupid thing for him to become involved in," he added.

NWP Machinist Retires Tomorrow

Ernest E. George of 45 Greenfield Avenue, San Rafael, will retire tomorrow after 30 years as machinist with the Northwestern Pacific Railroad.

George, 65, was born in Nevada and began railroading in 1923 when he went to work for the Southern Pacific. He was a signal maintenance man with them until 1930 when he joined the NWP.

New Medical Unit President Starts Office

Dr. Russell Klein of Kent Woodlands, new president of the Marin Medical Society, presided at his first membership meeting last night in the Meadow Club, Fairfax.

In an unusual meeting for the doctors, there was little formal session. Dr. Klein praised and presented a plaque to Dr. Dallas Wagner, out-going president, who 20 years ago had completed a term as president of the Mendocino-Lake Medical Society.

Dr. Duval B. Jaros, newly elected president of the Marin Medical Plan, reported briefly on progress toward setting up the organization which will offer a pre-paid medical and hospital program in the county. Most of the progress has been in organization, he said.

The program, conducted jointly by Dr. Joseph J. Arons, program chairman for the society, and Mrs. Alexander H. Beaton, program chairman of the auxiliary, was a musical evening provided by members.

Second Campus For College Is Discussed

Possibility of a second campus for the College of Marin was raised by college trustees in meetings yesterday with state school planning authorities on the Kentfield campus.

Elwood Lehman and C. L. Eatough, representatives of the state department of education, bureau of school planning, met with board members Elizabeth Deedy, Rupert E. Kempf, Kent O. Seymour and Robert E. Oliver. College director Stephen Epler, dean of instruction, Paul Clymer, dean of students Irwin Diamond, business manager Norman Bird, faculty represtatives Berkeley Johnson and George Duncan, and college architects David Falk and Wesley Hull also attended the meeting.

The group noted that tentative enrollment projections from a study by Dr. R. S. Kupfer of the county superintendent's office indicate the college can expect approximately 2,500 students by 1971.

The board decided to arrange trips by its members and administrators to study and inspect the plants of newer junior colleges in the Bay Area. A space and adequacy study now being made by Falk and Booth, college architects, will seek to determine how well equipped present facilities are to meet existing needs.

This study is expected to be presented to the Jan. 26 board meeting.

De Long Was Bidder

De Long Chevrolet, rather than Ames Ford Sales as reported in Wednesday's Independent-Journal, was sole bidder last month on six replacement cars for the sheriff's office. On a second call for bids there were three bidders and Ames Ford took the contract as low bidder.

NO MORE MONKEYSHINES

Marin Pair Tells Zoo: Stop Kicking Our Ape

Robert F. and Violet Miller of 662 Plum Street, Novato, today served notice on Fleishhacker Zoo keepers to quit kicking Sally around.

Sally is the pet gibbon the Millers bought two and one-half years ago in a San Rafael pet store and kept at their Novato home until last summer, when they turned her over to the zoon in San Francisco.

Norman Becknell, zoo ape tender, is accused of kicking Sally Wednesday.

"If you're going to kick her around like that, we want her to come home," declared Miller.

"We wanted her to mix with the other monkeys," Miller said.

Carey Baldwin, zoo director, assured them no one else would kick the little ape.

Baldwin is a bit burned up at Becknell. He tried to help Becknell catch Sally Wednesday, but Becknell threw Baldwin out of the cage.

When Fred Roemer, keeper foreman, tried to help, Becknell threw him out, too.

Police Patrolman Paul Kotta arrived and ended the monkeyshines. Becknell was charged with assault and battery and suspended from the zoo for 30 days.

Missionary Sets Speech Sunday

Dr. Reuben A. Torrey, missionary to the Orient for 40 years, will speak at the Redwoods Presbyterian Church Sunday in conjunction with the installation of new church officers.

Dr. Torrey during the past seven years has been director of a Presbyterian international amputee rehabilitation program in Korea, said Rev. Wayne M. Hansen, pastor of the Redwoods church.

Rev. Wayne M. Hansen announced that the officers to be installed as elders are Cyrus Dam, Mrs. Charles Rowe, Philip Creighton, Edgar Elliot, Ryan Millar, and Perry Joy; as deacons, Mrs. John R. Cunningham, Mrs. J. R. Witt, Mrs. Matt Schau, and as trustees, Martin van den Akker, and Matt Schau.

Break With Cuba Perturbs Americans Who Fear War

Breaking off relations with another nation is in itself unpopular with most Americans. We are too steeped in the tradition of talking, of negotiating with each other, to relish facing international problems without a means of discussion.

Most of us are particularly perturbed by what has happened in Cuba. We rooted for Castro against dictator Batista. We cheered when he won. We pictured peace and democracy on the island. Then he began to change. His blows now were aimed at us.

Our government, to our relief and approval, decided to shrug off the tirades of abuse which Castro heaped upon us. They continued and increased until it became apparent more direct action was needed to counter his attacks, his expropriation of American property, his arrests of U.S. citizens. We withdrew our ambassador. We stopped our sugar purchases. We finally banned exports to Cuba.

Relations worsened. Finally, Castro plucked one too many feathers from the Eagle. Shouting that the U.S. was ready to invade Cuba with a military force "within a matter of hours," Castro ordered reduction of the number of U.S. diplomatic officials in Cuba to 11. That's fewer than the number of guards on the 10-story consul building in Havana.

As our President put it, "the limit has now been reached . . . to what we can endure." He broke off diplomatic relations with Cuba for the first time since we helped that island gain its independence from Spain at the turn of the century. But he expressed the view of most Americans when he said: "Our sympathy goes out to the people of Cuba, now suffering under the yoke of a dictator."

We are all mindful of the possibility of war in half a dozen places throughout the world. We know deep inside that if a war starts, it could easily develop from a small war to a nuclear disaster.

But when the possibility of war comes within a few miles of our shores, when serious communist influences reach practically to our borders, the danger seems much more real.

Our President acted as we would have him act, with authority but with restraint. We trust and will follow him as our leader, just as we will trust and follow our new President when he is inaugurated just two weeks from today.

We're sorry things have gotten to this state. But they have. We can't go back, we must go on from here. We pray the final result will be not only better understanding between Cuba and the United States and all of Latin America.

Epiphany Tonight

According to ancient Christian tradition, tonight is the Twelfth Night or Epiphany.

It is on this night that the baby Jesus was supposed to have been baptised and, according to some beliefs, have undergone a spiritual rebirth.

There is a huge mass of historical and theological lore and controversy surrounding the date. The Latin Americans, for example, bring the Three Wise Men to the manger this night.

Twelfth Night is more noticed in most Christian lands than in the U. S., where we tend to wrap everything up in a slam-bang Christmas.

Yet, Epiphany is one of the oldest and most respected holidays on the Christian calendar.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

BANDIT WITH A SOFT HEART

An armed bandit with a touch of consideration walked into a motel office in California demanding the day's receipts.

"Few customers today," observed the 64-year-old woman who operated the motel. She reached for the cash box and handed him $23—all that she had.

The gunman took the money, pondered for a minute then tossed it back on the counter.

"I guess you're right," he said. "You don't have very much." Turning on his heel, he walked out empty-handed.

Few people are so hard hearted as to go through life completely without regard for the troubles of others. These basic feelings of compassion may vanish like the morning dew, or they may change a person's life.

God puts into everyone a natural kindness. It can be smothered, but never wholly put out. Be ready at all times to fan this spark of goodness in those whom you meet today, and every day.

"There shall be joy before the angels of God upon one sinner doing penance."
(Luke 15:10)

Never let me write anyone off, O God of mercy, as being beyond hope of redemption.

Just Let Yourself Go To Reduce Life's Daily Tension, Star Says

NEW YORK (AP)—Tension is an annoyance to the housewife and office worker, but in the fast-paced world of show business it is a daily problem in survival.

How do entertainment stars whip tension?

Glamorous Mary Healy has a way she feels will work for you as well.

"You have to learn to quit fighting all the time while you're awake, and from having nightmares while you sleep.

"Take a few minutes every day to yourself. Take time out for fun. No matter how busy your day, find time to commune with yourself.

"If you're going somewhere, don't drive the cab. Don't fly the plane.

"Force yourself to let go. Relax completely — physically and mentally.

"Let everything go. Drain your veins of go.

"It's hard to do. You have to practice.

"If you can, take a walk or sit where it is lonely and quiet," she advised. "But even in a crowded noisy place you can find a personal peace if you learn to let go deliberately of every tension of mind and body for five minutes.

"It sounds like mere words, but you can put it into action if you try."

HER THEORY finds living proof in Mary herself. After 22 years of stardom in movies, radios and night clubs, she is still as slender and fresh-faced as the day she quit a secretary's job in New Orleans to go to Hollywood.

She and her husband, Peter Lind Hayes, are currently featured in an NBC-TV series. When the series ends, Mary wants either to do one more Broadway show or retire as a performer.

"I'VE BEEN WORKING since I was a kid," she said. "And I'm no longer starry-eyed."

She'd like to spend more time at home with her children, Mike, 11, and Cathy, 9.

TWO YEARS AS GOVERNOR—IV

Chessman Was Biggest Headache For Brown

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—The biggest headache of Gov. Edmund G. Brown's second year as chief executive—or perhaps his entire political career—really had its beginning back in 1948.

That was the year Caryl Chessman was sentenced to die in the state's gas chamber. In the years that followed, Chessman managed to elude the deadly green house at San Quentin and wrote books which were sold all over the world.

WHEN IT FINALLY appeared Brown was to be "it," in the Chessman case, most everyone, including the governor himself, knew he was going to lose friends and support from it. However, it was felt the losses would be only on one side: anti-capital punishment people would be unhappy if Chessman were executed; the other side would be furious if Brown let Chessman off from his execution.

Brown managed to infuriate both sides. After he announced on Feb. 17 that there was nothing more he could do to save Chessman, the following day he granted a 60 day reprieve and tossed the whole thing back to the legislature.

LEGISLATORS HAD turned down bills to abolish capital punishment a number of times. They were more than somewhat put out to receive such a hot potato just before primary elections.

A bill to abolish capital punishment, changed at the last minute to suspending it for some years, failed to get out of committee. Chessman finally was executed.

Not long afterwards, along came the presidential primary election. Brown, running as a favored son candidate, was opposed by George McLain, Los Angeles pension promoter, not expected to poll many votes. The final tally gave Brown 1,354,031 votes to 646,387 for McLain.

While it was a 2-to-1 victory for Brown, it was considered quite a blow to his prestige that anyone could rack up that many votes against an incumbent governor.

But if Brown's prestige was considered low after the primary, that was nothing compared to what happened in Los Angeles in August.

ALTHOUGH BROWN had made many statements attempting to clarify his position, he never convinced all the people that he was not interested in becoming a national candidate himself. He had campaigned in 1958 on the pledge to remain for his full term, charging his opponent with attempting to use the governorship as a stepping stone.

After the election, Brown amended his position to say that it would not be patriotic for anyone to refuse nomination to a national office.

Thus Brown went to the Democratic convention in Los Angeles with some feeling he still might try to be in the running. Most, of course, felt he would throw the delegation to the candidate offering the most to California.

ON THE DAY BEFORE the convention opened, Brown announced his support of Kennedy. But, in the balloting that followed, he was not able to deliver too many of the delegation's votes.

Before election, Brown forecast Kennedy would carry California by a million votes, the same as Brown had in 1958. However, the final counting of absentee ballots gave California to Nixon.

Brown's showing at the convention and the failure of California Democrats to carry the state, didn't help put California in the prominent national position with the new administration which it could have enjoyed.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

Charles Cole, who rounded out a brilliant 15-year-hitch as president of Amherst College, recalls that when Poet Robert Frost was a freshman at Dartmouth, his fraternity brothers fretted because he took long walks alone in the woods. Finally a committee of upper classmen confronted him and demanded, "Frost, just what do you do walking by yourself all the time in the woods?" Freshman Frost eyed them calmly and replied, "Gnaw bark." They left him to his own devices after that.

Actually, says Prexy Cole, Frost was meditating alone in the woods—and his ability to do so is one of the reasons he's such a great poet today.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Another Chance For Parents

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I have read with deep interest everything in the Independent-Journal regarding the controversial books, "Of Mice and Men" and "The Catcher in the Rye," although I don't have a child in Redwood High. (The youngest of my five children is currently a college senior.)

I was very much surprised to learn that there were so few parents of Redwood students present at the December 19 board meeting of the Tamalpais Union High School District. This may have been due, of course, to the fact that this meeting was held during the busiest week in the year for most families. Surely there MUST be a number of parents who are highly concerned about the infiltration of putrid paperbacks into the Redwood High Library—parents who have the good sense to KNOW, no matter what ANYONE might say to the contrary, that books such as the two mentioned can easily contaminate the morals of their children.

In these days of decided moral laxity, it takes continuous effort on the part of parents to keep their children decent. And mothers and fathers have the right to demand that the public school assist them in their difficult job, not tear down what they are trying to build over the years.

You parents who were up to your ears in pre-Christmas activity at the time of the last board meeting will make it a point to be present at the next one on Jan. 9, won't you, to lend at least moral support to the mother who is continuing the fight entered into so courageously by Rev. Michael Barkowska?

REMEMBER WHEN

10 YEARS AGO

A 75-foot "sea monster" was reported off Belvedere by artist David Lemon, who was out dinghy-sailing about 10 p.m. when he sighted the creature 200 yards off shore. He described it as having black and white stripes and a red head seven feet long which was kept above water. (Later a photo allegedly taken through a telescope was shown and this resulted in baring a hoax, press-agenting a water festival.)

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

We Wonder About Frills, Books, Property, Councils In Year Ahead

They're gone—those two delightful, three-day weekends.

They gave us time to sit back and relax, to enjoy leisurely meals, to sleep late, to spend more hours with our families, or, in our case, to head for the open road and "get away from it all."

We drove south on Christmas weekend, to Los Angeles, Disneyland and Marineland, the sunshine, the smog and the perils of the Santa Ana freeway (you think Bay Area traffic is bad?). It was fun, but good to get back to the fresh air of Marin.

LAST WEEKEND we spent a safe, restful New Year's Eve in Marin, but headed for the mountains the next day. There was the magnificent snow-capped scenery to shoot and the skiers to watch and those machines nearby that sometimes—if you're lucky — pay for your trip, and then some. (We were lucky this time.)

There was time to reflect a bit over the past year, and to wonder what's coming in this new year.

WILL THAT Assembly Education Committee attack on what it termed "frill" adult education courses provoke a controversy in Marin? We wonder. There are some who might consider rug braiding, weaving and landscape design "frills," but they'll get an argument from local educators who insist these courses are important.

We wonder if the book-banning hassle in the Tamalpais Union High School District might become a campaign issue in the upcoming elections for the district board? Someone half-seriously suggested that it might.

Wonder who will buy that "excess" property at the Corte Madera interchange which the state is putting up for auction Jan. 26. The irregular shaped parcel contains a little more than one acre and is zoned low density single residential. That means only single family dwellings on 20,000 square foot lots can be built there.

Anyone can petition for rezoning, but we hear the town is anxious for that property to be kept a "green belt."

WILL SOME MORE generous Marinites donate funds for equipment for Marin General Hospital's new cardiopulmonary laboratory — believed to be the only one of its kind in a 100-bed hospital in the country? This is a fine thing for the county.

Will 1961 bring a revival of the Larkspur-Corte Madera merger movement, or a reopening of discussions on Kentfield incorporation?

Has the Larkspur City Council dropped the idea of holding dinner meetings? The matter hasn't come up since it was first broached by Mayor Arthur E. Storhaug in November.

AND WE WONDER if more citizens will show up at Larkspur council meetings to keep councilmen from talking just to themselves in that big, lonely room.

It should be an interesting year—but no more three-day weekends, alas, until next Labor Day.

Civil War In Laos Must Not Be Allowed To Drift Into Disaster

WASHINGTON—The civil war in Laos is an example, which may be cited in the textbooks of the future, of the kind of problem which can arise in the interval when there is a change of administration.

The immediate problem is how in the last few weeks of office, the outgoing administration is to refrain from making any irretrievable commitments.

In Laos, the present duty of the Eisenhower administration is to freeze the situation until the Kennedy administration has had a chance to study it.

What must be avoided, if it is humanly possible to avoid it, is another Spanish Civil War, or another Korea, or another Congo, with the Russians and the Chinese backing one faction and the United States backing another.

WE ARE NOT FAR from this today. In the civil war, our government has backed the general who has captured Vientiane from the Communist captain who seized it not long before. We have a situation in which our clients hold the city and the clients of the Communists command the countryside.

If something is not done to stop it, there is every prospect that the intervention from China and Russia and the intervention of the United States will mount, each provoking the other to go closer and closer to the brink of war.

The situation is dangerous. For Laos is as close to China as Cuba is to the United States. The State Department must not forget what happened the last time, which was during the Korean war, when it disregarded the warnings that China would intervene if American forces approached the Chinese frontier.

THE SITUATION in Laos has now reached the point where it must not be allowed to degenerate further. In ways which have never been adequately reported or explained to the American people, the administration has involved itself deeply in the internal affairs of Laos.

The proof that it has involved itself more deeply than was wise is that its policy is under severe criticism in Great Britain, in France, and in India. These three countries have a longer knowledge and a greater interest in Southeast Asia than we.

We should listen to them. We should have listened to them long ago. We should now work with them to avert the international crisis which hangs over us.

The way to do this is to support the government of Great Britain and the government of India in persuading the new government in Vientiane to agree to the recall of the International Control Commission.

THIS AGENCY was set up by the Geneva Conference of 1954 at the end of the war in Indo-China. The task of the commission, which consists of Canada, India, and Poland, would be to mediate an end to the civil war, and to promote formation as the original settlement prescribes, of a neutralist government in Laos.

It will be said such a government will quickly become Communist. The first answer is that it will not necessarily become Communist, as we can see in Burma.

The second answer is that Laos is not a primary interest of the United States. We are not the arbiters of human destiny in every corner of the globe, and we cannot do more for Laos than India, Britain, and France think necessary.

JESSE E. TROUT
Third time is charm

KIDNAP-ROBBERY CASE

3rd Trial Acquits Ex-Quentin Aide

Acquittal by an Alameda Superior Court jury at 6 o'clock last night terminated the third trial of Jesse Eugene Trout, 32, onetime San Quentin Prison guard living at Fairfax and charged with kidnaping and robbery.

Trout's "third time and out" record included a first trial which wound up with a hung jury; a second resulting in conviction later reversed, and now an acquittal closely connected with the earlier reversal.

Lowell Jensen, deputy Alameda County district attorney, summed it up today:

"The fact that we couldn't use a confession by Trout left us only with what the jury evidently decided was inconclusive circumstantial evidence."

But the jury took six and one-half hours of deliberation to reach this conclusion after receiving its charge from Judge Folger Emerson. Nine women and three men were on the jury.

Trout and a former San Quentin inmate also of Fairfax, Allen R. Hecht, were alleged to have taken operators of an Oakland market from their home on the night of Dec. 22, 1957. Mr. and Mrs. Blaine R. Groo were forced to open the store, then locked in a walk-in refrigerator.

The next night Oakland police surrounded Hecht's Fairfax apartment and he was shot to death while resisting capture. Later that night Trout and his wife, Joanne, were arrested.

After the first trial with hung jury, Trout was convicted in June of 1958, and sentenced to one year to life in prison. But last August the state Supreme Court ordered a new trial on the theory that a confession had been extorted from Trout by jailing his wife without grounds.

Trout never got back to San Quentin in the role of inmate, even though 14 months elapsed between conviction and the order of new trial.

NO GOVERNOR BILL

Capital Punishment Up To Legislature

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown today tossed the death penalty question to the state's lawmakers.

He said he's still against capital punishment but "I am going to leave it to the legislature" to decide whether to repeal the present law.

There will be no administration bill on the death penalty, the governor told his news conference.

Brown declined comment on a proposal by Sen. Edwin J. Regan (D-Weaverville) to submit the repeal question to the voters in the 1962 election.

But he expressed hope that the legislature would abolish capital punishment. A bill for a four-year test moratorium on executions already has been introduced in the Assembly.

The governor gave these comments on other subjects that he touched on in his legislative message:

NARCOTICS — He will not sponsor a bill himself but "there will be unquestionably tougher penalties coming out of this session." Brown recommended longer prison sentences for peddlers in his message. He said he wants to confer with the new U.S. attorney general, Robert Kennedy, on possible federal action to halt narcotics imports from Mexico and other countries.

TAXES—In view of his no-new-taxes position, how does he feel about a prospective move to raise motor vehicle in-lieu taxes? "I'm going to wait and see what comes to my desk."

"At the end of this session," Brown said, "there is going to be a balanced budget. I intend to use the power of the governor to see that we don't go back to deficit financing."

CRIME—No comment on proposals for a national crime commission. As for a legislative bill to create a state grand jury, with power to investigate state agencies, "I want to think it over."

Dimes March Chairman Appointed

Eighteen area March of Dimes chairmen have been appointed for the campaign which began this week and will run through Jan. 31.

Novato attorney Robert D. Carrow, county campaign chairman, announced the appointments and noted that the annual Mothers March will be Jan. 31. Mrs. Walter Johnson of San Anselmo will head that phase of the campaign.

The fund raising dinner at Sabella's restaurant is scheduled for Jan. 30. Hostesses will be Mrs. Paul Spengler of Ross and Mrs. Elmer J. Martin of Belvedere.

D. R. Swing of San Rafael has volunteered to be treasurer for the drive. Mrs. Isaac Greer of Novato is publicity chairman.

Area chairmen are:

William B. Wolfson, San Rafael; Dr. S. Lyle Johnson, Novato; Hadden Roth, Mill Valley; Sally McNichol, Sausalito; Albert Gately, Fairfax; Robert Dress, San Anselmo; Nick Kobseff, Nicasio; Mr. and Mrs. James Alberigi, Point Reyes Station; Mrs. Jules Becker, Ross; Kenneth W. Burt, San Geronimo Valley; Lt. Ernest Brawley, San Quentin; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lacaze, Stinson Beach; Sgt. and Mrs. William Dalton and Maj. Leonard D. Hine, Hamilton Air Force Base; Ernest Schallinger, Black Point; A. C. Pfeffercorn, Bolinas; Paul Mendelsohn, Greenbrae; Mrs. Daniel Rochelle, Marin City, and Mrs. Melvin Hammond, Terra Linda.

Bartender's Car Rams Minister's

A car driven by a Sausalito bartender rammed a minister's parked car last night and the driver required treatment at Marin General Hospital as the result.

Shawn Mallory, 38, of Boardwalk No. 4 in Larkspur and chef-bartender at the Four Winds in Sausalito, struck the parked and unoccupied vehicle of Rev. John H. Toppenberg of Fairfax's Seventh-day Adventist Church on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard just east of Alta Mira Avenue at 6:05 p.m.

Mallory was treated for a fractured nose and injuries to ribs.

He told the California Highway Patrol that a following car kept its headlight beams high and dazzled him, then started to pass which forced Mallory toward the curb where the Toppenberg car was standing but not readily visible.

Fire District To Open Main Station Bids

Tiburon Fire Protection District commissioners will open bids on the main fire station remodeling project at their meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Tiburon Boulevard firehouse.

Conversion of the upper floor into sleeping quarters for the two regular firemen is contemplated, commission secretary Kelly J. Wheeler said.

Africa Nations Back Algeria, Lumumba Rule

CASABLANCA, Morocco (UPI)—Five neutralist African states today pledged support for an independent Algeria and threatened to pull their troops out of the Congo unless the United Nations restored deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba to power.

The leaders of Morocco, the United Arab Republic, Guinea, Ghana and Mali met for four hours and said they would put the virtual ultimatum on the Congo before U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold in protest against the United Nations alleged anti-Lumumba policy.

Their troops make up about one-third of the 19,000-man U.N. force in the strife-torn republic.

The leaders also backed a plan for a U.N.-supervised referendum in Algeria.

Main points of the joint Congo policy were worked out yesterday at the "little African summit" conference, also attended by representatives of Ceylon and Libya and Premier Ferhat Abbas of the Algerian provisional government. Delegates put final touches on their agreements before concluding the conference today.

The conference also agreed to support a plan for a U.N.-sponsored referendum in Algeria on the French territory's future.

Winter temperatures in New York are often more severe than in Reykjavik, the capital of Iceland.

Today is Friday, Jan. 6, the sixth day of the year with 359 more to follow in 1961.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning star is Mars. The evening stars are Venus and Mars.

On this day in history:

In 1759, Martha Dandridge Custis, widow of Daniel Parke Custis, was married to George Washington.

In 1878, American poet and writer Carl Sandburg was born.

In 1912, New Mexico became the 47th state in the Union.

In 1919, Former President Theodore Roosevelt died at his home in Oyster Bay, N. Y.

In 1925, Paavo Nurmi smashed two world's records in the Finnish-American track matches at Madison Square Garden in New York.

A thought for today: American poet Carl Sandburg said: "Time is a great teacher. Who can live without hope?"

Giants See No Contract Troubles; Mays Due To Hit $90,000 Category

HANLEY

Chub Feeney, back at his desk in Candlestick Park for the annual contract negotiations with Giant baseball players, said he anticipated no problems this year. Fenney's only problem last year was a temporary one that was solved when he boosted Orlando Cepeda to $27,500 after the Baby Bull missed the first part of spring training.

"Everything is going according to schedule," said Fenney. "Some of this unopened mail could include returned contracts. I just got back at my desk following a brief vacation during the holidays."

Only contract that Feeney, as vice president of the Giant baseball club, does not handle is the one Willie Mays signs. The club president, Horace Stoneham, personally deals with Mays who usually flies in sometime during January.

"Do you think Willie will get a raise this year?"

"I don't know," said Feeney. "That's not in my jurisdiction and Horace is vacationing at his Phoenix place."

A year ago Stoneham did not hesitate in giving Mays a $5,000 boost to $85,000 and Willie felt that was right and proper, saying "I deserved a raise and got a small one."

IF THOSE stories out of the east about Willie's domestic problems are correct, he could use another little boost this year even though he now is in that tax bracket where Uncle Sam's bite is mighty big.

Mays' 1959 and 1960 records are almost identical in some categories, such as runs-batted-in and stolen bases. His .319 for'60 is six points better than his '59 season average.

That probably will earn Mays another small raise since Stoneham regarded his star's 1959 output as completely satisfactory. In fact, the official club release last January when Mays signed his ninth contract as a Giant said: "Mays enjoyed another highly successful season."

Certainly there is nothing unsuccessful about his '60 record which may push Mays into the $90,000 bracket. He reacted wistfully last year when writers asked him just after he signed his 1960 contract whether they could say his salary was $90,000.

"What was that?" Mays exclaimed. "I'd like to get that much some day."

Now, a year later, that day does not seem far off. And unless misfortune overtakes him, Mays will be the next $100,000 player.

Marin Catholic, Tam, S.R. Rated Leading Contenders

Marin County Athletic League's bounceballers start playing for keeps tonight as the league championship race begins.

Marin Catholic Wildcats, who put themselves on the spot by winning the Christmas Tournament, are rated by many to win the round-robin title, too, but other teams have plenty of supporters, mainly defending-champion Tamalpais and the San Rafael Bulldogs.

Marin Catholic opens against Novato at Marin, Tam and San Rafael knock heads in an important opener at Tam and Redwood invades Drake. All programs begin with 7 o'clock Class B preliminaries.

Marin Coach Bernie Schnieder doesn't feel to comfortable in the favorite's role in this, his first season at the helm. "Lately," said Schneider yesterday, "we've been missing shots we made earlier in the season. Unless we find the range again we'll be in for plenty of trouble."

He listed Tam and San Rafael as the teams to beat. "Tam can be terrific when it jells. They say San Rafael is a 'dark-horse,' but I consider them a real threat to the championship."

STARTING UNIT

Schneider's probable starting unit tonight will be the regular combination of Jerry Smith, Chris Ahearn, Jim Soden, Gary Ragghianti and Ed O'Connell.

Coach Dick Paynter's Novato Hornets probably will counter with Moe Sparrow and Ron Grayson at forwards, Jim Sewell center and Lu Haas and Bill Tuel guards.

Novato has lost seven practice games and won three, but the Hornets have shown an ability to score by hitting the 50-point mark in three of their games. Also, a 34-30 win over San Rafael in the tournament was impressive.

Top game of the night will be at Mill Valley where Tam's Indians will be favored over San Rafael, due mainly to their home court advantage. The Indians have lost only one home game this year.

Coach Eddie Chavez' defending champs probably will start Norm Kreuter and Connie Hoetger at forwards, Pete Dornbach center and Bob Melbern and Charles Bullock at the guard posts.

BULLDOGS JOLTED

San Rafael Coach Bob Muster was jolted this week with the loss of two players, first string guard Chris Yaeger and second string guard Jack Haney. Yaeger suffered a sprained ankle and probably won't see action tonight. Haney has been ill.

Muster sees a wide-open league scramble, saying, "On a given day I think any club can knock over the favorites. I think Drake will get tougher while Tam and Marin Catholic look solid. Redwood and Novato can cause trouble too. It should be a well-balanced league."

Muster's starting lineup will be Rich Robertson center, Bruce McPhail and Rich Curry guards and Dennis Hall and Randy Petrini forwards.

At San Anselmo the Redwood Giants will be out to avenge a 38-21 tournament walloping by the Drake Pirates who will be favored again.

Coach Dick Hart's invading Giants probably will go with a starting lineup of Mike Kavanagh, Rich Brear, Herb Schreiber, John Whitney and Mike Hoffman.

Drake's Carl Brown is expected to start Dave Manuel, Steve Andersen, Bill Collins, Sam Johnson and Ed Ranahan.

While the preps dominate the local spotlight, College of Marin's Tars will be opening defense of their Golden Valley Conference championship on the road. Tonight Coach Cal Riemcke sends his Mariners against Yuba College at Marysville and tomorrow night against Shasta at Redding.

Eagles Bypass Van Brocklin In Search For Head Coach

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Quarterback Norm Van Brocklin, who has formally retired as a player during a conference with Philadelphia Eagles' officials, said today he feels the club already has decided on a new head coach and the choice is assistant Nick Skorich.

Van Brocklin parted company wth the Eagles yesterday after a meeting with President Frank McNamee. Van Brocklin had long ago said he was retiring at the end of the season.

Van Brocklin said McNamee asked him if he would be willing to return to action next year or if he would be interested in an assignment as a player-coach. He said McNamee made no money offer.

"It was cut and dry," said the 34-year-old passing great who led the Eagles to their first National Football League title in 11 years this season.

"I answered no to both questions,"' added the 12-year-old NFL veteran. "When I went in there I had a feeling that the hash already had been cooked and that they'd selected their head coach."

Van Brocklin had said if he didn't get a head coaching job he would return to Oregon and enter business. He said he had a couple of feelers regarding head coaching jobs, but that he wasn't at liberty to elaborate. Both the Minnesota Vikings' and New York Giants' head jobs are vacant in the NFL.

McNamee said in a formal statement that "we are losing a great quarterback . . . The Eagles regret his decision to retire and the entire National League will miss him . . ."

Meanwhile, Skorich, who like Van Brocklin prepares to leave today for Los Angeles for the Pro Bowl Jan. 15, said he hadn't heard from the Eagles.

Broglio Awarded Big Pay Boost For Great Season

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ernie Broglio, a surprising 21-game winner with the St. Louis Cardinals last season, has signed his 1961 contract for a big salary increase.

Figures weren't disclosed but General Manager Bing Devine said the 25-year-old pitcher got a boost of almost 100 per cent. This would make his salary about $18,000. He is the first Cardinal to sign this year.

Broglio, 6-foot-2 San Francisco native, tied veteran Warren Spahn of Milwaukee for the most victories in the majors, had the best hits-allowed-per-game average (172 hits in 226 innings) and lost the earned run crown, 2.70 to 2.75 on the last day of the season to Mike McCormick of San Francisco.

Umpiring Pays Well

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Umpires do almost as well as the players in a World Series. Four umpires received $4,000 each and the two foul line umpires got $2,000 apiece. Each umpire also received $30 a day for hotels and meals, plus $100 for incidentals during the entire series. Not bad for a fellow who need not open his mouth and needs only hands to motion each decision. Of course, they must have good eyes.

Smart Coach, Too

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP)—The Air Force Academy figures it has the smartest college footbal team in the nation—academically, at least.

Coach Ben Martin can field an entire team of players with a B average or better.

"I never try to outsmart these fellows," says Martin, who was sixth in a class of 1,045 when he was graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy in 1945.

BASEBALL VISAS

Cuba Clears Way For Big Leaguers

HAVANA (UPI)—Minnie Minoso, Camilo Pascual and other Cuban baseball players who make their living in the United States during the summer received official assurance today they will have "no trouble" joining their American clubs.

A high-ranking official in the Cuban Foreign Ministry said the government would not interfere with ball players leaving for the U.S.

"We will do everything possible to solve your problems," the government official told the players. "This is a special case and we are going to work it out with acting Foreign Minister Carlos Olivars.

The announcement was made as approximately 60 Cuban baseball players, including Minoso of the Chicago White Sox and Pascual of the Minnesota Twins, were sweating out getting visas to the U.S. in the aftermath of a break in diplomatic relations between the two countries.

BASEBALL VISAS

In the past, "baseball visas" were issued during January. Thus, most Cuban baseball players do not have valid visas now since the ones they obtained last year expired after six months. The visa for the ball players was a special one for athletes under contract in foreign countries similar to those granted professional musicians in Cuba.

It is believed that the major league clubs will have to submit the names of their Cuban players to the State Department in Washington and word will be sent down to the Swiss Embassy here to grant U.S. visas.

Cuban ball players then would need only exit permits from the Cuban Secret Police which the Foreign Ministry official promised will be "no problem."

Joe Cambria, a scout for the Minnesota Twins and a Cuban resident who discovered Pascual and most Cubans in organized baseball, said he and Pascual planned a courtesy visit to the Swiss ambassador Monday to explain the situation.

Minoso, who is president of the Cuban Baseball Assn., planned a similar call upon Capt. Felipe Guerra Matos, Cuban sports director, to explain the players' situation, it was understood.

Twenty Cuban players were on major league rosters last season.

Ray Norton Weds California Coed

OAKLAND (AP)—Ray Norton, 23, U.S. Olympic sprinter and San Francisco 49er halfback, married Martha Verona McGuire yesterday.

The bride, 21, is a senior at the University of California. Norton was a star athlete at San Jose State College.

Prep Swim Mark Broken

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Tom Trethewey of suburban Mount Lebanon High School has set a national interscholastic swimming record in the 100-yard breaststroke, bettering the old mark by eight-tenths of a second.

Trethewey swam the event in 1:03.4 Thursday in a dual meet.

Larry Pearson of San Leandro High School, Santa Clara, Calif., set the previous record of 1:04.2 last year.

GIANTS GAMES TO BE TV'D BY CHANNEL 2

First Bay Area television of the San Francisco Giants' baseball games will be shown April 25 with the first of 11 games from Los Angeles against the Dodgers.

It was announced yesterday that the Dodger games will be televised by KTVU, Channel 2, here. Heretofore, there has been no local TV of Giants games since they migrated from New York in 1958.

Announcers for the telecasts will be Russ Hodges and Lon Simmons.

The complete television schedule: April 25, 8 p.m.; April 26, 8 p.m.; June 2, 8 p.m.; June 3, 8 p.m.; June 4, 1:30 p.m.; Aug. 2, 8 p.m.; Aug. 3, 8 p.m.; Sept. 3, 1:30 p.m.;Sept. 4, 8 p.m.; Sept. 5, 8 p.m.; Sept. 6, 8 p.m.

Sears Suffers Broken Jaw In Pro Cage Beef

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A fist fight which resulted in a broken jaw for New York's Ken Sears has stirred up a heated exchange of words between Knicks' Coach Carl Braun and Jocko Collins, supervisor of referees in the National Basketball Assn.

The fight last night broke out between Sears, the Knicks' third-best scorer, and George Lee of the Detroit Pistons just before New York took a lead late in the third period and went on to win 104-102. It resulted after some pushing and shoving in the pivot.

In the second game of the Convention Hall doubleheader, Wilt Chamberlain continued his sensational scoring pace, getting 56 points for the second time this week and taking over the scoring lead from Elgin Baylor of Los Angeles in leading Philadelphia to a 139-127 victory over Syracuse.

In other games Boston retained its one-game lead in the Eastern Division by beating Cincinnati 125-107 and Los Angeles upset St. Louis 110-96.

Braun went to the referees' dressing room immediately after the game and demanded that Sid Borgia recommend a fine for Lee in his report of the game.

"It better cost him something, Jocko," Braun said. "If they (the league officials) let this sort of thing go on we'll be right back to the old days."

Collins fired back:

"He's (Braun) the biggest con man in the game. He tried to referee while he was playing for 12 years and he's still trying . . ."

Antonelli Signs Cleveland Pact

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians announced today they have received signed contracts from pitcher Johnny Antonelli and outfielder Willie Kirkland.

The Indians received the two players from the San Francisco Giants last month in exchange for outfielder Harvey Kuenn.

The signings brought to four the number of Indians in the fold for 1961. The first signed contracts were received from two infield regulars — first baseman Vic Power and second baseman Johnny Temple.

Rams Sign Tackle

MEADVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Tackle Bruce Olderman of Allegheny College, the fifth draft pick of the Los Angeles Rams, said Thursday he has signed with the team.

1,015 ATTEND DONKEY GAME

Donkeys had a crowd of 1,015 persons hee-hawing last night at Redwood High School's gymnasium during the school's feature donkey basketball classic.

Spills galore, stubborn animals and many other comical antics had the customers "rolling in the aisles," said Redwood Athletic Director Bob Troppmann. He said the crowd of 1,015 gave the sponsoring Redwood Benchwarmers Club a net profit of approximately $250.

As for the game itself, the Redwood Lettermen's Club defeated the Faculty, 18-6. Players rode the donkeys up and down the court and there were plenty of spills. "Next year," said Troppmann, "we'll either have to get shorter donkeys or raise the floor."

Mark Pearce scored six points for the Lettermen and Richard Hart scored 4 of the Faculty's 6 points.

ALONG MARIN'S SPORTS TRAIL

By JIM GILMARTIN

'Sportsman Of Year' Found Already; Big Fight For Rodriguez Monday

Nineteen sixty-one is only six days old but already I have a nominee for "Sportsman of the Year" honors.

His name is Peter Ribar, an attorney, and former FBI agent, resident of Kentfield and member of the Marin Golf Club.

He has all the qualities of a true sportsman, the most important being that if at first you don't succeed, try, try again. His stick-to-itness must be a carry-over from his FBI work.

Anyway, to get on with the story: Ribar, a 17-handicapper, was playing in a foursome at the Marin links this week and all was going as well as could be expected for a 17-handicapper when the foursome reached the par-four, eighth hole. This is a water hole and three of the foursome escaped the H20—everyone except Ribar.

Tee shot after tee shot by persistent Peter splashed into the aqua — 13 in all, which, along with penalties, mounted to 26 strokes before he reached dry land. Still undaunted by his hysterical performance, Ribar proceeded to complete the eighth and finally holed out for a score of 31 strokes on the hole! His total for the first nine was 75 as compared to par 36.

What is even more amusing is that Ribar parred four of the next five holes and probably had one of his better rounds, except for that exciting eighth.

Enough to make a man go on the water wagon.

SIXTO RODRIGUEZ, the pleasant California state light-heavyweight title holder from San Anselmo, will have fire in his eyes next Monday night in Kezar Pavilion.

Sixto will be meeting Kirk Barrow of Spokane in San Francisco's first fight of the year and the San Anselman will be out to settle a score with the promising northwesterner. Last year Barrow handed Sixto his only setback of 1960 in a major upset by a narrow decision. Since then Sixto has begged Manager Karl Ashley to get him a rematch.

This is the most important ring encounter Promoter Lou Thomas has lined up since moving his club into the Kezar gym.

Ashley, meanwhile, insists Sixto will flatten Barrow this time. He points out that Rodriguez reached top form with his recent six-round kayo over Johnny Sullivan in Kezar.

Ashley says if Sixto wins impressively he'll ask the California Commission to arrange a shot at Archie Moore for Archie's share of the world title.

Barrow, who started boxing at the age of 7 in "smokers," scored kayo victories last year over Big Terry Lewis and Earl Atley and lost a disputed decision to Pete Rademacher, whom he spotted 20 pounds.

Should be a pip of a beef Monday.

JOHN MANGINI, proprietor of The Cellars cocktail lounge in San Rafael, is the envy of his baseball-minded customers these days. For the past two Christmases Big Jawn has been the recipient of gifts from the Giants' Horace Stoneman. Latest token is a large ash tray with a likeness of Candlestick Park.

MARIN GOLF CLUB pro George Splane has qualified for the Big Crosby tournament this month at Pebble Beach.

Incidentally, next Monday the Marin club will host some 75 to 100 top players in the Northern California Amateur Tournament.

IN AN experiment to get a trout fishery started in Marin Municipal Water District's Kent Lake, the Department of Fish and Game yesterday stocked the lake with 100,000 fingerling Kokanee salmon, it was announced.

The Kokanee is a land-locked version of the King salmon and is described by a fish and game official as "quite similar to trout." However, Marin anglers won't be able to hook into one for another year or so. "They won't be catchable in their first year in the lake," the spokesman said. "They may start biting in the 1962 season, but possibly not until 1963.

Kent Lake was selected for the Kokanee experiment because, "We haven't had much luck with other species in that lake in the past," the spokesman explained.

IN INTER-LEAGUE competition during the practice basketball season Marin Athletic League teams won 11 games while losing 26—a very discouraging record. Especially when you anticipate what will happen when the Marin titlist goes to the Tournament of Champions at Berkeley in March to compete against some really great prep teams.

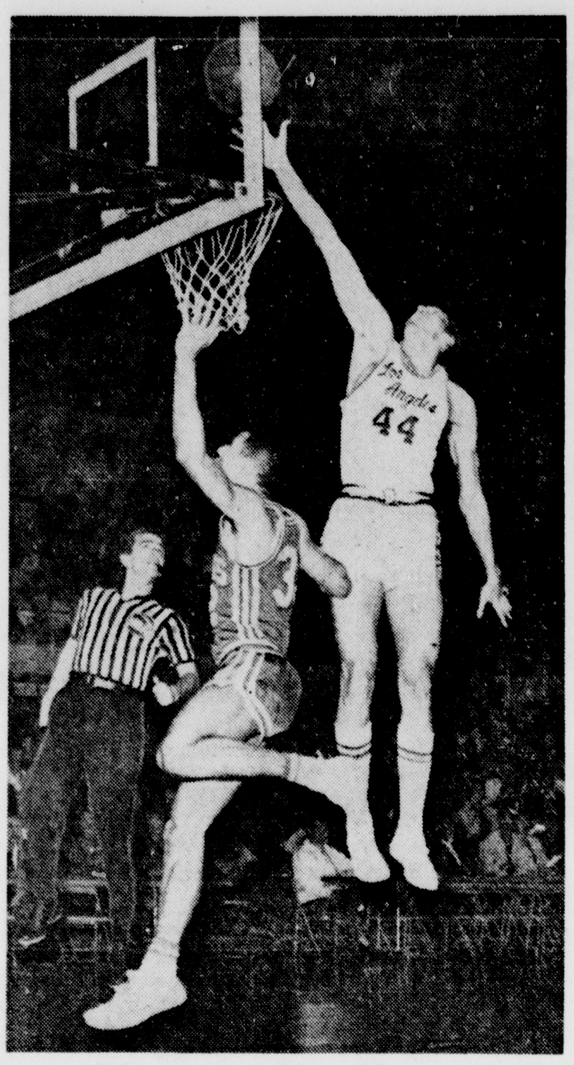

MATT HAZELTINE is a much better footballer than he is a golfer.

The 49er linebacker and ex-Tam High star banged away for 94 strokes yesterday in the first annual pro football players golf tournament at Hollywood, Fla. Yale Lary of the Detroit Lions carded a 79 to lead the pack.

College Baseball At Candlestick

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The first college baseball game to be played in Candlestick Park, windy home of the San Francisco Giants, will match the University of California and Notre Dame on March 26.

It will be the first appearance for the Fighting Irish nine on the West Coast.

JUMPING JERRY — Jerry West of Los Angeles Lakers, "only" 6-foot 3-inches, but jumping like a 7-footer, goes way above the hoop to block shot of St. Louis Hawks' Len Wilkins in Los Angeles last night. Los Angeles won, 110-96. (AP Wirephoto)

PLAYOFF ON TV

Cleveland Favored In Runnerup Bowl

MIAMI (UPI) — Paul Brown hates to lose, for money, marbles or chalk, and nothing points it up like preparations for tomorrow's first annual pro playoff between the National Football League's two divisional runnerup teams.

Brown has been driving his Cleveland Browns through scrimmages and putting a ban on extra-curricular activities as he readied his five-point favorites for their Orange Bowl bout with the Detroit Lions. The Browns weren't even allowed to play in the first annual NFL players' golf championship.

George Wilson, coach of the Lions, on the other hand conducted limited practice and encouraged his behemoths to play golf and otherwise forget football and enjoy themselves until game time.

"We've played them enough to know their personnel and what they do," he said of the game to be televised nationally over CBS at 11 a.m. PST. "We'll be ready for that kickoff and I think a little relaxation will sharpen up my guys after a long season."

"We're here to get ready for a ball game," countered Brown after conducting a scrimmage with full pads.

It was that simple to the coach of the Browns, who makes winning a fetish. Underneath, it rankled him that Detroit has won three of four world championship games from his Browns and in league play are 7 to 1 over the Browns. So he was treating this as if the league title was at stake instead of this merely being a transplanted rivalry for the benefit of the players' pension fund.

Wilson said that the game between the teams, whose meetings always take on overtones of a grudge battle, should be "a wide open ball game with a lot of scoring."

"Any team that has runners like Jim Brown and Bobby Mitchell and a quarterback like Milt Plum will be hard to stop," Wilson said. "But we've got some pretty good talent, too, in Nick Pietrosante and Earl Morrall and Jim Ninowski."

The Lions during the past season lost their first three games and then found themselves to win seven of their last eight.

Murtaugh Is A Guard

NEW YORK (AP)—Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh's 43rd birthday wasn't such a bust after all. His Pirates had bowed to the Yankees, 10-0, but son Timmy that night had aided St. James High of Chester, Pa., in an 18-0 football victory.

"I don't know what it means, "I don't know what it means," said Mrs. Murtaugh, "but Timmy made 11 tackles and assisted in eight others."

Las Vegas Has Best Chance To Get Fullmer-Sugar Bout

LAS VEGAS (UPI)—Sugar Ray Robinson and Middleweight Champion Gene Fullmer definitely will stage their fourth bout here on Feb. 25 before a national television audience, local promoters predicted today.

The two boxers signed for the fight yesterday in New York. But promoters called for a conference here today to determine whether the bout would be held in the 8,200-seat Las Vegas Convention Hall—as tentatively planned—or moved to another site, such as Los Angeles, Miami Beach, Chicago or Salt Lake City.

Local promoters Jack Doyle and Mel Greb conferred here today with Norman Rothschild, Syracuse, N.Y., who flew here from New York City after officiating over the contract signing. Doyle indicated he was sure of support from big strip hotels, and that the resorts would be represented at the conference.

Terms of the contract signed by Robinson before he agreed to try an unprecedented eighth time for the middleweight crown called for him to get $50,000 of the $150,000 television money and 25 per cent of the net live gate. This should net him—based on a Las Vegas fight—from $90,000 to $100,000.

For Fullmer, the bushy-browed West Jordan, Utah champion, the rematch is worth 40 per cent of the TV fee—$60,000—as well as 40 per cent of the net gate. This should bring him $125,000 to $135,000.

Despite the heavier chunk for Fullmer, the terms reflected a double-barreled victory for Robinson, 39. He had battled for three weeks to have his gate percentage boosted from 20 to 25 per cent, with $20,000 more than the original $30,000 offer.

The two men have fought three times previously. Fullmer won the first on a decision, but Robinson came back in May, 1957, to knock him out and take the title. In their third meeting last month at the Los Angeles Sports Arena, the two fought to a disputed draw, enabling Fullmer to retain the crown.

"I expect the convention hall to sell out because of the desire aroused in the west by that Los Angeles fight," said Greb, who worked yesterday with Convention Hall officials to boost seating capacity from 7,700 to 8,200. This arrangement was submitted today to Rothschild.

Greb figured this would bring a gate of about $140,000, somewhat under the $200,000 suggested by Rothschild. However, he said he hoped this could be worked out.

Three Marin Cars In Sports Show

Three Marin County cars are entered in the sixth annual San Mateo Custom, Rod and Sports Car Show at the San Mateo Fairgrounds tomorrow and Sunday.

They are John Grunigen of Mill Valley who is showing his 1934 Ford five-window, Chrysler-powered sedan; Eric Groneman, also of Mill Valley, with a 1929 Ford roadster; and Stan Mulligan of Belvedere who is entering a blue and white 1932 Ford three-window coupe.

There are more than 100 cars entered in the show, according to Manager Harry Costa Jr.

Important Games Open Big 5 Slate Tonight

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

With a close race predicted all the way, the opening Big Five Conference basketball series sending Southern California against California at Berkeley and UCLA against Washington at Seattle this weekend hold major importance.

Following the pre-season games, most picked UCLA to win the conference title, but the Bruins face a tough assignment against the Huskies.

USC and California take 8-2 records into the opener series at Berkeley tonight and tomorrow night.

"Southern California is running its offense with real authority," commented Cal's new coach, Rene Herrerias. "The Trojans are exceptionally effective on the defensive boards and are getting consistent, sometimes brilliant scoring from John Rudometkin and Neil Edwards."

Cal counts heavily on senior forward and captain Bill McClintock, the man assigned to cover the opponents' toughest individuals.

Washington, paced by 6-foot-8 center Bill Hanson hasn't played in two weeks. The Bruins lost to Iowa 71-65 in the final game of the Los Angeles tournament.

"We aren't the great shooting team that some people think we are," commented Bruin Coach John Wooden.

NEWEST PREP FASHIONS

BASKETBALL PROSPECTS

Drake Defense Erratic; Bucs Can Be Spoilers

(This completes a series of prospects of teams in the Marin County Athletic League's 1961 basketball schedule.)

By PAUL MILLER

Even though Sir Francis Drake gives the appearance during play that it is a defensive club, the Pirates have allowed a couple of teams to rack up some fairly whopping scores.

Still the team's defensive look has appeared prominent in some scores. Lowell High tied into Drake with a 50-31 rampage, while Vallejo High labored for a 26-22 victory over the Marin club. Last Friday Lincoln High battered the Pirates 57-26, while the week before in what Carl Brown described as one of Drake's "best" Balboa inched over in a heartbreaker, 39-38.

Among the players that make Drake an unpredictable club are student body president Mike Bresnan, usually high pointer. Sam Johnson is consistently on Bresnan's heels as far as game points go. A Pirate who carries a heavy load in the defensive office is Bill Collins. His fellow workers are Bob Ingram and Dave Manuel.

One of the club's great problems is to play well for four quarters. Several games have gone the other way this season in the home stretch or earlier. The Lowell High game is an example of this failure. The San Francisco Indians in the 50-31 romping were actually behind Drake in the first quarter.

The San Anselmo people have won three out of eight competitions this season, but the club has the grovel of a spoiler, so to speak — and league teams this season might do well to respect it.

Drake's schedule is as follows:

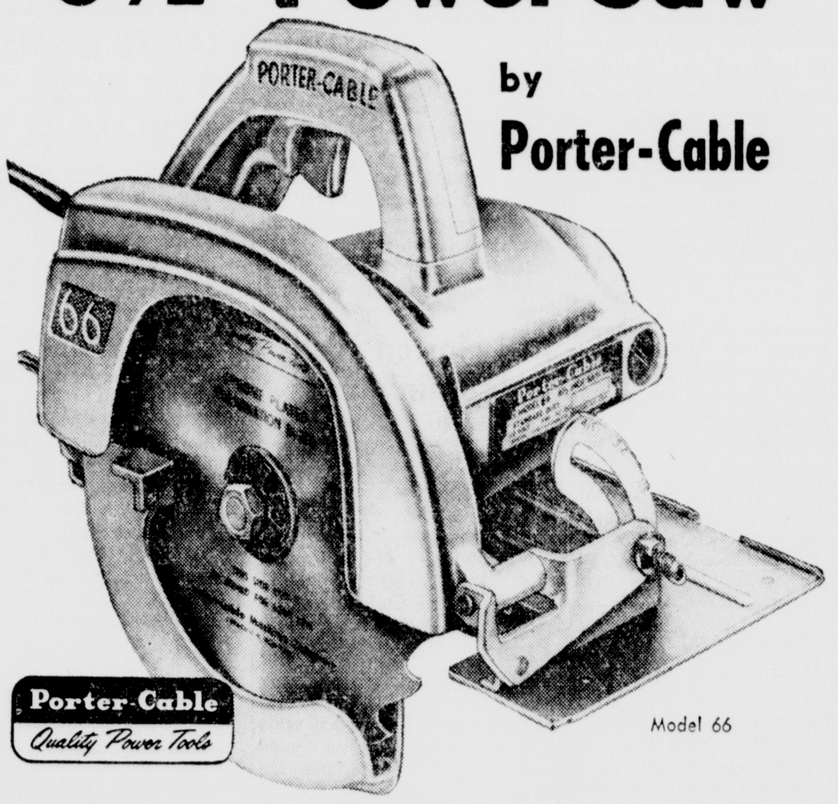

Jan. 6, Redwood, home, 7 p.m.; Jan. 10, Santa Rosa, away, 4 p.m.; Jan. 13, San Rafael, home, 7 p.m.; Jan. 17, San Francisco City College JV, home, 4 p.m.; Jan. 20, Tamalpais, home, 7 p.m.; Jan. 24, Novato, away, 4 p.m.; Jan. 31, Analy, home, 4 p.m.; Feb. 3, Redwood, away, 7 p.m.; Feb. 7, Montgomery, away, 4 p.m.; Feb. 14, Open; Feb. 17, Tamalpais, away, 7 p.m.; Feb. 21, Novato, home, 4 p.m.; and Feb. 24, Marin Catholic, away, 7 p.m.

Game Warden, Pals Cleaned Up On Hot Striper Run In Tomales Bay

STEVENS

Look! My telephone number is OLympic 4-5723. Jot it down some place where you can find it, will you? Two people called me this morning to say they had some fancy fishing facts to pass along last week, but couldn't find a number to call. One was from Marin County and the other from Mountain View.

The Marin call I missed was by Davis Campbell of the Golden Hinde Boatel in Inverness. Davis wished to report some fast and fancy fishing for stripers in Tomales Bay. A beautiful run of beautiful bass from around 12 to 26 pounds. Hope some of you got in on it, but it's doubtful.

Only a very few anglers were on the job. Game Warden Al Giddings and three of his cohorts, Al Joslin, George Matthews and Ronald Staight seem to have had the fun all to themselves. In fact that quartet, Campbell told me, have been on the job more often than any other group. "Those fellows must have taken at least 40—maybe 50 big stripers from here in the last few weeks," declared Campbell. Two six-year-old boys sure had a grand and glorious time one day last week. One lad hooked and landed a 16-pounder and the other lad actually landed one 12 and one 26-pound bass.

THAT WAS last week. So far this week, very few bass have been seen or caught.

We stress that word "seen." Campbell claims that the stripers come into such shallow water and so close to shore that they can be seen. He has a theory that the sea lions chase the bass in from the ocean and that only in the water too shallow for the seals to follow are they safe. But, regardless of the reason, it is certain that this is the first time in many many years that striped bass have come into Tomales Bay in any quantity.

TO SAVE yourself a fruitless trip, I suggest that before you shove off from home you should telephone Davis Campbell at NOrth 9-1389. You can bank on getting the true dope from Davis. His place is one mile past the Post Office at Inverness. He has six rental boats with 5 and 10 h.p. outboards for rent. It's $5 for boat alone, $10 for boat and 5 h.p. motor. Or you can launch your own craft if not a cruiser.

Striper striving other than in the Racoon Strait Richardson Bay-Red Rock area (where it continues hot) continues to be stymied by the unusually heavy fogs we have had for the past 10 days. Since last Friday, no boats have left the Crockett Harbor because of fog. Also the same adverse weather conditions have restricted both fishermen and fish in the back country spots.

MOST OF the reports coming in on duck hunting have been not-so-hot. But at least one quartet, Cal Erwin and his three sons, would say otherwise. Joe Navarro called to tell me that Cal bought each of the boys a shotgun for Christmas. First day out and first hunt for one of the youngest sons was a real treat. All three of the youngsters actually got their legal limits of ducks. I'll bet all my New Year's resolutions, those three boys won't grow up to be juvenile delinquents.

The Old River has been the mecca for a flock of very successful catfishing the past few days. Cats to 2½ and more pounds have been taken almost daily.

49ers Sign Two More Draft Picks Plus Free Agent

Two draftees and an ambidextrous free agent today signed National Football League contracts with the San Francisco 49ers.

Signed were Tommy Hackler, 217-pound offensive end from Tennessee Tech, the 13th draft choice; Jerry Peery, 245-pound lineman from Central State of Oklahoma, the 20th choice, and J. S. Lockett, a 240-pound end and linebacker also from Central State.

Lockett is ambidextrous. Last summer in baseball he pitched a doubleheader, winning the first as a right-hander and the second as a left-hander.

Stanford, COP Stars Head North Squad

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—North quarterback Dick Norman of Stanford and South center E. J. Holub, the Texas Tech terror, were chosen today as offensive captains for the 12th annual Senior Bowl all-star football game tomorrow.

On defense, Carl Kammerer of College of Pacific, 242-pound middle linebacker, was elected North captain, and Charles "Bo" Strange of Louisiana State, was picked for the South. Strange is tabbed for duty at a linebacker post.

Holub, a 225-pounder will alternate with Tom Goode of Mississippi State as offensive center, and also work as middle linebacker for the Southerners. The 221-pound Goode also will see duty on defense as a corner linebacker.

Coach Weeb Ewbank of the South and Jim Lee Howell of the North scheduled finishing touches to their offensive patterns today. Both have demonstrated in drills this week that they will rely heavily on prototype passing and both appeared satisfied they have the men to handle that chore.

Norman has done most of the passing for the North in practice, while Norman Snead of Wake Forest has carried most of the load for the South, with an assist from Howard Dyer of VMI.

The South is a mild favorite over the North at five points. Approximately 40,000 are expected for the nationally-televised game (NBC, 12:15 p.m PST).

'Lucky' Tournament Tickets On Sale In Marin County

Season tickets—$10 for the week, a 50 per cent savings under daily admission charges — are available at a number of locations for the Lucky International Golf Tournament, Jan. 23-29 at Harding Park in San Francisco.

The tournament, a $57,000 event which will benefit Bay Area Crippled Children Societies, is the newest addition to the Professional Golfers Assn. western winter schedule.

Golf course and country club pro shops throughout Marin County are now selling the tickets. Additionally, they may be purchased at the Taveggia-Brusati Sports Shop, 1340 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

A pre-tourney highlight will be a Pro-Amateur event at Harding to which a number of movie and television stars have been invited to participate.

The guest list includes Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Phil Harris, Ray Bolger, John Raitt, Gordon MacRae, Bob Sterling, Johnny Weismuller and many others.

Sports figures also invited to take part in the tournament, which comes on the heels of the annual Open, include Mickey Mantle, Dick Groat, Bill Rigney, Al Dark, Frankie Albert, etc.

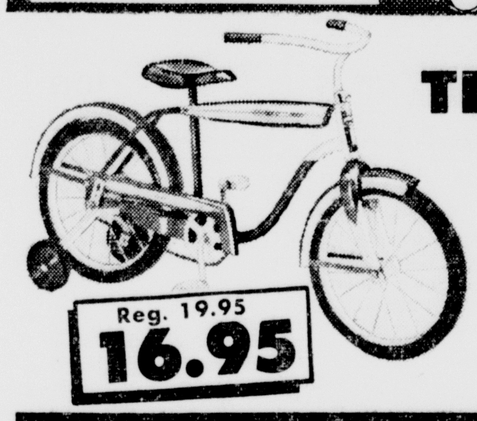

Al Dark To Play In Crosby Golf

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Alvin Dark, one of baseball's finest golfers and the new manager of the San Francisco Giants baseball club, will be among the amateurs in the Bing Crosby Pro-Amateur Tournament at Monterey Jan. 19-22.

Crosby's entry list for his 20th annual tournament will include 150 amateurs and 150 professionals.

Kennedy Thinking Of Income Tax Cut As Slump Cure

Study Group Recommends Quick Action Designed For Recovery

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy has under study a call for temporary income tax cuts in the spring if the business slump takes a serious turn for the worse.

The call was sounded last night by a committee appointed by Kennedy to evaluate the state of the nation's economy. It recommended that the new administration act swiftly to put into effect a sheaf of emergency measures designed to achieve recovery without resort to tax reductions in these times of international crisis.

The study group, in a report sprinkled with indirect criticism of the Eisenhower administration's handling of the business falloff, said these measures are urgently now.

And the committee, headed by economist Paul A. Samuelson of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said there should be no blind adherence to a concept of a balanced budget in times of business recession.

Kennedy, who recently expressed concern about what he termed lack of vigor in the economy, had no immediate comment on the report.

In advance of yesterday's conference on the economy, Kennedy met two hours with leaders of several farm organizations to discuss what he has called the farm crisis. He asked the group to come up with farm program recommendations at another session scheduled for Jan. 26 in Washington.

Today, other study committees he has appointed will get together with him to report on Latin-American problems, education, housing and urban affairs and international exchange programs in cultural and other fields.

In its report, the study committee on the economy said experts in that field are generally agreed there is a business recession, but that the slide cannot be termed a depression. The group urged use of a full kit of fiscal and monetary tools to combat the slump, and turned to what should be done if things get a good bit worse anyway.

The committee said: "A temporary reduction in tax rates on individual incomes can be a powerful weagon against recession. Congress could legislate, for example, a cut of 3 or 4 percentage points in the tax rate applicable to every income class, to take effect under our withholding system in March or April and to continue to the end of the year."

The committee said further: "It would be highly desirable for Congress to grant to the president the right to continue such a reduction for one or two six-month (or three-month) periods beyond that time, with the clear understanding that the reduction will definitely expire at the end of 1962."

The study group said "the recession slide is only the most dramatic manifestation of the grave economic challenge confronting our economic system."

In recommending a "first line of defense" emergency measures to be taken as rapidly as possible, the study group issued what it called an important warning.

It was this: "It is just as important to know what not to do as to know what to do. But what definitely is not called for in the present situation is a massive program of hastily devised public works, whose primary purpose is merely that of making jobs and getting money pumped into the economy."

The committee recommended:

1. Any defense spending that is deemed desirable for its own sake "can only help rather than hinder our economy in the period immediately ahead."

2. An increase in foreign aid spending, skillfully tailored to take into account the greater outflow of dollars than the influx, deserves "high national priority in a period like this one."

3. Urban renewal programs, including slum clearance and improvement of transportation facilities, "represent desirable projects that should come high on the policy agenda."

4. Vigorous pushing of federal aid for education, including funds for school construction, teachers' salaries and increased loans for college dormitories.

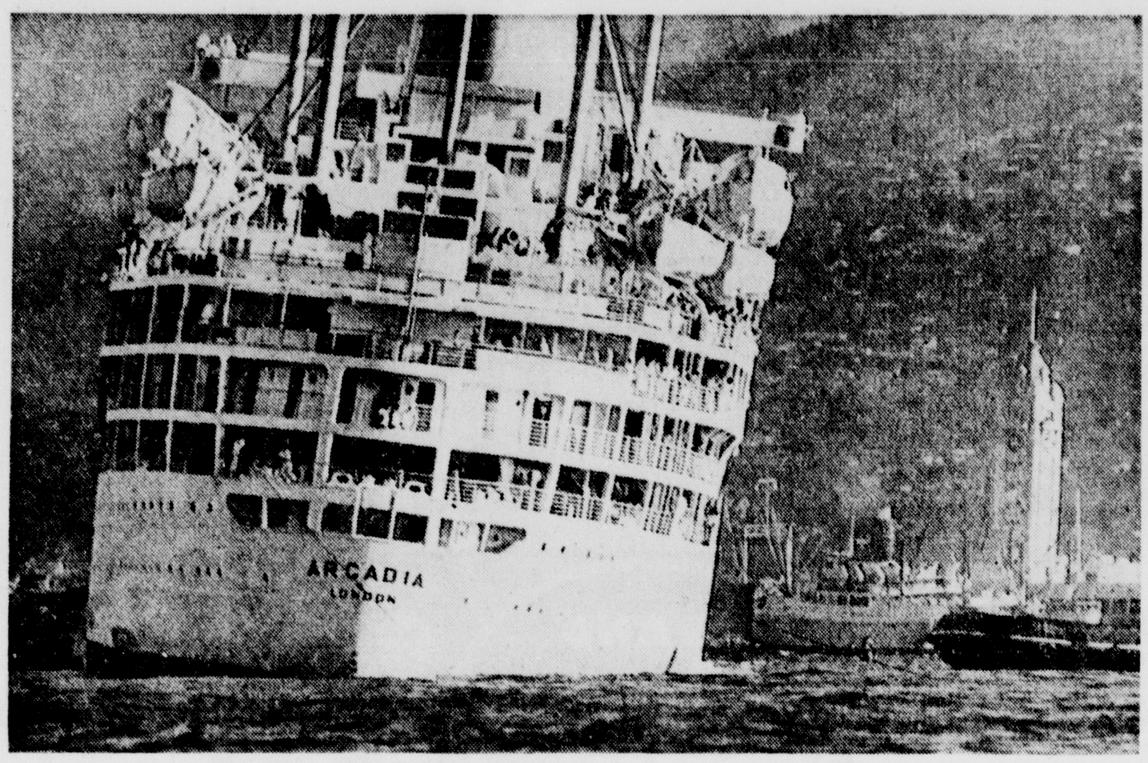

5. Health and welfare programs, including medical care for the aged financed through the social security system, increased grants for hospital construction and continued large grants for medical research.

6. Improved unemployment compensation. The committee called for emergency legislation to permit all states to continue paying unemployment benefits—perhaps at a stepped-up rate—for at least 39 weeks.

7. A program of useful public works, accelerated to the extent feasible without disrupting their orderly execution.

8. An increase in natural resources development programs.

9. Encouragement of residential housing construction, through such steps as reduction of mortgage interest rates to 4½ per cent.

GROUNDED LINER IN HONOLULU

The 30,000-ton British liner Arcadia lists to the starboard after running aground yesterday on a reef in Honolulu Harbor entrance. The ship was pulled free after blocking all harbor traffic for more than two hours. The ship carried 1,182 passengers and a crew of 713 bound for Australia. Capt. W. T. C. Lethbridge, master of the Pacific and Orient liner said he shared responsibility for the grounding with the pilot. The Arcadia was scheduled to depart today for Sydney. (AP Wirephoto)

Group Wants $3.5 Billion Granted For U.S. Education

NEW YORK (AP) — A special task force recommended to President-elect Kennedy today a high-priority program to pump 3.5 billion dollars in loans and grants into the American educational system.

The plan would provide extra federal cash for all public schools, for construction, and for teachers' salaries or other purposes related to improving education. It would provide a special program along similar lines for states in economic distress. And it would set up a special aid plan for city schools.

The program lines up like this:

1. It recommends that Kennedy support legislation to provide $30 per year per pupil, based on average daily attendance in public schools, for the entire school system of the nation. State and local governments, however, would be required to "maintain or increase their support of education."

2. Similarly, the task force recommends $20 per year per child for states where incomes are below 70 per cent of the national average.

The Fair Labor Standards Act, passed in 1938, set the minimum wage level at 40 cents an hour.

Tennessee was the last of 11 states to secede from the Union —June 8, 1861.

Employers Warned On Holiday Work

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The State is warning employers that not even a holiday rush will allow them to work women more than eight hours a day or more than six days in a week.

John F. Henning, Director of the Department of Industrial Relations, has called this fact to the attention of retail and wholesale store owners. He said that violators are subject to a fine for the first offense and both fine and prison for the second.

DOLDRUMS CURE

Labor Advocates Payroll Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Organized labor advocates cutting payroll taxes as a quick prod to the nation's purchasing power if unemployment gets much worse.

The novel plan was spelled out by AFL-CIO leaders yesterday as part of a 20-point program recommended to the incoming Kennedy administration to jerk the economy out of its present lagging pace

Specifically, the union chiefs proposed that Kennedy be empowered to put an income tax cut into effect if the rate of unemployment to the work force increases from its present 6.4 pcent level to 7 per cent or more.

This could easily happen this winter with the idle, now more than four million, expected to top five million.

Under the AFL-CIO plan, everybody would get a $10 a week reduction in his withholding tax payment for a 10-week period. This means everyone would have an extra $100 to spend.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said in outlining the proposal that the plan would put 500 million dollars a week, or five billion dollars over the 10-week period, into hands of consumers.

It has long been a labor union theory that such spending can bail the country out of economic doldrums. However, the executive vice president of U. S. Steel Corp., R. Conrad Cooper, said here yesterday artificial stimulation is not a proper approach.

Cooper advocated tax relief for business generally, improved business depreciation allowances and an end to industry's rising cost spiral, including labor costs.

Cooper led a steel industry delegation into a meeting with President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers Union, who had invited the session to seek to get the half-idle steel industry back into full production.

$171,000 Suit Claims Hurts

Two men who dropped 15 or 20 feet when a railing gave way at a Sausalito apartment last October filed suits for $171,000 damages in Marin Superior Court.

Howard McGill Jr. and Kevin McConnell seek damages for injuries suffered last Oct. 22 at an apartment at 630 Sausalito Boulevard. They claim that the apartment owner, Constance Hitchcock was negligent in not keeping the railing in good repair.

The two allege they were guests at the apartment and were standing on the porch surrounded by a wooden railing. They said they leaned on gave way, sending them toppling to the ground.

The plaintiffs contend they suffered severe injuries including a broken back for McGill and concussion for McConnell. McGill seeks $125,000 general damages, $10,000 for medical bills and $8,400 for a year's loss of earnings. McConnell asks for $25,000 general damages and $3,000 for medical bills and loss of earning.

AMONG BEST-DRESSED—Britain's Princess Alexandra of Kent, left, and Mrs. John F. Kennedy, wife of the president-elect, were named on the 1960 list of the world's best-dressed women. They were chosen by the New York Couture Group, Inc., which annually names the 12 women considered to have the most distinguished taste in dress.

ALSO NAMED IN THE BEST-DRESSED group were Mrs. Norman K. Winston, left, of New York and Paris, and actress Audrey Hepburn, right. The New York Couture Group annually asks some 2,500 style experts and society leaders to make the choices. (AP Wirephotos)

Wife Of President-Elect Voted Nation's No. 1 Clothes Horse

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—"Being a fashion leader," said Jacquline Bouvier Kennedy, "is at the very bottom of the list of things I desire."

But today, the 31-year-old wife of the president-elect was the nation's number one clothes horse, no matter how reluctant she may be to fill the style setter's role. Mrs. Kennedy, whose clothes spending became an issue during the campaign, by a "landslide" vote topped the list of the best dressed women of 1960.

Twelve women made the list, compiled each year from written ballots sent to some 2,000 fashion editors, designers and society leaders. The list is compiled by the New York Couture Group.

Mrs. Kennedy told reporters the day after her husband's election that she had no desire to be a fashion leader. But the Couture Group committee which "analyzed" the ballots, said she led the voting by an "overwhelming majority." It is Mrs. Kennedy's first appearance on the list.

The 11 other women are:

Vicomtesse Jacqueline de Ribes of Paris, a brunette usually dress by Christian Dior.

Audrey Hepburn, the small, brunette actress who is a steady customer of another French fashion house, Givenchy;

Mrs. Norman K. Winston, born Rosita Halfpenny of Oklahoma, now married to a real estate and building tycoon, and dressed mostly by designers in Paris where the Winstons live part of the year;

Donna Marella Agnelli, wife of Giovanni Agnelli, of Turin, Italy, an automobile manufacturing executive, dressed by Italian designers;

Mrs. Loel Guiness, of Paris and Palm Beach, Mexican-born wife of a Britisher, dressed mostly by Paris designers;

Mrs. Patrick Guiness, the daughter of Mrs. Leo Guiness;

Princess Alexandra of Kent, a cousin of Queen Elizabeth II of Britain, and one of Europe's most eligible females. It is Alexandra's second appearance on the annual list, where her mother, the Duchess of Kent, has appeared regularly;

FASHION EDITOR

Mrs. John Barry Ryan, III, New York, a former fashion magazine editor;

Mrs. David K. Bruce, Washington, wife of the veteran diplomat who is slated to be next U.S. ambassador to the Court of St. James.

Mrs. Stavros Niarchos, of Paris and New York, wife of the Greek shipping magnate, dressed chiefly by Dior;

And Queen Sirikit of Thailand, who wears oriental or western clothes with equal ability. She was the only other wife of a head of state to make the list, although in other years wives of presidents, queens and other royalty have been voted in.

Four more women moved up to "Hall of Fame" status with the ballots in—they get to this permanent, non-competitive rank if they have appeared on the regular best-dressed list three or more years.

Elevated to Hall of Fame in 1960 were the Duchess of Kent, the actress Merle Oberon (Mrs. Bruno Pagliai), Princess Grace of Monaco, and Mme. Arturo Lopez-Willshaw, a Chilean now living in Paris.

HALL OF FAME

Twelve other women already are hall of famers and include Mrs. Henry Ford II, Mrs. Winston Guest, the Duchess of Windsor, Mrs. William Randolph Hearst Jr., Mrs. William Paley, and Queen Elizabeth II.

The couture group committee said voting in 1960 was unusually varied, which led it to issue an additional list of women "Whose exceptional fashion leadership without ostentation or extravagance place them high . . ."

This group includes Mrs. Samuel I. Newhouse, wife of the newspaper and magazine owner; Rosalind Russell and Marlene Dietrich, the actresses; Margo Fonteyn, the British ballerina, "Princess Margaret of Great Britain, and Queen Frederica of Greece.

MRS. JFK ON LIST— NO SURPRISE

NEW YORK (UPI)—The election of Mrs. John F. Kennedy to number one spot in the annual list of best-dressed women probably surprised no one.

Mrs. Kennedy led the list of 12 best dressed, announced today by the New York Couture Group which annually compiles the ballots sent to 2,000 fashion editors, designers and society leaders.

The wife of the president-elect is a tall, slender brunette with a model's figure and with a clothes-horse knack that would have her looking chic in a burlap bag. Her clothes tastes tend to simple and uncluttered silhouettes, to sleeveless dresses, to neatly buttoned coats and to bright colors.

She wears her hair in a bouffant style already being copied by models and other women. She usually is hatless, but recent photos showing her wearing a small pillbox on the back of her head have pillbox shapes being revived throughout spring millinery collections.

During the presidential campaign, Mrs. Kennedy took exception to reports that she spent as much as $30,000 a year on her wardrobe."

"I couldn't spend that much," she said, "unless I wore sable underwear."

She used to shop frequently in Paris, but now leans to American designers. Just recently, Mrs. Kennedy announced the selection of Oleg Cassini, a debonair New York designer, to make much of her inauguration wardrobe.

However, she drew her own sketches for her inaugural ball gown, which is being made by Bergdorf Goodman, a New York specialty store.

Miss Wool Contest Entrants Sought

The North Bay Wool Growers Auxiliary is seeking entrants to the Miss Wool Contest. The girl who is chosen to represent the North Bay (Sonoma, Napa, and Marin) will compete with other girls from throughout California for the title of Miss Wool of California and on winning that, will go to San Angelo, Tex. to compete for the title of Miss Wool of America.

The entrants must be between the age of 18 and 25 years inclusive, unmarried, and have at least one year of college (or be completing the first year in June). She must not be less than 5 feet 6 inches tall, nor more than 5 feet 8 inches tall, without shoes, and wear a size 10 garment.

They must possess a talent which may be presented on stage at the San Angelo pageant and be prepared to give a short talk on wool, it's properties and advantages over other fibers, and be able to answer other questions on wool. (All information will be made available to the applicants for study.)

Entry blanks for interested girls may be obtained by writing Mrs. Thomas F. Furlong Jr., Box 65, Tomales.

Lynwood P-TA Has Film On Schools

The Lynwood School P-TA held its first meeting of the new year Thursday evening in the multi-purpose room of Lynwood School.

Brownie Troop 323, with Mrs. Gordon W. Pitt assisting, set off the occasion by conducting the flag ceremony.

Phillip Schneider, district superintendent of the San Jose schools, introduced the film, "The American Public Schools," and at the end of the evening refreshments were served by the fourth grade and the fifth grade mothers.

Marin Women

'Cinderella' Will Mark Birthdays

"Cinderella" opens the Junior Theatre of Marin winter season at the San Rafael High School tomorrow, and in the audience will be several birthday celebrants.

Among them will be Dorothy Ann Sovig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad R. Sovig of San Rafael. Her guests, on her 10th birthday, will be Carleen Sovig, her younger sister; Diana Bachman, Dorie Ball, Connie Cole, Gigi Allison, Jean Edwards, Marcia Wagner, Camilla Goebel, Mary Healy, Christie Thayer, Debbie Roberts and Charmain Van Pelt.

Susan Gresch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A Gresch, also of San Rafael invited seven friends to join in the observation of her eighth birthday. They are Kathy Nave, Theresa Lemetia, Victoria Kersher, Carolyn Clifford, Sonia Horn, Elaine Ragan and Donna Boenfeldt.

Meredith Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams of Tiburon, will be five on Jan. 10, and her early birthday celebration includes Betsy Steiger, Denise Locati, Diane Ring, Lisa Freemon and Monte Schneider.

Dinner Guests Hear Good News

A group of friends gathered for a pre-New Year's party on Friday night. Included were Mr. and Mrs. Manny Charnow, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kirsner, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Knoles, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Berkowitz, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Bernstein and Mrs. Zelda Pollack.

First they enjoyed cocktails and hors d'oeuvres at the Charnow home. It was while there a long distance call came for Mr. and Mrs. Kirsner telling them they are first time great grandparents. The baby, a girl, is the child of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Wolff (Margie Mizel) of Beverly Hills. Toasts were made to Mr. and Mrs. Kirsner, then the group adjourned to King Cotton for dinner. The evening was concluded at the Bernsteins' home.

Goucher Club Meet

A potluck supper will be held on Saturday, Jan. 14, at 7 p.m. for Northern California Goucher Club members. Hostess for the winter meeting will be Mrs. Robert Glenn, 123 Greenbank Avenue, Piedmont.

Further information may be obtained by phoning Mrs. Kenneth Lamott.

New Beginner Class Planned By Dance Council

The Marin Dance Council has announced a new beginner class scheduled to begin on Monday, Jan. 16 at the Bel Aire School on the Tiburon Peninsula.

Instructor for the 8 to 9:50 p.m. class will be Jim Greer of Marinwood. The class will cover all basic steps and current beginner dances being done by the dance groups in Marin County.

Those taking the class will be far enough along to participate in the dancing at the Marin Art and Garden Center Fair and the Folk Dance Festival in Kentfield in July.

Open Board Meeting For University Group

The annual open board meeting of Marin Branch, American Assn. of University Women, will be held Monday at 9:30 a.m. at the Woodlands Restaurant in Kentfield. Brunch will precede the business meeting.

This is a regular board meeting to which all members are invited so that they may have a chance to see how their organization operates. Selection of a nominating committee is one of the items on the agenda, says Mrs. Hugh Marchant, branch president.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Robert I. Christensen.

VASSAR CLUB WILL MARK CENTENNIAL

In honor of the Centennial of Vassar College, the San Francisco Vassar Club will sponsor a benefit performance by Anna Russell, the famous English songstress and comedienne, on Friday evening, Jan. 27, at 8:30 p.m., at the War Memorial Opera House in San Francisco.

Mrs. Norman B. Livermore, Ross, has accepted the honorary chairmanship of the Scholarship Benefit, and Mrs. Peter Morrison, San Francisco, acting chairman.

Marin County sponsors for the fund-raising event, whose proceeds will enable qualified Bay Area students to attend the college, include Messrs. and Mesdames Richard Y. Dakin, and Alan Sproul; also Mesdames A. Crawford Greene, Roger Kent, Norman B. Livermore, and Mr. George Wheelwright.

Tickets for the Benefit Performance may be obtained from Mrs. Frederick M. Fisk, 1100 Union Street, San Francisco.

Sweet Adelines Plan Wine Tasting Party

A benefit wine-tasting party will be given by the Marin Chapter, Sweet Adelines, Inc., on Friday, Jan. 13. The party will be held at Brown's Hall, 390 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

In addition to tasting the products of California vineyards, the guests will be entertained by quartets singing barbershop harmony with the "Tenders-of-Note" as the featured quartet. This quartet is composed of members of the Marin Chapter, SPEBSQSA.

The "Marin-ettes" as the group is named, are a chorus of women who sing barbershop harmony and throughout the year offer entertainment without charge to charitable, civic, and fraternal groups. The wine-tasting party will help them continue this activity by providing funds to defray the cost of music, travel, and director.

Since the organization of the local chapter in 1955, the chorus has sung at the annual Christmas party at Lucas Valley Farm several times and entertained the San Anselmo unit of the American Legion Auxiliary at the annual Christmas meeting of the unit. Besides appearances by the chorus, quartets from the chapter makes other appearances throughout the area.

General chairman of the wine-tasting party is Mrs. Charles Crowell of Strawberry. Assisting her are Mrs. Jennings Lyon of San Anselmo, Mrs. John D. Harding of Mill Valley, and Mrs. Earl Robertson of Mill Valley, president of the chapter. Mrs. Frank Sutliffe of Belveron Gardens is in charge of decorations.

Reservations for the party can be made with any member of the committee.

Scientific Career Requires Much Advance Planning

By VIVIAN BROWN

Girls who are interested in a scientific career, especially in electronics, should begin early to plan their life.

That's the advice of Dr. Edith Gulton of Metuchen, N. J., inventor and experimenter on electronic devices.

She thinks women have qualities that help them in the world of science:

"Women have the special ability of being able to simplify processes. They can look at a problem and see the essential truth quickly."

But science is for keeps, she points out.

A costly education and training by an employer shouldn't be abandoned when a girl marries and has a family. She must be prepared to stick with her new world and the progress of our times, says Dr. Gulton.

She managed to combine her own career with that of her husband, and is now a proud grandmother.

A good way to test your potential is to get a summer job that will acquaint you with the two possibilities, she says. Or perhaps you are in an area where part-time after-school work is possible in research laboratories.

Industrial factories that turn out instruments and parts are good testing grounds also, she says.

After two years of broader study in college, the serious minded science student should continue to study the particular aspect of the subject she has selected.

Dr. Gulton, who got into the electronics field after she married, has worked on a number of interesting projects. One is a delicate instrument that determines in diagnostic surgery what heart repairs are needed.

Dr. Gulton hires a few students for summer work from the hundreds of applications she receives at the industrial plant where she and her husband pursue their scientific interests.

Bargain Box Clothing Drive Underway

Sunny Hills Junior Auxiliary is conducting its annual Clothing Drive for the Sunny Hills Bargain Box in San Anselmo on Jan. 18, 19 and 20.

Donations of household goods, bric-a-brac, books, records, furniture, toys, will be welcome, as well as clothing of all sorts for men, women and children.

Proceeds from the sale of such donated goods at the Bargain Box help support Sunny Hills Home throughout the year. The Bargain Box, located at the Sunny Hills grounds on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo, is open Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10 to 4 p.m. every week.

The following depots have been set up throughout Marin County to receive donations for the drive:

Belvedere: Mrs. Horace Hill, III, 341 San Rafael Avenue.

Greenbrae-Kentfield: Mrs. Thomas Carson, 202 McAllister Avenue.

San Anselmo: Mrs. Warren Perry, 15 Barber Avenue.

Kent Woodlands: Mrs. Russell Johnson, 7 Acorn Way.

San Rafael: Mrs. Jack Hunt, Jr., 51 La Crescenta.

Terra Linda: Mrs. Dale Schnell, 415 Holly Drive.

It is suggested that donors telephone before delivering goods to insure their safety in case of rain. For pick-up service where delivery is impossible, call Mrs. Thomas Carson, 202 McAllister, Kentfield. Donations may be brought directly to the Bargain Box during the three days of the drive only. Earlier donations should be made to one of the above depots.

Picture Council Sets Meeting On Tuesday

The regular meeting of the Marin Motion Picture Council will be held Tuesday, Jan. 10, at the Tamalpais Theater. The 12:30 meeting will be followed by a preview of a new picture. Members and their guests are requested to attend.

ALL SET TO SOAR INTO '61 at "Fashions With a View" on Thursday, Jan. 12 at the Ondine in Sausalito is Mrs. William Donohoe who will model at the weekly fashion luncheon. Take off time for the first fashionable departure of the New Year will be 12:30 p.m. (Independent-Journal photo)

VIEW SHOW TO SOAR IN '61

"Fashions With a View" from the distinctive Ondine in Sausalito, the weekly fashion luncheon heralded by Bay Area social and fashion press as "elegant, intimate and appealing" will soar into 1961 on Thursday, Jan. 12.

Take off time for the first fashionable departure of the New Year will be 12:30 p.m.

Up in the air for a high flying spring will be conversation-causing fashions from a San Francisco store to breeze beautifully through a town and country season.

Soaring into '61 will be Flight 1, sleeved, suited and sensationally hatted; Flight 2, sleeveless, saucy, and sensationally bare-armed; Flight 3, biased, beguiling and reborn from the 30's; Flight 4, frankly fitted, feminine and fascinating.

Sparking "Fashions With a View" every Thursday in the New Year will be a special "guest with a viewpoint, whose presence will point up the importance of a cultural, civic, philanthropic or educational endeavor.

Reservations to enjoy the luncheon and "Fashions With a View" that captures the magic of the bay in a variety of moods may be made by calling the Ondine.

Harris Auxiliary Slates Installation

John H. Harris Camp, United Spanish War Veterans 18 and its Auxiliary will meet on Monday, Jan. 9 at the IOOF Temple, San Rafael. Luncheon will be served at 12 m. with Mrs. Winifred Guise, president of the auxiliary, Mrs. Myrtle Nickerson and Mary Frederick, cohostesses.

The two groups will begin their meetings at 1 p.m. President McKinley's birthday will be observed and the auxiliary will have installation of officers. Inducted in office will Mesdames Herbert De La Montanya, president; Carmelita Jepson, senior vice president; Marguerite Brabson, junior vice president; Mary Walls, chaplain; Mary Frederick, guard; Pink Thompson, assistant guard; Olga Walsh, historian; Mary Boone, patriotic instructor; Myrtle Nickerson, secretary; Grace Zubler, treasurer; Olive Wall, musician. Mrs. Brabson will be the installing officer.

Glass Frames

Rugged, child-proof eyeglass frames draw strength from a wire core running through the frame from temple to temple. Seven rugged barrel hinges add further strength to keep ear pieces attached to the frames. The manufacturer claims the new frames are from 75 to 150 per cent stronger than normal plastic frames.

An Expert Explains High Living Costs

NEW YORK (UPI)—The cost of living's going up and up and we consumers share the blame.

We are demanding more and more in the way of personal services—say better maids, hotel-like service when in the hospital and deluxe medical care.

Ayrness Joy Wickens, the economic adviser to the United States Secretary of Labor, and perhaps the nation's foremost female expert on budgets and the cost of living, said so.

For 28 years Mrs. Wickens has fed on statistics relating to same, and helping to produce the federal reports on the nation's economic condition.

"We don't expect much change in the cost of living in the future," Mrs. Wickens said. "Look at the wholesale price index, if you will.

A look showed that the wholesale price index remained virtually unchanged for two and one-half years—if you skip over the personal service items.

"We're really not in a period of inflation," Mrs. Wickens said. "Rather, we're in a time of stability, a time characterized by plenty of goods of all kinds—in contrast to a time during which there is a scarcity of goods.

"When there is scarcity, there is scarce buying, hoarding. And that forces prices up."

The economist said—in an interview during a visit here—that much of the trouble stemming from fiscal matters on many a homefront probably can be traced to poor budgeting.

Poor budgeting, she characterized as a failure to keep track of expenditures, and a failure to analyze drains on family income.

She suggested that those homemakers with money troubles try to keep track of the loose dollars, the funds seeming to disappear into thin air during a month's time.

"Keeping track," she said, "gives you some idea of the leaks in your spending pattern. When you know where the leaks are, you can attempt to plug them."

Mrs. Wickens, mother of two sons, has worked all of her married life, taking time out for dates with the stork.

"But I didn't leave my job to have babies," she said. "I continued—even when I was in the hospital—to be on call. As soon as the doctors allowed, I was having bedsides callers with my staff, making budget decisions, giving opinions on hiring, firing."

During the times Mrs. Wickens was in the maternity department, she was the boss of 2,000 and handling a budget of 2.75 million dollars a year.

"When a woman's bent on a career, marriage and child raising, she can't stop working when it's inconvenient," she said.

Mrs. Wickens' home is in Avon, S.D., 1,300 miles from Washington, D.C. She commutes—when she has the time.

In Avon, the Wickens' have a farm of 3,000 acres. Her husband, a retired Air Force officer and former economist, looks after the farm.

The economist has a personality that lives up to her maiden name—Joy.

"I've had many jokes about that name," she said. "Before I was married, most persons insisted that my name was Joy Ayrness—instead of the other way around.

"But I'm used to the jokes on the name. My grandfather's name was O. H. Joy. And my father's name was O. H. Joy Jr.

"When anyone came near the office of either the usual quip was—gee, this must be a happy place."

Movie Based On Scopes 'Monkey Trial'

By LES DARD

Details of the weekend films:

RAFAEL THEATER

Back in 1925, a young teacher named John Scopes went on trial in Dayton, Tenn., for teaching Darwin's "godless" theory of evolution.

The courtroom battle pitted William Jennings Bryan (for the prosecution) against Clarence Darrow. It was a bitter-end fundamentalist against a man who professed disbelief in God.

Comes now Stanley Kramer to tell this tale on film. Titled "Inherit the Wind," it was taken from the Broadway success and will open Sunday on the San Rafael screen.

Frederic March, as Bryan, emphasizes his buffoonish side.

Spencer Tracy is cast as Darrow and easily dominates most of the tense scenes.

Gene Kelly portrays H. L. Menken, the newspaperman whose sardonic accounts of the trial were widely read at the time. Dick York is cast as the martyr schoolteacher.

Of course, all the names have been changed, but the characters are easily recognizable.

Estimate: "Oscar" quality.

MOTOR MOVIES

"The Rat Race" (color is a comedy - melodrama starring Tony Curtis and Debbie Reynolds.

The film's all about the new crop of youngsters who storm New York each year.

Curtis plays a musician from Milwaukee. Debbie is a hard-bitten beauty who, after two years in the metropolis, is still no more than a taxi dancer. What happens to them makes this a tale of two babes in the Broadway woods.

TAMALPAIS THEATER

This theater's bringing back "Hondo," a 1953 release starring John Wayne (color). It opens Sunday on the Hub screen.

A little like the famed "Shane," this tale's set in the Southwest of 1874. Wayne portrays a hard-bitten Indian scout who can understand both sides of the war between the whites and the Apaches.

Minus his horse and lucky to escape with his scalp, he finds himself at the ranch of Geraldine Page, a courageous pioneer woman. Her husband, she says, isn't there that day. But from the looks of the place, Wayne figures he's been gone a good deal longer.

Wayne, tough and cynical, finds himself changing under the spell of Miss Page and her small son. But there's still that husband and the Apaches.

NOVATO AND SEQUOIA THEATERS

"Facts of Life," is a better-than-average comedy which pokes fun at middle age and suburban life. It opens Sunday on the Mill Valley and Novato screens.

Bob Hope and Lucille Ball star as a pair wed to Ruth Hussey and Don DeFore, respectively. The couples are neighbors who decide to vacation together in Mexico.

Hope and Ball tumble for each other and, once back home, try to continue the flirtation on a more serious level. Trouble is, they're rank amateurs, incapable of deceit.

The idea isn't new, but what is important is the way it's presented. Miss Ball is a delight from start to finish, Hope expert in his delivery.

The result: A surprisingly tender and frequently funny show.

TIBURON PLAYHOUSE AND FAIRFAX THEATER

How will the world end? In the opinion of Nevil Shute, who wrote "On the Beach," much as poet Eliot predicted: With a whimper.

The film, starring Gregory Peck and Ava Gardner, is set in the year 1964

Most of the world has been wiped out in an atomic war. Deadly radiation is drifting toward Australia, where the people have about five months to live.

Peck is a U.S. sub captain. Miss Gardner is a beauty trying to drown her fear in drink. Fred Astaire is a scientist. Tony Perkins a young Aussie naval officer.

How each of them meets the end is the gist of this suspenseful, provocative tale.

The Playhouse co-feature is the "Mr. Hulot" comedy, "My Uncle."

LARK THEATER

By way of closing the dollar gap, Britain has been sending us a series of crowd-pleasing comedies in which the characters "carry on."

The latest of these is "Carry On Sergeant," now on the Larkspur screen, and it is based on the premise that turning British army recruits into soldiers is sure-fire humor.

All the ingredients are in this one: the tough drill sergeant, recruits rolling around in the mud, girls in camp, the captain vs. a fire extinguisher, the awkward marcher.

William Hartnell, Bob Monkhouse and Shirley Easton head the cast of British comedians.

'FACTS OF LIFE'—Lucille Ball and Bob Hope perform in a scene from the comedy "Facts of Life," which starts a three-day run Sunday at the Novato Theater and the Sequoia Theater in Mill Valley.

A MEETING—John Wayne meets Geraldine Page for the first time in the scene from "Hondo," filmed in color, and which opens Sunday at the Tamalpais Theater in San Anselmo.

Awarded Contract

The California Department of Public Works has announced award to O. C. Jones and Son of Berkeley of a contract to construct an acceleration lane on the Redwood Highway at the Ignacio Wye in Novato, on a bid of $5,719.80.

Luxurious Ross Mansion Sold For Large Sum

Sale of the luxurious George H. Young home on Orchard Lawn Estate, Lagunitas Road, Ross, for a price understood to have approximated $100,000 was announced today by Ross Realty Co.

Mrs. Hazel Field Pauline of the company said the purchasers were Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Flax, who operate an art shop in San Francisco. They and their three children expect to make their home there.

Seller was the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children in San Francisco. The hospital received the property from the estate of Mrs. Frances Young, donor of a gallery named in her memory at the Marin Art and Garden Center.

A large two-story brick house built in 1928, is on extensive landscaped grounds including almost an acre of prize roses.

The house has one of the largest living rooms and fireplaces in Ross, the room being about 40 by 45 feet with high ceiling. There is a moveable circular window between dining room and a solarium including imported tree ferns, exotic blooms and Chinese burial urns.

The house has five bedrooms and five bathrooms.

Ernest A. Ford of Ross Realty handled the sale.

Tiburon Firemen Set Installation

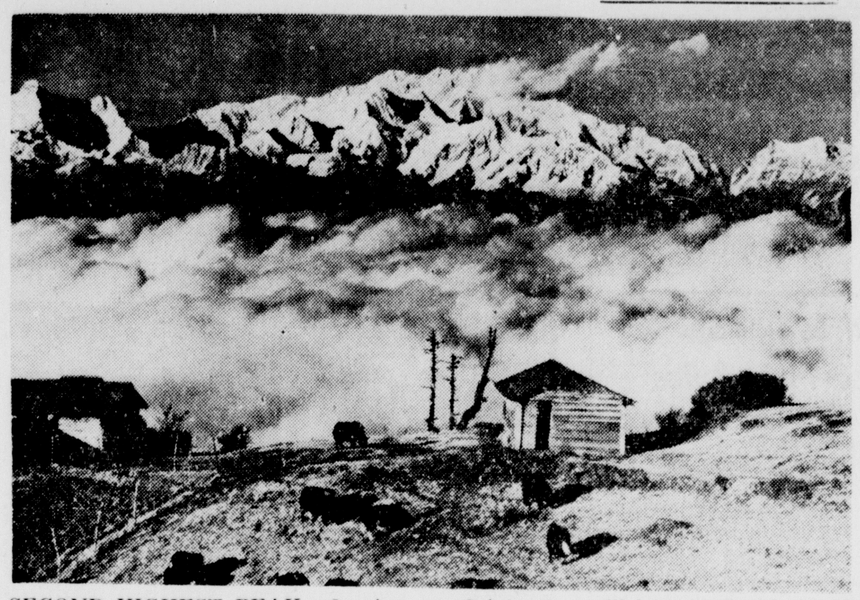

The Tiburon Volunteer Firemen's Assn. has set Jan. 21 as the date of its installation dinner at the Anchor Cafe on Tiburon's main street.

An urgent plea for daytime volunteers in the Belveron Gardens-Paradise Drive area was issued by Fire Chief Frank J. Buscher. With the resignation of volunteer Charles Eads, the daytime force is reduced to one or two men, Buscher said.

President Allen A. Olson thanked wives of volunteers for their sponsorship of children's Christmas party.

Sign Design Approved

The Corte Madera Board of Design has approved the design of a proposed new sign for the Edgewater Inn, provided it meets requirements of the town zoning ordinance. The application now goes before the planning commission.

SECOND HIGHEST PEAK—Soaring above the clouds is Mount Kanchenjunga in Nepal, next to Everest in altitude and photographed by Earl Brink, who will lecture Monday with color film under auspices of the Junior Museum in Fairfax. The stocky critters in the foreground are yaks.

Lecture On Nepal Scheduled Monday At Fairfax Theater

"Nepal, Hidden Jewel of the Himalayas," will be described by Earl Brink, world traveler and lecturer, in the second of a series of five lecture-color film engagements under Junior Museum of Marin auspices at 8 p.m. Monday at the Fairfax Theater.

Brink, said to have visited 108 countries and island groups in traveling half a million miles since 1936, will tell of a once-forbidden and still primitive high mountain country which until 10 years ago was considered more inaccessable than Tibet. Now opened, it still has only 18 miles of paved road, few phones and little electricity.

Other lectures will include Arthur Dewey on "Polynesian Paradise" Feb. 13; Carl Ecklund on "The Penguin Egg and IGY," March 20, and Ed Lark on "Provincial France," April 17.

License Fee Money To Be Given Marin

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The state has included a $42,353 payment to Marin County as its share of $9,067,964 distributed to 369 cities and 58 counties from state-collected motor vehicle license fees.

State controller Alan Cranston said the appointment, the first and smallest of three to be made in the 1960-61 fiscal year, represents about 8 per cent of what the cities and counties can ultimately expect.

Sick Children Need Sympathy— But They Also Need Firm Rules

Do your children obey when they're sick? Do they take their medicine like good little guys? Then you should have 'em fitted for angels' wings. Most children are at their worst when sick.

This is the season when they're most apt to be under the weather. Here are ways to reduce your troubles.

Have your doctor give his orders to them in person, if possible. He has authority. They'll be inclined to obey him. If you get your directions from him over the phone, be sure to explain everything to them right away.

Set up the rules. Be sure they understand them. Then do your best to follow the rules consistently. Don't be talked out of it.

Show love and sympathy. Let your little ones understand you're sorry they're ill but don't overdo it. If you're worried, try not to show your fear. You'll multiply their anxiety and hinder their recovery. You can destroy essential security in your children by making them too afraid.

Use rewards for good conduct whenever you can. Go slow on punishment for children are usually quite sensitive when they're sick. Sometimes it helps to have them practice the things they should do. They can learn how to swallow their pills by practicing on little pellets of bread, for example.

If the medicine tastes bad, ask the doctor about mixing it with sugar or fruit juice.

Spend as much time as you can with them. Read to them, take your sewing into their room, sit and talk or play games. Try not to let them lie in bed alone, feeling deserted. You'll be as busy as that one-armed paperhanger.

READERS' FORUM

(Q) "Why did the doctor tell me always to pour medicine from the side of the bottle opposite the label? Surely it's the same medicine either way I pour it."

P.M.

(A) Yes, of course. But if you follow his directions you won't spill anything on the label and mar the instructions. That may prevent future mixups.

Mother Can't Pay Fine; Given Jail

A mother of six children, who moved from Novato to Crannell near Eureka last year, must spend five days in Marin County Jail for drunken driving because the family is unable to pay a fine.

Mrs. Doris Attis Velkinburgh, 38, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Municipal Court. She said her husband is out of work, and she has six children, aged 2 to 9. Her court appointed attorney, Jay MacMahon, appealed for a minimum fine to be paid in installments, but the judge declared that installment payments have not worked out.

She was caught on Highway 101 in Novato last July 18.

On Wednesday, Richard Lewis Frank Harthorn, 24, of 15 San Pablo Avenue, San Rafael, drew five days in jail and a $263 fine for his second drunken driving offense. Judge Haley gave Harthorn work furlough privilege.

Harthorn was caught on Highway 101 in Novato last Dec. 25. He had a prior conviction in April of 1958 in Alameda County.

Epiphany Fete Slated By Church

St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael tonight at 7:30 o'clock will celebrate Epiphany with a parish pageant entitled "The Feast of Lights."

Participating in the event will be representatives of parish organizations, reported Rev. John Riley, rector.

"The pageant depicts the coming of Christ as the Light of the world, and the impact of His life upon the world," explained the rector.

Directors of the pageant are Mr. and Mrs. A. Louis Born. Born is also organist and choir director at St. Paul's.

Marin Engineers To Take Antioch Job

Stanley M. Bala and Jesper C. Strandgaard, civil and structural engineers with offices in Corte Madera, have been hired by the city of Antioch to prepare an engineering and economic study of an Antioch small craft harbor.

Bala and Strandgaard designed the Mill Valley small craft harbor and plans for deepening the Saucelito Canal.

HELP FOR A BUSY HOMEMAKER—Mrs. Opal Staggs of Fairfax has her hands full with a husband, three children of her own and four grandchildren to care for, plus the care of her mother, Mrs. Alma Parsons, who is confined to bed with tuberculosis. Public health nurse Sally McNichol discusses home care program with Mrs. Staggs, stressing special care for protection of the children. (Independent-Journal photo)

MARIN PUBLIC HEALTH LOG

Agency Helps Fairfax Woman Care For Invalid, 7 Children

(This is the fourth of five stories on activities of the Marin County Health Department during 1960.)

By DR. CAROLYN ALBRECHT
County Health Officer

I would like to nominate Mrs. Opal Staggs of Fairfax for the title of All-American daughter-mother - grandmother - of - the-year. And I feel good that the health department was able to provide the kind of help she and her family needed this year to handle some pretty difficult health problems that threatened to overwhelm them.

Fortunately, Mrs. Staggs is a very efficient, well organized housekeeper. But with four grandchildren to take care of, in addition to three children of her own plus her invalid mother in the home, she has an almost superhuman job on her hands even with the good help of Dewey Staggs, her husband.

The health department first knew Mrs. Stagg's 75-year-old mother, Mrs. Alma Parsons, when she was referred by her private physician for a tuberculosis diagnostic study in the health department clinic. Being ineligible for public assistance in a tuberculosis hospital, Mrs. Parsons has been cared for at home by her daughter.

The public health nurse helped Mrs. Staggs set up a home care program with careful attention to isolation procedures, especially for protection of the children, which she has faithfully observed.

Mrs. Staggs' difficulties in caring for her mother have been multiplied by a hip injury suffered by Mrs. Parsons, which has kept the latter bedridden for many months, and has made her increasingly incapacitated and unable to do things for herself.

Mrs. Staggs has welcomed the assistance of the public health nurse in learning about isolation techniques for tuberculosis and how to give the necessary injections of Streptomycin, about bed care for an older person, and about planning and preparing nourishing meals for all the family as well as the patient.

The public health nurse has also kept careful watch over the well members of the family, tuberculin testing all members to detect early any possible spread of the tuberculosis infection.

This supervision will be continued, even after the grandmother's tuberculosis is no longer active, with periodic checkups for the children and adults to guard against further spread of the disease. The health department will also continue its health supervision for Mrs. Parsons through its tuberculosis clinic.

Pair Receives Account Of Ethiopian Revolt

An eyewitness account of the short, violent revolt in Ethiopia by an American couple who broke the news of the rebellion to the world was received this week by Mr. and Mrs. Warren Merritt of Bolinas Road, Olema.

It was the shortwave radio broadcast of 40-year-old mining engineer George Pierce, picked up by U. S. Army radio operators 400 miles from Addis Ababa, that alerted the world, Mrs. Merritt said.

Pierce had been a house guest at the home of artist-illustrator Merritt in September before he and his wife, Ruth, went to take charge of a potash mining company in Ethiopia.

They moved into a four-bedroom house on a hilltop across a ravine from the Guentalul Palace of Emperor Haile Selassie less than two weeks before the revolt.

Before the four-day rebellion of the 5,000-man imperial palace guard was crushed by the 68-year-old "Lion of Judah's" loyal troops, an estimated 2,000 civilians and soldiers were killed or injured.

On Wednesday, Mrs. Merritt received a letter from Mrs. Pierce written six days after the revolt was broken. It read:

"It was a humdinger of a war and it all started so quietly too. George went to airport early, about 7:45 on the morning of (Dec.) 14th to join a party of high Ethiopian dignitaries and the American ambassador . . .

"Elite guardsmen told each arrival at the airport that no planes would be flying and took them all into custody. After about half an hour they let George go and he hightailed it to his office and over his shortwave told the boys at Donikil (site of the potash mining) that there wouldn't be any trips that day and that he would broadcast again."

Mrs. Pierce said the phone service had been shut off, the post office closed and the cable office surrounded by the palace guard. The emperor was in Brazil on a state visit.

"By noon we all realized that a coup was indeed in progress and George broadcast again. The American Army base at Asmara (in Eritrea, which is federated with Ethiopia) picked up his voice and alerted the world."

Rebel planes dropped leaflets ordering residents to leave the area, but the Pierces stayed in their house—one-quarter mile from the rebel stronghold.

At 2:45 p.m. the army and air force, loyal to Haille Selassie, began attacking the palace where the guard was holding about 17 ranking hostages.

"Planes began their strafing runs right over our roof . . . By 6 p.m. heavy tanks had joined the fracas. All electricity was shut off by dusk. Fortunately we had four candles on hand.

"There were fire duels all night and tracer bullets whizzed everywhere. They are scarey sort of things, but beautiful too—like red and white Roman candles," wrote Mrs. Pierce.

When the emperor arrived in the capital Saturday afternoon the guard herded the hostages into a palace room and machine-gunned them, Mrs. Pierce said.

Col. Workneh Gebeyehu, one of the chief rebel leaders, was caught and hanged in the public square.

Mrs. Merritt said the Pierces had lived near them before the Merritts moved to Marin County nine years ago from Aptos in Santa Cruz County.

S.F. Supervisors Want Details Of Bridge Finances

San Francisco's supervisors want the Golden Gate Bridge District's financial statement translated for them.

The city's finance committee has instructed Controller Harry Ross to prepare a questionnaire designed to reveal details of the bridge's finances.

Expressing vague dissatisfaction with the bridge's business operations, the committee nevertheless tabled two resolutions by Supervisor William G. Blake, one of which would create a six-county financial advisory committee and the other would name Ross "financial advisor" to the bridge board.

Committee chairman J. Leo Halley noted that when the citys bridge directors were called before the supervisors a few weeks ago, they were told Gen. Mgr. James Adam had only one administrative employee.

"According to this report," Halley declared, "there are 22."

Pipeline Meet Set In Novato

Directors of the North Marin Water District will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. today to discuss construction of the pipeline which will bring Russian River water to Novato.

Directors will meet at the district office to check plans for the Sonoma County section of the line.

The project is a joint one between the Marin district and Sonoma County. Bids for the Marin section, 10 miles long, will be opened Feb. 7. Bids for the section from Petaluma to Santa Rosa will be opened Jan. 31 in Sonoma County.

Memorial Fishing Pier Put On Planners' Monday Agenda

Public hearing on an application for construction of an "Elephant Rock fishing memorial" at the foot of Mar West Street on the Tiburon Peninsula will come before the Marin County Planning Commission as Item 23 of a 30-item agenda Monday. This presumably sets it for late afternoon, although the commission could take it up earlier.

Applicant is the Tiburon Chamber of Commerce. Supervisor J. Walter Blair, who has appeared as a chief sponsor of the memorial, does not figure as participant in the proceedings.

The chamber has requested an adjustment setting aside requirements of filing a master plan and development plan, and approval of construction of causeway and platform.

Construction was started last month and was well under way until protest by Leonard Bowman, whose home at 2000 Paradise Drive is just northeast of the rock, caused issuance of a stop order. The order was disregarded by Jess Hays of the staff of Fred G. Zelinsky, Tiburon property owner and painting contractor, which caused Bowman to protest before a Dec. 27 session of the supervisors.

Bowman and Dr. Orazio G. Rosalia have charged that both legalities and the views of the local community have been flouted in going ahead with what was designed as memorial to 11-year-old Robert (Bunkie) Keener of San Rafael, drowned while fishing from the nearby ferry slip last Oct. 1.

Amendments to the Greenwood Lagoon master plan, involving 29 acres devoted to apartment and marine projects southwest of Tiburon Boulevard near the Strawberry School, are to be taken up by the planning commission as the second item Monday morning.

Sterling Hayden Heads Cerebral Palsy Drive

Sterling Hayden will be honorary chairman of the 1961 March on Cerebral Palsy in Marin County, Mrs. William B. Hickman, president of United Cerebral Palsy of Marin, announced today.

The actor-sailor-author, a resident of Belvedere, succeeds Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos in the honorary post for the annual drive conducted by the local chapter of the national cerebral palsy organization.

"There is a dramatic and heart-warming story in the fight to conquer cerebral palsy," Hayden said in accepting the post.

"Thousands of volunteers throughout the country have undertaken the task of rehabilitating children crippled by cerebral palsy. They support an intensive research program which has prevention as its ultimate goal. In Marin County, we can all take pride in the fact that our local chapter has a part in this great story."

One-fourth of the funds collected locally go to the work of the national organization, according to Mrs. Hickman. The remainder stays in Marin to support the work of the local volunteers in aiding Marin County victims of cerebral palsy.

Mrs. Hickman and Robert Sideroff of San Rafael, county vice president, are serving as co-chairmen of the campaign committee. The annual 53-Minute "March on Cerebral Palsy" will take place on Jan. 17.

Melody Creel, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Creel of Sutton Manor, Mill Valley, has been selected as poster child for the 1961 drive.

Play Program Under Way In Twin Cities

The Larkspur-Corte Madera Recreation Commission begins its winter activity program this week.

"Art for fun," including arts and crafts, jewelry making and a sewing class, starts tomorrow morning at Eastman Hall, Larkspur, for children age 5 and up.

Tennis instruction for beginners, intermediates, advanced and adults, and physical fitness instruction also begin tomorrow. Tennis lessons are given at the Larkspur-Corte Madera School tennis courts, and fitness classes at Neil Cummins School.

The Junior Naturalists Club will hold its first meeting tomorrow at 1 p.m. in Eastman Hall. All ages are eligible. Members will collect, press and mount leaves, flowers, butterflies, etc., and learn care and identification of plants and trees.

Playground activities are offered from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Tuesday at Larkspur-Corte Madera School, Wednesday at Corte Madera park and Friday at Henry C. Hall School. Wednesdays are sports nights at Neil Cummins School for high school and college age.

Other activities include teen parties and special events, "Rock Hound" and "Pebble Pup" clubs, senior citizens group, dramatic groups, bowling and guitar instruction.

Information on the program may be obtained by calling director Bill Gordon at the Larkspur City Hall weekdays between 1 and 4 p.m. or at Neil Cummins School Thursday from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Drug Protection Bill Placed In Hopper

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Sen. John A. Murdy Jr. (R-Santa Ana) has introduced a bill to increase public protection from dangerous drugs.

His measure would require a pharmacist to give persons buying dangerous drugs, including prescriptions, a written statement describing its danger.

Legion Over Quota

The American Legion's Bolinas Bay Post has gone one over its quota of 25 this year in membership, adjutant A. C. Pfefferkorn said today, making a total membership of 26. The post plans to sponsor a card party sometime in February to benefit the March of Dimes.

CORNELL CAPA

This is a "pilot plant" at Shell's Emeryville Research Center near San Francisco—it is one of many that help Shell scientists to find new and better ways of making gasoline.

BULLETIN:

Shell discloses the nine ingredients in today's Super Shell—and the remarkable things they do to give your car top performance

Super Shell gasoline, with nine ingredients, is now in San Rafael. Today's formula contains cresyl-diphenyl-phosphate—a new, improved version of TCP. Read how this patented additive increases mileage, releases power, and helps your car give top performance

TODAY, every Shell dealer in this area has remarkable Super Shell in his pumps.

A notice on each Super Shell pump promises that this gasoline will give your car top performance. Shell's scientists want you to know why they can make this promise.

Ingredient #1 is TCP for power, mileage and longer plug-life

Super Shell now contains an even better version of this famous additive. Its chemical name is cresyl-diphenyl-phosphate.

TCP additive can give your car up to 15 per cent more power; up to 17 extra miles per tankful; and can make plugs last up to twice as long.*

New TCP does this by neutralizing certain harmful effects of combustion deposits. It is scientifically formulated to keep them from glowing when hot—a major cause of power loss. Also to keep them from diverting your spark—a major cause of "missing."

Ingredient #2 is "cat-cracked" gasoline for power with a purr

This is petroleum that has actually cracked under 900-degree heat and catalytic action. Its heavier molecules have been shattered into livelier, lighter ones.

The result is a super-octane ingredient that makes your engine purr with power the moment you put your foot down.

NOTE: "Cat-cracking" refers to the use of a catalyst—the mysterious substance that can alter molecules without changing itself.

Ingredient #3 is Alkylate, noted for knock control in hot engines

Jimmy Doolittle helped pioneer this outstanding high-octane ingredient for Shell aviation fuel.

Alkylate—the ingredient that took the dream of 100-octane gasoline out of the lab and put it into the skies—is now in Super Shell. It controls knocking in hot engines at high speeds better than anything else yet available.

NOTE: The engine in your car may frequently turn even faster than the engines of a DC-7 at cruising speed. Think of this next time you are passing on the highway.

Ingredient #4 is anti-knock mix for extra resistance to knocks

You might think that two high-octane ingredients are enough for knock-free performance. But Shell's scientists have ears like musicians.

They insist on adding a special anti-knock mix. A mix, so effective, one teaspoon per gallon can boost anti-knock rating by five points.

This mix has the tricky job of regulating combustion so that Super Shell gives each piston a firm, even push—rather than a sharp blow which would cause a knock.

Ingredient #5 is Butane for quick starts on cold mornings

Butane is so eager to get going that Shell keeps it under pressure 400 feet below ground to stop it from vaporizing by itself. Think what this extra volatility means in cold weather. Your engine fires in seconds. There is less strain on your battery. And none on your patience.

NOTE: Super Shell is primed with Butane all year round. In winter, Shell scientists simply increase the quick-start dose.

Ingredient #6 is Pentane mix for fast warm-ups on cold days

Pentanes are made by tearing gasoline apart, much as you split kindling to start a log fire.

In this case, the "logs" are petroleum's heavier hydrocarbons. A special process transforms their molecules from slow-burning "logs" into the quicker-firing "kindling."

NET RESULT: Fast warm-up and top performance in a hurry.

Ingredient #7 is an "anti-icer" to check cold-weather stalling

Super Shell's formula is adjusted as often as eight times a year to beat the weather. For example, whenever the temperature is likely to be less than forty-five degrees, a carburetor anti-icer is added.

Why add anti-icer at forty-five degrees? Because, even then, frost can form in your carburetor just as it does in your refrigerator. It can choke your engine dead.

Ingredient #8 is gum preventive to keep carburetors clean inside

Even the purest gasoline can form gum when stored. This can clog carburetors and foul automatic chokes. But, with Super Shell, you needn't worry. A special gum preventive does the trick.

It acts like a policeman controlling a mob. Regulates unstable elements to help keep them from clotting. Hence no gum problem.

Ingredient #9 is Platformate for extra energy, more mileage

It takes eight million dollars' worth of platinum catalyst for Shell to produce Platformate. But fortunately for you and for us, this precious stuff can be used over and over again.

The platinum re-forming process, which gives Platformate its odd name, converts petroleum into super-energy components—such as benzene, xylene and toluene.

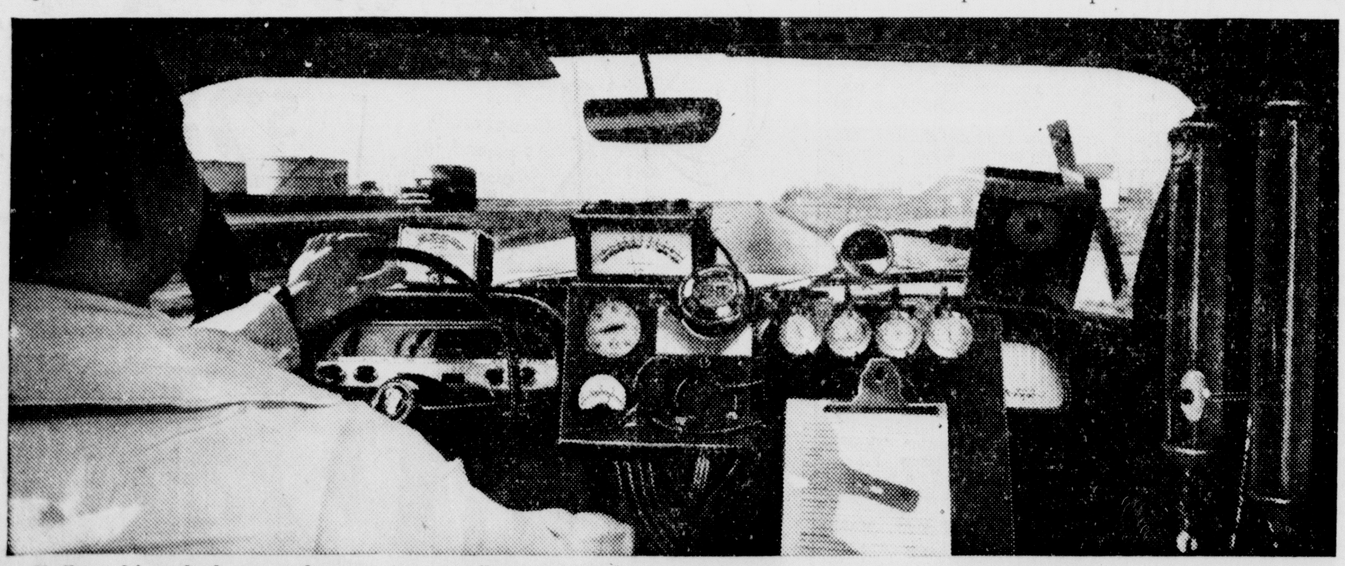

These three alone release 11 per cent more energy per gallon than the finest 100-octane gasoline.

But make no mistake. This is not untamed energy. Far from it. The super-energy of Platformate is harnessed by the eight other ingredients in Super Shell, where it behaves so well you scarcely know it's there. That is until you note your extra mileage. After that, there is no doubt.

Test Super Shell for yourself

Try Super Shell next time you fill up. You'll soon feel and hear a difference in the way your engine runs.

That difference is top performance.

Shell test driver checks top performance in a specially instrumented car. Stop watches, speedometers, gauges and tachometers enable every detail of performance to be recorded and checked. The knowledge gained helps Shell scientists to plan ahead of engine developments—and leads to constantly-improving products. The new, improved TCP in today's Super Shell is a typical result of such continuous research.

GM's 1961 Motorama

In San Francisco

Jan. 7 Through Jan. 15

DAILY Independent Journal Est. 1861
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

San Rafael, California — Friday, January 6, 1961

SPECIAL MOTORAMA SECTION

BIG SHOW OF CARS

General Motors Motorama of 1961 starts tomorrow at San Francisco's Civic Auditorium. All models of the firm's automobiles will be on display as well as a new Frigidaire kitchen.

There is no admission charge to this show.

Go and see and marvel at what General Motors has in store for 1961. There are special displays and a large Broadway-type show.

The cars will be on display at your favorite Marin County dealers.

GM's Giant Show Starts Tomorrow

No Kilroy, But Oscar Is Around

Unlike the elusive Kilroy who marched wherever U. S. troops went during World War II, but was not seen, Oscar, who will not say one word, will be an active participant at the General Motors Motorama of 1961.

Oscar is a scientifically created dummy, with only small resemblance to a human being.

Oscar rests upon a GM car seat with a six-way adjuster which Motorama visitors can operate by pushbutton. As the position of the seat changes, Oscar changes size to fit the various positions of the seat.

The seat moves to four extreme positions to adjust to better riding and viewing positions for drivers with short torso and long legs, or long torso and short legs, or long or short legs and torso. As the seat moves, Oscar becomes the type of person whose human frame would be best accommodated by the adjustment.

The exhibit portrays the type of seat designing available in GM automotive products and emphasizes the human as the basic reference for car interior comfort dimensions.

Oscar is but one of several General Motors Engineering Staff exhibits to be found at Motorama. Another push-button device provides visitors an opportunity to test their memory. It features 12 lighted squares displaying six automobile components in separated pairs. After "memorizing" the location of similar parts, the visitor will be able to press a button causing one member of each pair to disappear. The visitor then attempts to "match pairs" by remembering the location of the identical counterpart by pressing proper buttons to re-light other squares.

This exhibit is designed to prove that despite frequent lack of memory by humans, numerous engine, transmission and accessory components do have automatic memories." Operation of an auto would be impossible without some of these items to regulate timing, shifting, engine temperature, fuel consumption and other automatic processes.

Other Engineer Staff exhibits also prove accuracy, reliability and testing techniques of GM engineers. One such exhibit is an oil pump taken from a 1961 GM automatic transmission operating under conditions similar to actual driving procedures during a 25,000-mile durability run at GM Proving Grounds.

Visitors will discover how the pump is subjected to various changes as a pre-recorded tape issues instructions similar to those transmitted by a driver's foot on an accelerator pedal. Idling, acceleration, down-shifting, hill-climbing and downhill driving will be included in the cycles through which the pump will function.

Traditional Motorama At Civic Auditorium

The General Motors Motorama of 1961 is a mammoth family show spanning the centuries from prancing pageantry of medieval days to wonders of the space age.

Twice as big as any previous Motorama to appear in the Bay Area, the newest GM "industrial spectacular" will be open tomorrow through Jan. 15. There is no admission charge.

Besides Civic Auditorium, Motorama's traditional San Francisco home, the 1961 show also will occupy the new facilities of adjoining Brooks Hall, giving the Motorama a total display area of 146,000 square feet.

Hours will be from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. every day except Sundays when Motorama will open at noon and close at 11 p.m.

Automotive star of the newest Motorama is GM's dramatic "space age" car — Firebird III — in its first public showing in California.

First car ever to adapt such space age tools as electronics, transistors and computers to ground transportation, Firebird III can drive itself — and has no steering wheel!

Besides seeing Firebird III demonstrated, the 1961 GM Motorama invites visitors to:

"MAGIC MAN"

Enjoy "The Magic Man," an original Broadway musical show with a cast of 50 in lavish costumes which spoofs the middle ages in songs, comedy, and dancing. It is presented six times each Motorama day.

Visit a unique "Ideas for Living" exhibit packed with fascinating suggestions which can be adapted to everyone's home.

See all of GM's 1961 cars and trucks from Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick, Cadillac, GMC Truck, Vauxhall and Opel, including Chevrolet's Corvair and presenting the Pontiac Tempest, Oldsmobile F-85 and Buick Special. Motorama displays a total of 74 automobiles and 20 trucks.

Examine and operate 150 varied exhibits by GM divisions, both entertaining and educational, as they demonstrate the progress of today and the research and engineering promises of tomorrow.

Browse amid more than 116 colorful new appliances by Frigidaire and two complete "dream kitchens" — plus home heating and air conditioning equipment by Delco Appliance Division and electronic garage door operators by Delco Products Division.

SPACE AGE

Learn of the contributions to America's space age activities by 14 GM divisions coordinated and guided by the corporation's new Defense Systems Division —shown in exhibits clustered around a dramatic "space wheel."

For the stage show — which was created by Cy Feuer and Ernest Martin, producers of "Can-Can" and other Broadway hits — GM stylists created a stage which lifts cars forward on great grasshopper arms." This stage is so complicated it contains 35,000 electrical connections and requires an electronic control panel as big as a truck trailer.

BIG STAGE

Unique and yet completely portable, this stage occupies 15 of the 125 red, white and blue trucks which brought Motorama to San Francisco.

The "Ideas for Living" exhibit contains several rooms offering suggestions for everyone's home, using existing appliances and such common materials as rubber paint, sand, slate, stones, industrial wood flooring blocks and barn wood.

The educational exhibits, a feature of Motorama which parents and science teachers have always urged children to examine, offer new glimpses at a variety of research and engineering activities in gas turbine, free piston, and Sterling engines plus explorations into nuclear and solar power and safety developments for cars of tomorrow.

All told, 31 General Motors Divisions participate in the 1961 GM Motorama plus the GM Service Section, Engineering Staff, and Research Laboratories Staff.

This is Motorama's first visit to San Francisco since 1956 and its fifth visit since GM first applied the name "Motorama" to its new-type industrial show in the Mid-Century Motorama of 1950.

GM Show Put 'Ama' Into Use

Credit General Motors with adding a new word to the American language.

The familiar "ama" suffix in the title of GM's 1961 Motorama was coined by General Motors as a synonym for "spectacle." By now, it has been used to name a variety of items as different from GM's famed industrial shows as hamburgers and lipsticks.

It was in New York that GM first used "ama" in the name of a major spectacle—the famous General Motors Futurama at the World's Fair of 1939 and 1940. During its two year run, the Futurama was visited by 23 million people who marvelled at the 20-year look into the future of its spectacular Highways and Horizons exhibit. Many of the innovations it predicted are highway realities today.

The Motorama, far the most famous of the "amas," first opened in New York in 1950. The 1961 version is the seventh Motorama. Four have entertained Bay Area residents. During 207 actual show days in San Francisco and seven other cities, Motoramas have averaged nearly 43,000 visitors a day. In all, 8,890,260 persons across the nation have personally seen a Motorama.

The "Motorama" name was actually first used in 1947 as the title of General Motors exhibit at the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry.

Another spectacular General Motors "ama" was the Powerama staged in Chicago in the summer of 1955. During its 26-day run, 2,225,000 people visited this exhibitions of the muscles given to American industry by diesel and gas turbine engines.

General Motors and its divisions have staged many "amas," including a Wonderama showing Frigidaire appliances, a Buick Spacorama, and a Powerama exihibiting Allison engines.

Like other GM contributions to modern living, the "ama" and the spectacle it designates have become well established in contemporary Americana.

HERE ARE THE FACTS ABOUT BIG MOTORAMA

WHAT?—1961 General Motors Motorama

WHEN?—Saturday, Jan. 7 through Sunday, Jan. 15.

HOURS?—10 a.m. to 11 p.m. every day except Sundays when Motorama open at noon and closes at 11 p.m.

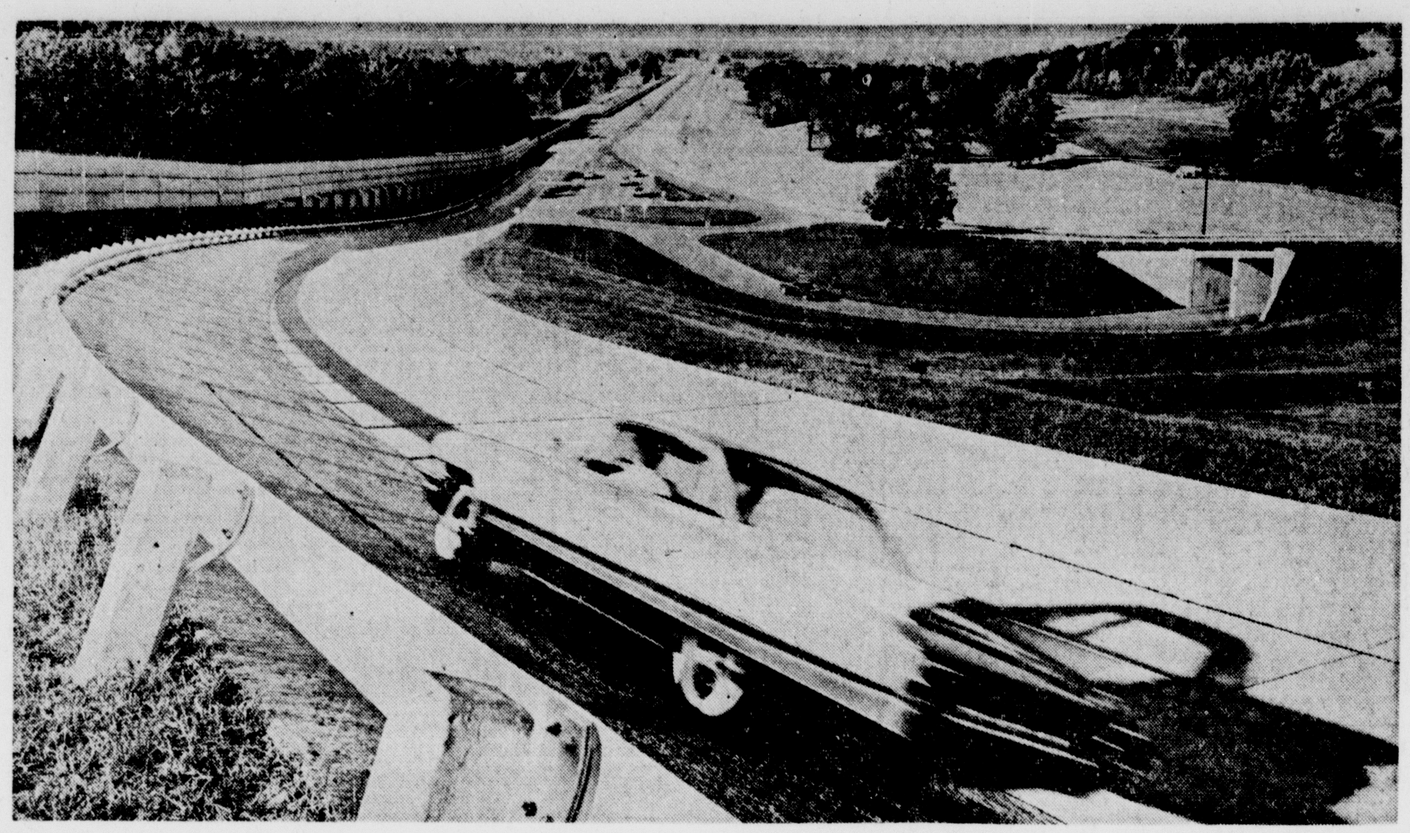

WHERE?—Civic Auditorium and Brooks Hall, San Francisco.

HOW BIG?—146,000 square feet of exhibit area—twice the size of any previous GM Motorama to visit the Bay Area.

WHY?—See the spectacular "space age" car Firebird III. Enjoy "The Magic Man," a fun and fantasy musicalette, presented six times daily. Visit the "Ideas for Living" display and take home loads of practical, workable ideas. Also see 116 new Frigidaire appliances and two "Dream Kitchens." See a brilliant display of 74 automobiles—all the 1961 GM cars from Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick, Cadillac, plus Chevrolet's Corvair and the new Pontiac Tempest, Oldsmobile F-85 and Buick Special. Also, Vauxhall and Opel cars plus 20 trucks from Chevrolet and GMC. View and operate 150 fascinating and educational exhibits by GM Divisions plus its Research and Engineering Staffs.

WHO?—Everyone is welcome.

HOW MUCH?—Admission is free.

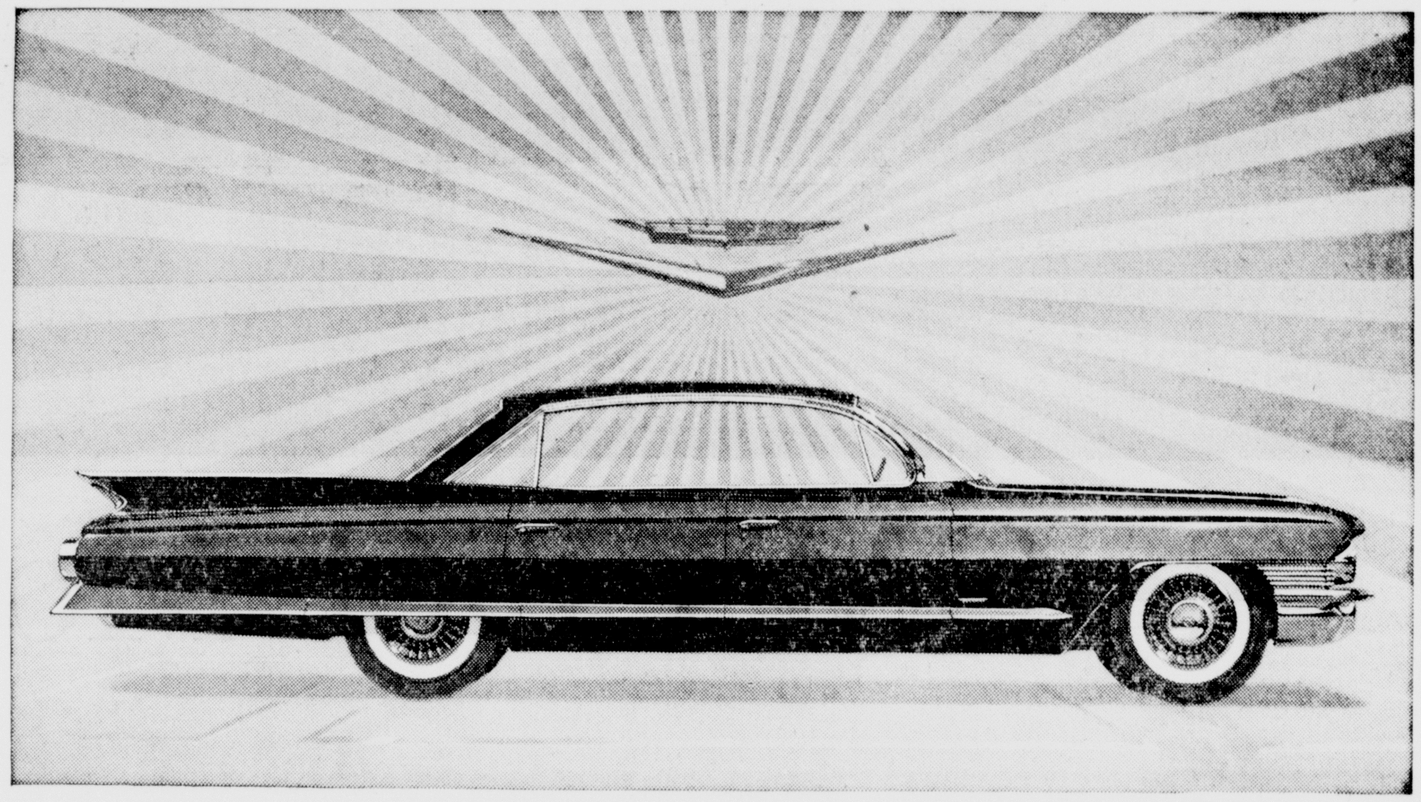

HIGH-SPEED TURN AT GM PROVING GROUND

Cadillac FOR NINETEEN SIXTY-ONE

When you come to the Automobile Show, you are invited to visit the Cadillac display, where you may inspect the magnificent new Cadillac at your leisure. We believe that you will find the 1961 Cadillac the most beautiful motor car you have ever seen—incomparable both in exterior lines and interior appointments. But, of course, seeing isn't everything—and you cannot possibly appreciate Cadillac's remarkable riding qualities, its almost incredible ease of handling, until you have driven the car. While you're at the show, make arrangements for a demonstration drive with your authorized Cadillac dealer. We look forward to your visit.

COUPE DE VILLE—This is the 1961 version of the famous Cadillac Coupe de Ville, with equally famous San Francisco as a backdrop. This is the Series sixty-two, and is just one of many models offered by Cadillac, and on view tomorrow at the 1961 GM Motorama.

Ease of handling for the 1961 Cadillac owner is accomplished from the increased boost from the new steering pump.

Also, the car is more manueverable—turning in a 43 foot circle, three feet less than last year.

Aluminum Helped In Castings

The progress in metal casting which has made possible such important new automotive developments as aluminum cylinder blocks and cast ArmaSteel crankshafts will be illustrated in the Motorama exhibit of Central Foundry, the cast metals division of General Motors.

Featured will be an automated V-8 aluminum engine and a new small transmission. The engine is cutaway to display internal parts. Both the engine and the transmission are being offered to the public by General Motors for the first time in 1961 cars.

With the new front suspension, the front brake drums on the 1961 Cadillac were moved out into the air stream and fins were added for even better cooling. This permitted the use of larger wheel cylinders which results in better control and shorter stopping distances.

New Electronics Due At 1961 Motorama

The public will have an opportunity of seeing the new "glamour" field of electronics —solid state physics — in GM Motorama exhibits developed by the Delco Radio Division.

Among these unusual exhibits are a paddlewheel solar cell which will give an idea as to how a paddlewheel satellite operates, a thermo-beacon flashing a powerful light which originates with only a tenth of a volt, a radar warning system, a VLF military communications system, and a digital "age" computer.

In its automotive exhibit, Delco Radio displays an exploded Wonder Bar radio which demonstrates how its signal-seeking tuner works.

The field of solid state physics includes all semiconductors such as transistors, rectifiers and silicon solar cells. These relatively small units provide a breakthrough in the field of electronics offering miniature size components with no moving parts.

They have allowed this country to forge ahead of the Russians in sending much more reliable and much smaller satellites into orbit.

While almost all of these new developments currently are being concentrated on defense, they will have future commercial uses which will benefit everybody.

Entrance and exit convenience for 1961 Cadillac occupants is improved as a result of the forward sloping windshield pillar, by a rear door that opens 7½ inches further, by moving forward the center stub pillar, by narrowing the rocker step-over, and by increasing door opening heights.

The 1961 Cadillac customer has a choice of 113 harmonizing or contrasting upholstery combinations, an increase of 24 over last year.

Turn Signals Make Driving Safer Now

In the days before turn signals became standard equipment on automobiles, there was always the question of whether a driver—often a lady driver—was going to turn right or left even when hand signals were used.

Today turn signals have helped make driving safer. So have other improvements in automobile lighting. Many of these changes in car lights are illustrated in the Motorama ex-

A crankcase ventilation kit (anti-smog device) will be standard on all 1961 Cadillacs delivered in California and available as an option elsewhere.

Over-all length is reduced three inches to 222 inches on all 1961 Cadillac models, excluding the Series Seventy-Five which is 242.3 inches and the Town Sedan which is 215 inches in length.

MANY NEW FEATURES

Cad's Lubrication Fittings Eliminated

One of the outstanding features about the Cadillac chassis for 1961 is that all lubrication fittings have been eliminated.

To obtain uniformity in ride and handling performance of the 1961 models, Cadillac engineers have designed parts on the chassis which maintain their specified characteristics through the use of high quality lubricants and high quality seals.

All this came about as a result of developing an entirely new type of front suspension. Formerly, the suspension arms were attached to the frame through metal-to-metal bushings. Now all suspension attachments are made through rubber bushings which act as road noise isolators. So complete is the insulation, in fact, Cadillac had to add copper bond straps from the suspension to the frame to keep the tire static out of the radio.

The "wish-bone" type arm of the past was held rigid by being connected at three points: one connection at the steering knuckle, and two at the frame. The new 1961 Cadillac lower control arm is now connected at only two points: one at the steering knuckle, and one at the frame.

To stabilize the front suspension, a diagonal tie strut is used with each lower suspension arm. The tie strut is connected at the lower suspension arm and at the front frame cross member.

Using rubber bushings on all suspension components to frame attaching points has eliminated the need for lubrication at these points. And to complete the job, Cadillac engineers have designed the steering linkage and spherical joints so that they are lubrication free.

Changing the engine oil and filter at regular intervals and periodically checking the battery, transmission, axle, steering and brake fluids will be all the attention necessary.

The spherical joints used on the suspension system and steering linkage are lubricant packed and sealed at assembly. The spherical joints on the steering linkage use an umbrella-type rubber seal while the seals on the front suspension joints are the bellows-type.

The sealed spherical joint design not only eliminates the need for lubrication of the joints, but more importantly, it results in a uniform performance of the joints by selecting a special high quality lubricant compatible with the bearing surface of the joint. Cadillac is able to optimize the performance of the joint and maintain that performance as long as the joints are not disturbed.

A plastic bushing is used on the parking brake bellcrank, thereby eliminating lubrication at this point. All in all, 17 former lubrication fittings have been eliminated.

The new front suspension, in combination with improvements made in the rubber bushing of the rear suspension, gives a smoother, softer ride, and practically no road noise.

A new type rubber support for the intermediate propeller shaft bearing gives quieter, smoother operation of the drive line.

The advent of a new body for 1961 gave Cadillac the opportunity to incorporate structural advances in both body and sheet metal, and to relocate and redesign the body-to-frame mountings to provide even better insulation.

People who know a good show when they see one...

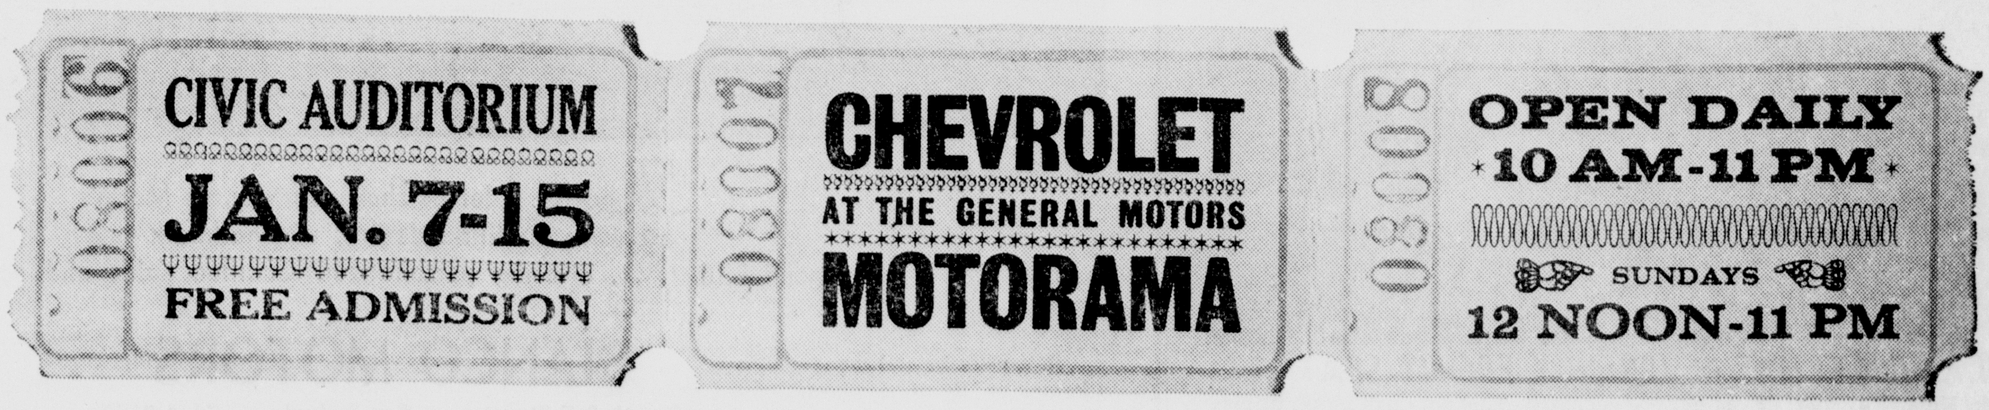

Chevrolet Impala Sport Sedan

are heading for the Chevy exhibit at GM's Motorama!

Corvair Lakewood 700 Station Wagon

If you've ever been to a Motorama you know it's one show that's much too good to miss. Especially the Chevy exhibit! It's the perfect place to see all that's new from Chevrolet for '61 . . . and the perfect time to pick your favorite model. You'll see stunning Impalas and Bel Airs, a specially designed show-car convertible and the '61 Corvette. There are also Chevy's nifty, thrifty Corvairs—the Lakewood Station Wagon, the Greenbrier Sports Wagon, and the new Monza 4-Door Sedan. You'll see the latest Chevy trucks, including new Corvair 95's. A delightful array of models! Plus special exhibits and displays—unusually interesting cut-away demonstrations of advanced Chevrolet engineering features. Bring the whole family; you'll have a ball!

See the new Chevrolet cars, Chevy Corvairs, and the new Corvette at your local authorized Chevrolet dealer's

ROOM TO PLAY — Chevrolet's Greenbriar sports wagon can be fitted with a desk, telephone and cooking equipment, making it both a vehicle for play and work.

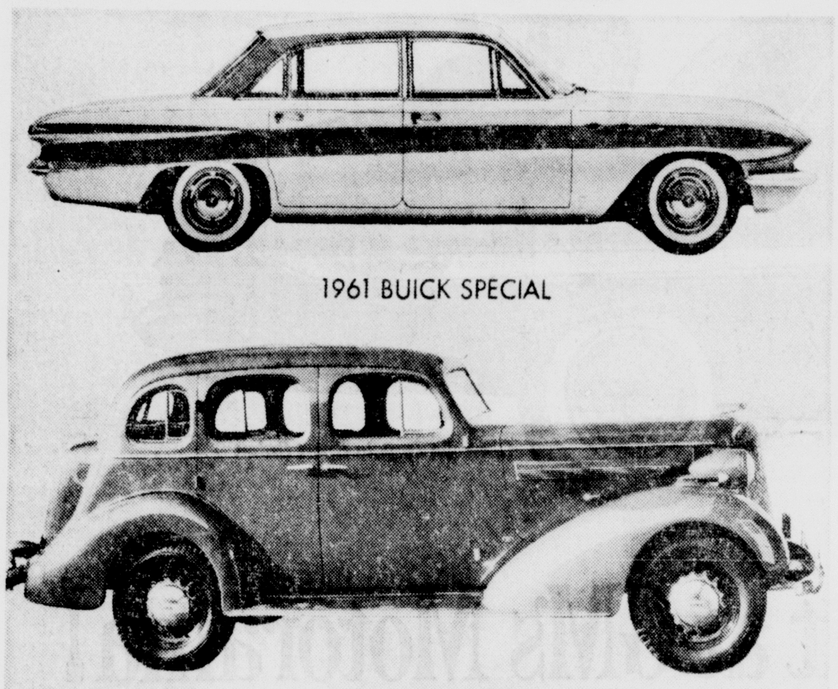

Greenbrier Sports Wagon Can Be Bus, Office Or Mobile Camper

Although it appears longer, the Greenbrier on display at the Auto Show is virtually the same length as other 1961 Chevrolet Corvairs, measuring an overall 15 feet. Mounting the horizontal, air-cooled engine at the rear has permitted designers to eliminate the normal hood and utilize virtually the entire length of the Greenbrier body for a roomy interior.

The Greenbrier is similar in design to a bus equipped with forward driving controls and rearmounted power. The major difference is that, except to the front seat, passengers enter through wide double doors in the center of the body. Also, such features as four-wheel independent springing and correct weight balance create a ride of superior quality.

A chief appeal of the Greenbrier is its versatility. Named a "sports wagon," it has a 1,600-pound rated capacity which can be applied as a nine-passenger bus, a mobile camper or office, or to other commercial assignments. The two, movable full width center seats can be positioned conventionally or to face each other, and also can be removed.

The six-cylinder engine is located under the flat cargo area at the rear and may be serviced by removing a floor panel.

OLD AND NEW—The Buick Special made its debut in 1936, looks quite different for 1961. The new one is five inches shorter, an inch wider.

First Buick Special Made Debut In 1936; This Year It's Shorter

Remember when the original Buick Special made its debut back in 1936?

The Dionne quintuplets were only a couple of years old then. The chain letter craze was at its height, and maybe you (or your dad) were thinking the auto industry had attained the ultimate in style, comfort and performance.

Actually, Buick had been building a car with the same general specifications as the Special since 1934, but it was not until 1936 that it became officially known as the Special.

The 1961 version of the Buick Special is styled and engineered to look and perform like its bigger brothers in Buick's standard-size series.

The Special features a 155 horsepower, aluminum V-8 engine, first ever built in the United States, and a new lightweight transmission. It weighs only 2,700 pounds, some 850 pounds less than the 1936 Special, which was powered by a 93 horsepower straight-eight engine.

The new Special's horsepower-to-weight ratio is comparable to the larger Buick models for maximum performance.

The 1961 Special is 188 inches long, about five inches shorter than its 1936 counterpart. Although only about an inch wider than the 1936 version, it provides a foot more hip and shoulder room. It comfortably seats six persons, where the first Special accommodated only five.

In fuel economy, too, the 1961 Special shows a distinct advantage over the 1936 model, providing from 35 to 40 per cent more miles to the gallon.

The first Special quickly became a favorite of car buyers and was the predominant factor in Buick's rise to fourth place in industry sales in 1937. It reigned as Buick's most popular series until World War II halted auto production.

The Special nameplate was re-introduced in 1950 and production of this series continued until 1959 when it became the LeSabre series.

FLAMINGO HAS REVERSIBLE FRONT SEAT

Buick Motor Division's Flamingo, a custom designed Electra 225 convertible has a reversible front passenger seat. This auto will be on display at the GM Motorama starting tomorrow in San Francisco.

General Motors' support to higher education includes undergraduate scholarships, fellowships, grants-in-aid to private colleges, and contributions for research projects, educational conferences and operation of General Motors Institute. Cost of the entire program, which includes benefits to over 380 colleges, is more than $5 million annually.

General Motors is owned by a total of more than 800,000 holders of common and preferred stock, giving the company the broadest ownership of any individual organization in the world. Holders of GM stock reside in every state in the U.S., all provinces of Canada and some 80 countries abroad.

MEN, FABRICS, MACHINES LEND DRAMA

Men, machines and materials make the GM Motorama of 1961 an exciting exhibit. Among the wide assortment and great quantity of materials that are used to put the show together are these:

More than 35,000 square yards of custom designed drapery and fabrics.

110,000 lineal feet of electric cable.

46,000 board feet of lumber.

175,000 square feet of plywood.

1,900 gallons of paint and lacquer.

Controls for the 66 by 58 foot specially-designed stage require 35,000 electrical connections.

BUICK FLAMINGO

Reversible Front Seat Is Feature

Buick Motor Division features the Flamingo, a custom designed Electra 225 convertible with a reversible front passenger seat, at the General Motors Motorama in San Francisco.

The gleaming Flamingo is the focal point of the Buick exhibit which includes 11 production models and two 1961 Opels. In addition, a Buick Invicta convertible and Special station wagon are highlighted in the Motorama stage presentation, "The Magic Man."

Finished in pearlescent chiffon orange color tones, the Flamingo features custom built bucket seats, a full length textured metal storage console between the front seats, and mouton carpeting. The front passenger seat reverses to face the rear.

The Flamingo's interior trim is fashioned of genuine top grain leather and a silk paisley brocade fabric designed in France in cooperation with Buick stylists. A fashion model with custom convertible wears a gown of the same paisley brocade designed by Bill Blass of Maurice Rentner, one of the world's foremost fashion houses.

Production models at the Buick exhibit include two sedans and a station wagon from the Special series, Buick's entry in the economy car field, and eight models from the standard-size Buick series, Le Sabre, Invicta and Electra.

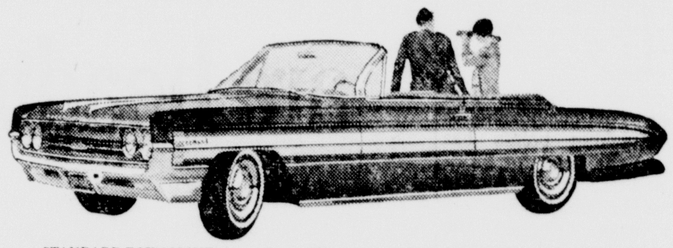

Also displayed are cutaway models of the Special's 155 horsepower, aluminum V-8 engine, first ever built in the United States, its new lightweight transmission and a visitor-operated power steering exhibit.

The spacious capacity of the 1961 Buick luggage compartment is revealed to the Motorama visitor by an animated exhibit. At the touch of a button, the base of the deep trunk, which provides more than 18 cubic feet of space, rises to reveal its cargo of luggage and sports equipment more than ample for a vacation-bound family of six.

Convenience, Styling Feature Exhibit Of Home Appliances

Fresh new styling concepts, combined with an array of convenience design features to make life easier for the homemaker, keynote home appliances being shown by Frigidaire at General Motors Motorama of 1961.

Herman F. Lehman, GM vice president and Frigidaire general manager, emphasized that many design advancements, previously included in top models only, have been extended throughout the entire line, even in the area of budget class appliances.

On display at the Motorama in six colorful, ultra-modern settings are 37 representative Frigidaire household products, including refrigerators, food freezers, dishwashers, automatic washers and dryers, built-in appliances, room air conditioners and food waste disposers. In addition, there are three animated appliance displays.

Frost-Proof freezing is available in five refrigerator-freezer combinations. Of these, there are three Imperial models with 13 and 15-cubic-foot capacity and two 13-cubic-foot medium-priced DeLuxe units. Also, three upright food freezers have Frost-Proof systems, including a 12-cubic-foot DeLuxe model. DeLuxe and Imperial units with 16-cubic-feet of capacity round out Frost-Proof freezer models.

Pioneered by Frigidaire designers, frostless freezing is regarded as the most important advancement in refrigeration in the past decade. It not only eliminates messy defrosting completely but provides more frozen food storage capacity in an unusual manner. Tests show that the big bottom freezer section of Frigidaire's new frostless 15-cubic-foot combination model will hold up to 21 more food packages than a conventional unit of the same size with one-half inch of frost inside. The new 16-cubic-foot upright Frost-Proof food freezer will store up to 75 more food packages than its conventional counterpart.

There are three new 11-cubic-foot refrigerators which are ideal for small kitchens, apartments or mobile homes. These well-proportioned refrigerators are 30 inches wide instead of the previous 28, but 4¼ inches lower than comparable 1960 elevens. The door is flush hinged, permitting neat corner installation.

Cleanability is the keynote of 1961 free-standing range design with the pullout oven voted by a wide margin as the candidate most helpful to the homemaker. This type of oven pulls out just like a drawer so that the homemaker can clean it without stooping, kneeling or stretching. Also there is a high-wall broiler grill that practically eliminates oven spattering during broiling.

Frigidaire's electric range line is highlighted by four Flair models, which have the smart built-in look and feature ovens at above-counter height with unique glass oven doors that glide up out of the way. Although they have a built-in appearance, these models slide into position as easily as regular free-standing units.

Built-in ranges also are available in a variety of models. There are double and single wall ovens, some with French doors, Drop-Leaf doors and pull-out ovens for easy cleaning. Cooking tops are available with remote controls. Another type surface cooking unit folds back out of the way when not in use, leaving the countertop free as work area.

Unique folding console back panel design, important advancements in no-vent drying and a wide variety of convenience features for the homemaker are featured in Frigidaire's laundry equipment line.

All washers have underwater dispensers for handling detergents, soaps, powder or liquid bleach and dye, automatically. Many models also have a rinse conditioner and fabric softener dispenser, a feature optional on all other models in the line. All washer tubs and dryer drums are finished in procelain enamel.

Frigidaire washers have a unique three-ring pump agitator, the first ever designed specifically for an automatic, that somersaults clothes to gently bathe out deep dirt. Lint, dirt and scum are floated away and down the drain. Seven washers have Frigidaire's exclusive automatic "baby care" soak and wash cycle. Wash-and-wear cycles are incorporated in most washers and all dryers in the line.

Undercounter and free-standing dishwashers feature smart new styling, added convenience, and simplified installation. Racks in the dishwashers are built to hold large pots and pans, and even baking sheets, so that all the dishes and utensils used in an entire day by an average family of four may be washed in a single load. Both racks roll out for full accessibility.

The washing action is even more effective than ever. Dishes are thoroughly washed and rinsed by a spray tube mounted horizontally between the upper and lower racks. This unit revolves at high speed spraying 1,800 walls of water per minute directly on the surface of dishes.

Mobile models are highlighted by large-capacity front-loading Dishmobile, which can be converted into a built-in undercounter unit later if desired. Two other top-loading units, although in the economy class, are packed with conveniences.

Erasing the "mystery" connected with choosing a room air conditioner, Frigidaire has designed and designated 10 basic 1961 models specifically for three types of home installation — for bedroom, living-family room, or multi-room.

For use in bedrooms, there are, new room air conditioners available with capacities ranging from 6,000 to 9,000 BTUs for cooling average areas from 270 to 385 square feet. For living or family rooms, unit capacities are from 8,300 to 12,000 BTUs for average areas from 345 square feet up to 500 square feet. High capacity units of from 10,000 to 19,000 BTUs will cool several rooms with average areas of 405 up to 790 square feet.

GM's Autos Given Many Road Tests

Long before the 1961 General Motors automobiles on display at the Motorama were first seen by the public they were being driven thousands of miles on all types of roads and under all types of weather conditions.

The cars, often disguised to look like a then current model or something quite different than what they really were, were being put through their paces on part of the world's most extensive privately owned automotive testing facilities.

These are the General Motors proving grounds which cover a total of 6,285 acres.

The main GM Proving ground is near Milford, Mich. It was established in 1924—the first in the industry—and now contains 4,011 acres. It has more than 65 miles of road constructed on different types of terrain and surfaced with a wide variety of materials. Its 37 buildings house test garages, a noise and vibration laboratory, chassis dynamometers, a weather station, and other testing aids.

For hot weather testing and for development testing when weather and road conditions prevent such operations in Michigan, General Motors sends its products to the 2-274-acre Desert Proving Ground 16 miles southeast of Mesa, Ariz. This facility has 11 buildings and nearly 16 miles of roads, including a five-mile circular banked track.

Starfire Is A Centerpiece

Convertible Has About Everything

Oldsmobile Division will exhibit its brilliant new Starfire sports convertible at the General Motors 1961 Motorama, which opens Jan. 6 at the Civic Auditorium.

Combining many exciting highlights of the 1961 Oldsmobile line with its own distinctive styling features, the Starfire will serve as a centerpiece for the division's 12-car Motorama exhibit, it was announced today by Jack F. Wolfram, Oldsmobile general manager and a vice president of General Motors Corp.

The Starfire, now in limited production in Lansing and South Gate, is a sports convertible equipped with an ultra high compression engine coupled with a specially coordinated power train for exceptional highway performance. Its interior incorporates bucket seats, top-grain leather trim, a sports-type control console and additional refinements in design.

Built on a Super 88 chassis with a 123-inch wheelbase, the Starfire features many of the Oldsmobile 98 characteristics, including the 98 grille and rear-end design.

However, the Starfire has several styling features of its own. For instance, two slim parallel mouldings are centered on the hood, and the side moulding treatment features a four-inch band of brush-textured aluminum which sweeps rearward from the front fender-tips. A distinctive Starfire nameplate is mounted on the forward section of each fender.

Inside, the sports-car motif is even more distinctive. A power console is centered between the bucket front seats.

The console houses a brightly-chromed Hydra-Matic control lever and illuminated shift position indicator as well as central controls for the electrically-powered windows. A tachometer is mounted on the inclined forward surface of the console.

An extra storage compartment is located at the rear of the console and front seat courtesy lights are on each side, at the floor level.

The driver's bucket seat is electrically powered for four-way adjustment, with the control switch located on the outer side of the seat just above floor level.

Although the rear seat extends the full width of the car, the bucket-seat motif is retained by the tasteful pleated treatment of the leather upholstery.

But innovations on the Starfire are not limited to its styling characteristics.

With a special coordination of power train elements, the Starfire's engine delivers considerably greater power to the rear axle.

Contributing factors to this increase in operation include a high performance camshift, a differential ratio of 3.42 to 1, and ultra high engine compression ratio and a standard equipment dual-exhaust system.

The combination results in the delivery of a decidedly stronger torque force to the car's rear-wheels for spectacular performance.

The Starfire engine, with its 394-cubic-inch piston displacement, also is equipped with a four-barrel carburetor. A distinctive chrome-plated air cleaner covers the Starfire's carburetor and the valve covers and oil filter cap as also chromed.

Additional standard equipment on the Starfire is Oldsmobile's new Hydra-Matic transmission with Accel-A-Rotor action.

The show model Starfire at the San Francisco Motorama is especiall finished in a highly lustrous medium blue pearl, with an interior of harmonizing upholstery and appointments. Its bright white convertible top contracts perfectly with the basic body color.

CARGO SPACE—With more than 73 cubic feet of cargo space the Oldsmobile F-85 station wagon can serve many transportation purposes. This model has a luggage rack. There is an aluminum V-8 engine that is designed to perform on lower-cost gasoline. This a rear gate that makes it easy to load. A person can reach easily into the cargo compartment.

Carburetor Test Devices On Show

Sharp turns at high speeds, sudden stops, jack-rabbit starts, forward and reverse rocking, and other severe driving experiences are among the testing techniques for carburetors shown in the Motorama exhibit of Rochester Products Division of General Motors.

Other tests aimed at developing a carburetor which will perform equally well under any driving condition are illustrated. These include driving in extreme heat at GM's Desert Proving Ground and at high altitude on Pike's Peak.

Rochester Products carburetors stemming from the basic single, two and four jet models for 1961 General Motors cars.

New V-8 Powers Old's F-85

The high performance, economical six-passenger Oldsmobile F-85, Oldsmobile's new, smaller entry in the low price field, is powered by Oldsmobile's exclusive and exciting Rockette aluminum V-8 engine.

Rated at 155 horsepower, the 215-cubic inch engine has one of the highest power-to-weight ratios in the industry. The basic engine weighs only 350 pounds, or approximately half as much as the larger Oldsmobile Rocket engines.

The Rockette engine has a dual-throat carburetor. Designed to operate efficiently on regular-grade gasoline, it has a compression ratio of 8.75 to 1. The engine's cylinder bore diameter is 3.5 inches and its exceptionally short stroke of 2.8 inches means less piston travel per mile, with consequently reduced cylinder bore and piston ring wear.

Low, full-width loading height and new proportions vastly improve the luggage compartments of 1961 Chevrolets. Reduced fore and aft dimensions together with increased width and depth contribute to much improved accessibility.

FRIGIDAIRE KITCHEN FOR MOTORAMA

A young homemaker touches a concealed control and pantry and utility storage shelves pivot out of wall. The range with swing-up oven doors appears to be floating over a bed of growing plants. The unit is mounted on a slim metal pedestal.

Among elaborate anti-corrosion measures taken to protect the undersurface of 1961 Corvair bodies is the spraying of enclosed areas with a compound consisting of aluminum particles suspended in a wax base.

Ideas were worth more than a half million dollars to workers in 34 Chevrolet plants across the nation during the first half of 1960. They conerned acceptable suggestions for improving manufacturing procedures.

From the time General Motors began building passenger cars through June 30, 1960, the company had produced a total of 65,647,592 automobiles. In the same period, a total of 13,523,788 commercial vehicles were produced.

Cadillac Started Tail Fins

Tail fins and Cadillac have been synonymous since 1948, the year Cadillac introduced this famous rear-end styling to the automotive industry.

As with so many engineering and styling developments, tail fins immediately became a controversial issue. Until that introduction, stylists had concerned themselves more with the front end and side treatment of their automobiles.

With the Cadillac rear fender fin, however, the "going away" look added another dimension to the over-all styling story. The current importance of this aspect of automotive styling is seen readily in the 1961 Cadillac with its sweeping tail fins and carefully fitted taillamps which add to the integral styling theme.

Actually, the story behind the first tail fin dates to 1941, prior to the start of World War II.

Harley Earl, General Motors' chief stylist, hit upon the idea of fins for automobles while watching the Army Air Force's P-38 Lightning.

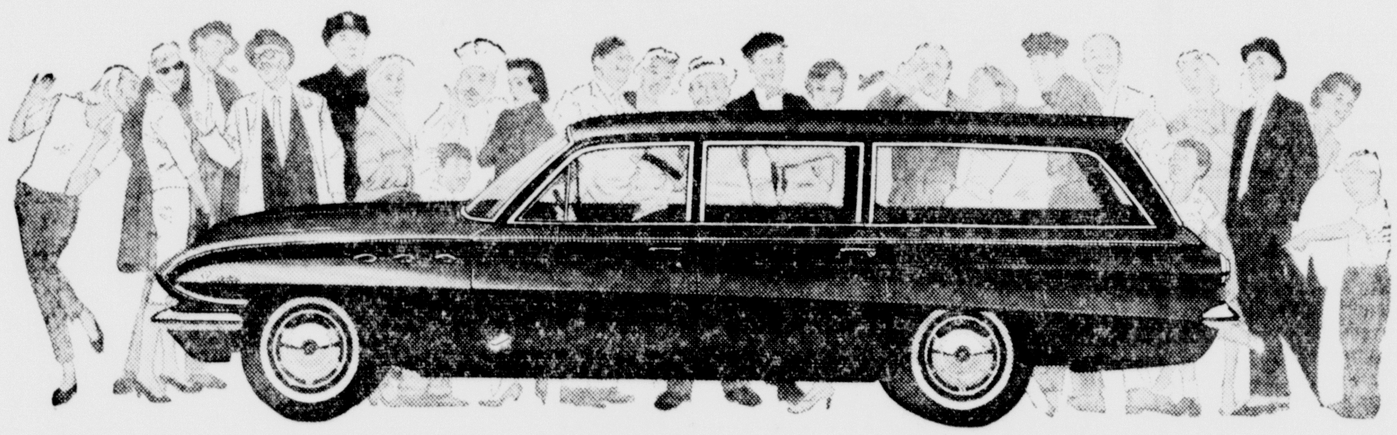

COOKING IS MORE FUN

Cooking can be more fun on this 1961 Frigidaire electric range because it is so easy to keep clean. The oven slides out like a drawer for drudgery-free cleaning on this 40-inch range. Controls are grouped funtionally on the glass-covered back panel.

What a reaction to Buick's

MODA D' ORO—This is the 1961 Pontiac Bonneville convertible called the Fashion of Gold. The auto feathers a golden pearl exterior finish, gold-plated instrument panel and trim and gold lame cloth with hand-buffed ivory and gold leather upholstery.

ALLIGATOR JAW — Pontiac's "alligator jaw" Tempest display will be on view at the General Motors Motorama starting tomorrow at the Civic Auditorium in San Francisco. The engine and the underside of the body can be viewed in this display.

30-Minute Musical Due

"The Magic Man," a 30-minute musicalette in fun and fantasy which gives a modern twist to the days of old when knighthood was in flower, will be one of the feature attractions at the 1961 General Motors Motorama.

The show, created and directed by Cy Feuer and Ernest Martin, will be performed six times daily in the Motorama which will appear—admission free—at Civic Auditorium and Brooks Hall from January 7 through 15.

The cast of 50 people presents a pleasing boy-girl story with mystery, intrigue, romance, comedy, song and dance. Kings and queens and a pretty princess, knights in battle and an evil magician all carry on in a moated castle and a forest primeval.

This is the first venture of Feuer and Martin, producers of "Can-Can" and other Broadway hits, into the field of musical showmanship. They describe the show as a "new assembly of show business techniques." It presents an entertaining story and, at the same time, an interesting display of GM's 1961 automobiles.

All of this is accomplished on a 66 by 58 foot specially-designed stage. The cars swing through the air toward the audience on giant "grasshopper" arms.

Music and lyrics for "The Magic Man" are by Robert Haymes, composer, singer, actor, and writer of special material for many Hollywood and Broadway performers.

1961 Pontiacs Present Dramatic New Line

Pontiac's dynamic new line of 1961 automobiles will be displayed in the General Motors' Motorama.

Representing new styling concepts and significant engineering advances, the 1961 Pontiac sets new standards in car beauty, reliability, performance and motoring comfort. It is the most exciting car in the 53-year history of Pontiac Motor Division.

Finished in a brilliant array of Magic-Mirror acrylic lacquer colors, the 1961 Pontiacs will be offered in 15 different body styles, comprising the Bonneville, Star Chief, Ventura and Catalina series.

The new Pontiacs are lower, shorter and narrower, yet actual passenger compartment space has been increased. Pontiac's famous wide track design, prevailing in each series, is proportionately increased. Also important among the car's completely new engineering features is a new perimeter frame, new front and rear suspension systems and a lighter, more efficient V-8 engine.

Pontiac's new styling approach for 1961 conveys an overall impression of distinguished simplicity and unmistakable identity.

Accentuating the wide, low front end appearance is an expansive hood, channeled on either side of its centerline, which tapers forward with narrow fenders to meet a dominant twin grille of three dimensional design.

New 1961 Pontiac customers with a taste for elegance may select from four custom designed Bonneville models: a two-door sport coupe, four-door Vista hard-top, a convertible, and a four-door, six passenger Safari station wagon.

Standard equipment on Bonnevilles include electric clock, instrument panel cushion, passenger assist rail, courtesy lamp, and dual ash trays; luxurious interior fabrics of wool, Jeweltone Morrokide, and genuine leather with deep pile carpeting; new custom steering wheel, deluxe wheel discs, and aluminized tail pipes.

Spacious seats covered with beautiful nylon faced cloth and Jeweltone Morrokide bring living room comfort to Star Chief interiors. Other standard "extras" include: two-speed electric windshield wipers, distinctive instrument panel decor, custom steering wheel, electric clock, dual ash trays, deluxe wheel discs, and aluminized tail pipes.

The versatile, lower priced Catalina series, distinctive in its styling simplicity, includes a two-door sport sedan, four-door sedan, two-door sport coupe, four-door Vista hardtop, convertible, and four-door six- and nine-passenger Safari station wagons.

Contributing largely to the increase in passenger compartment space is a new perimeter frame with parallel side rails that completely encircle the passenger compartment. Five cross bars mount engine and chassis components and add structural rigidity.

GM's Firebird III Is First Space Age Inspired Auto

General Motors' Firebird III —the first space age inspired car — fascinates motorists and technical experts alike with its combination of simplicity and complexity and its exciting preview of automotive ideas of tomorrow.

Quickly becoming a world famed symbol of American automotive imagination in action, Firebird III is making its first public appearance in California with the GM Motorama of 1961.

Firebird III has more new design and engineering ideas than either of its predecessors," he said. "It demonstrates the amazing progress made since we introduced the first Firebird five years ago."

Firebird III has an aerodynamic fiber glass body and is pearlescent silver-gold in color. It has a wide, tapered nose, twin plastic bubble canopies over the passengers and seven fins clustered around the rear of the body, dominated by a high dorsal fin at the tail.

The car's most significant single feature, its control system, features combined and improved versions of "no-hands" steering and the single-stick Unicontrol introduced separately by GM research Laboratories in February and April of 1958.

The wing-shaped Unicontrol handle is mounted atop a four-inch control stick located in the center of the car and is easily operated by either passenger. It combines all steering, braking, accelerating and parking functions.

At a touch of a button, Autoguide takes over steering control by electroncially following a low frequency powered cable in the highway. In addition, a constant road speed can be maintained by push-buttoning a third electronic control—Cruisecontrol. This produces completely automatic guidance and speed control for the car.

Other primary features are:

1. Use of a dual engine system which employs a 10-horsepower aluminum engine to drive all accessories and frees the 225 horsepower Whirlfire gas turbine engine to drive the rear wheels.

2. The most advanced passenger compartment ever designed, offering maximum access room and maximum comfort.

3. An improved gas turbine engine which is lighter, more compact, 10 per cent more powerful and consumes 25 per cent less fuel than the gas turbine engine in Firebird II.

4. A new air-oil suspension system that reduces pitching on bumpy roads and offers improved cornering and skid control.

5. New Turb-Al brakes with a revolutionary anti-skid device that prevents wheel lock-up and resultant skidding.

6. The first single dial electronic temperature system, combining all conventional automatic heater and air conditioning controls. Through electronics it can maintain a single temperature setting even though the car be driven from the North Pole to the Equator.

7. A centralized nerve center which acts as a brain for the car's advanced controls that folds partly out of the car for quick maintenance.

The Firebird was conceived and styled by Harvey J. Earl, who since has retired as GM vice president in charge of styling staff. Earl is now styling consultant to GM.

The architecture of the car is in three functional units:

1. The nose section houses a myriad of accessories and the small piston engine which powers them.

2. The passenger compartment, wrapped tightly in the middle portion of the body, is entered by gull wing doors on power operated hinges which swing diagonally up to offer effortless passenger entry. Special contour seats equipped with power operated headrests and footrests allow the car to be low and yet comfortable. Height at the top of the bubbles (which give passengers 360 degree vision) is 44.8 inches.

3. The power compartment, located behind the passenger compartment houses the new gas turbine engine, transmission, fuel tanks and special electronic "nerve center." The fins emphasize the powerplant and also act as high speed aerodynamic stabilizers. Height at the top of the dorsal fin is 57.3 inches.

Kitchen Planning Panorama Is Feature Of Motorama

A panorama of kitchen planning and interior decorating ideas—including a cavalcade of four glamorous designer kitchens—will be a highlight of the 1961 Generals Motors Motorama.

In addition to the fabulous "Ideas For Living" exhibit—a five-room showcase studded with new design concepts for the home—the Frigidaire exhibition area will feature three beautiful kitchens designed by three of the country's leading magazines.

Actually, Motorama visitors will find a collection of 12 home-type areas open for inspection. Included in the array are a variety of up-to-the-minute cooking, barbecue, dining, laundry and living centers.

"Ideas For Living," conceived by the GM Styling Staff, presents exciting ideas which are imaginative, yet down-to-earth, utilizing products and materials of today. The exhibit includes an all-electric Frigidaire kitchen and laundry which is no dream, though at first glance it would seem so.

The other three Frigidaire kitchens were designed and planned with the editors of Better Homes and Gardens, Living For Young Homemakers and McCall's magazine. They serve as a guide and inspiration to homemakers thinking about remodeling their old kitchens or building a new house.

Included in the three kitchens are dozens of intriguing, practical ideas in appliances, equipment, materials, decor and arrangement.

For example, one of the kitchens, called the Hideaway," takes its name from an unusual design approach. There are three principal centers — kitchen, laundry, and barbecue and planning—built around a glass enclosed dining court. Wooden accordion doors enclose each section when not in use. Because each area can be hidden away when not in use, open shelves can be used for storage instead of conventional cabinets.

Another kitchen cleverly combines kitchen and home laundry in such a way that the food preparation and cooking area is completely apart from a combination home laundry-children's play area. The latter features a fence that unfolds from the wall, completely enclosing the play area so that toddlers are always in sight, but not underfoot while kitchen duties are underway.

PLENTY OF SPACE—There is always plenty of space for frozen foods in Frigidaire's 1961 frost-proof refrigerator-freezers because space-robbing frost never builds up to crowd out food packages.
